Citizens of Roseburg will remember a man named Payne who was in Roseburg last October and created great interest at the county fair and in the city by the numerous performances of his feet. A dispatch from Butte, Montana, says: "One of the most unique methods of holding up that could possibly be imagined was perpetrated shortly before 2 leased o'clock this morning, when C. Payne, an armless man, entered the gambling Stewart, administratrix, filed final achall of the California Club, and with a count and Monday, April 6, set for day 44-calibra revolver between his toes of final order by the county judge. compelled the dealers at one of the faro tables to give up $5 which the crippled man had lost earlier in the evening. When Payne stepped into the middle of the room, and at the same time flourished the weapon at the end of his foot, gamblers and players scattered in a hurry. Policemen called to the place found Payne with a razor between the toes of one local and a big pistol between the toes of the other. He was arrested without difficulty and placed in jail."
