Compass That Steers by Stars.

One of the most important and farreaching inventions to the maritime world ever recorded, says the San Francisco Call, has been patented by Captain Robert T. Lawless of the Steamship Australia of the Oceanic Steamship Australia of the Oceanic Steamship company. The Lawless in sentence of the Steamship company. The Lawless in world is called a "stellar compass" and "great circle course projector." By this invention Captain Lawless asserts it is possible to steer a ship after dusk by fixing the compass on a particular star, thereby insuring the straight course of the vessel throughout the night.
