Jersey co. Sharah, that recently won first prize and gold medal in the butter tests at Tring, made a record that is worthy of special mention. She gave in twenty-four hours 53 pounds 14 ounces of milk, which yielded 3 pounds 19 ounces of butter, and was 128 days in milk at time of test. She won first prize of £20 in class for cows weighing over 900 pounds, in which there of considerable reputation, and her of considerable r ing over 900 pounds, in which there were thirty entries. Second prize went to a Shorthorn, 25 days in milk, that fielded 52 pounds 2 ounces milk and made 2 pounds 15% ounces butter. strong character. Mrs. Stevens luherit-Sharab was also awarded the gold ed her father's teaching ability and medal offered by the English Jersey her mother's executive power. When a Cattle society for the best Jersey in child, she loved the woods, quiet the butter test

In the milking trials for cows over 900 pounds weight she won first linary and Foxcroft academy and after prize for milk yield alone, her yield of 53 pounds 14 ounces being exceeded by a Lincoln Red cow (75 pounds) and by a Shorthorn (64 pounds 1 ounce). The first prize cow in this class was band to his home near Portland. Mrs. only 69 days in milk and the second prize cow 23 days in milk, which gave Orchard in the summer of 1875 and them a decided advantage over Sharab, there assisted for the organization of the Jersey, which was 128 days (over the Maine W. C. T. U. Her first office four months) in milk.

Sharab's butter yield of 3 pounds 94," union. She next became president, and ounces is one of the greatest ever made in a public test. Her dam, Sherbet II., made I pound 15% ounces from 28 pounds 9 ounces milk, 153 days after calving; her grandam, Sherbet, 2 pounds 5% ounces from 29 pounds 12 ounces milk, 110 days after calving. and her great-grandam, Sherry, 2 pounds S% ounces from 41 pounds I onnce milk. All these cows were owned by Dr. Watney. Sharab was born Dec. 16, 1896, sired by Squib's Lad, 5732, and descended on both sides from Speck, a member of Mr. Philip Danncey's herd in 1808.-Jersey

Should Calve at Two Years. The beifer should drop her first calf when she is about two years old, as this will make a more productive cow than when delayed until another year, When the first calf is not dropped until the third year, one calf and one year of milking are lost, and the better acquires a tendency to use her surplus earlier breeding.

Some Cow Notes. In the dairy cow we are sometimes disappointed when we had every reason to believe we would have an animai of extra qualities. I have in mind | For years she has been the Maine repnow one cow that was a thorough dis- resentative in the national conference York Dairyman. My cows, with the hospitals, asylums, etc. For three exception of two, were sired by pure bred bulls. I have nothing on my farm Council of Women, and when she recows before they are born." I believe that and work on that theory. I feed the has always been hay tea, but good milk right from the dropped. I don't believe that. A calf bers. that won't learn to drink at four days ought to go to the shambles, as it will always have its head turned in the wrong direction. After the cow has her-first calf she should be milked at least twelve months and then go dry six weeks. The feed I seem to get the best results from is a mixture of equal parts by measure of ground oats and buckwheat middlings, with clover hay and sliage, and I have tried almost ev-out the feed a profit of nearly $55.

Tie to One Breed. In my judgment one makes a mistake to cross breed, says H. E. Cook in Rural New Yorker. Our experience is confined to the use of a single Jersey bull on grade Holstein cows. The beifers are now coming into milk. Their milk on the whole is better than the Holstein milk, and they are persistent milkers, but the flow is lessened. The most disappointing feature of the cross, however, is the lack of uniformity in type and size. We have Holstein belfers, Guernsey belfers and Jersey helfers and some not belonging to either class. Classified and put by themselves, they look well enough and will make very good cows. They do not possess the vitality of the Holsteins, nor are they as large consumers. I do not regret the attempt, because i have been very much interested to studying results, but I would not do so ngain, nor would I advise any one else to try it. I firmly believe that cross breeding is a mistake. No one has yet succeeded in fixing the good qualities of each breed in the offspring, and probably he never will. On the contrary, the effect seems to be to intensify their weaknesses. Where one has a mixed herd without special reference to breed the use of a pure bred sire of any breed, if he is prepotent, will have a marked effect and a salutary effect on the young animals. The wise thing to do, it seems to me, is to the to the breed that meets our demand and then stick to it. There will be failures enough. We never hear of the blanks that are drawn, and every farm and breeder gets his share.

It's Her Performance That Counts. It is not necessarily the case that a cow be of pure dairy breed in order to be a profitable dulry cow. It is the individual daily performance that should be the guide in selecting the dairy cow.

But good goods never come too late, and owing to the delay in the Eastern freights, our shipment of small goods did not arrive until today and now that the holidays are over we are willing to make a great sacrifice on these goods in order to make room for another shipment that is to follow shortly and we Needham because musicians Needham and must have them, and everyone who wants a good piano, a sweet toxed piano, an artistic piano, a durable piano, find it under the name Needham. Arthur Frazer says the Needham has as good action as he has ever used; and Mr. Page, the baritone soloisf, says that the tone is exquisite, and has placed an order with us for one to be delivered at his home in Philadelphia. In fact the Needham has no rival, and that is why we have just shipped a carload from the factory, and our last lot are beauties of new and artistic design :
