ST. LOUIS FAIR.

Dedictory Address by President Roosevelt.

The rites which present the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to the world were performed in the Liberal Arts Building says a St. Louis dispatch of Thursday's date, with all the dignity and splendor befitting such an occasion. A parade of 11,000 soldiers down Lindell boulevard to the World's Fair grounds formed a brilliant prelude to the ceremony of dedication. After this prelude over 60,000 people crowded into the big auditorium, where, in the presence of official representatives of all the civilized nations of the world, the words of dedication were spoken by the President of the United States. As the last syllable fell from the speaker's lips and the dedication of one of the world's greatest fairs was completed, 60,000 voices arose in a prodigious haze of applause. The weather was the only disappointing feature of the day. The troops mobilized early in a sprinkling of rain and marched in a temperature close to the freezing point. For a few moments snow fell, but only enough of it to give visible evidence of the temperature. In the grandstand men in their heavy overcoats shivered, while women garbed in elegant but inadequate laces, suffered much more severely. It was all taken good-naturedly however.

FOREIGN SECTIONS DEDICATED.

St. Louis, May 1.—"International Day," the second of the trio dedicated to the Louisiana Exposition, broke fair with promise of better weather than that of yesterday. The day was devoted to greetings to the responses by representatives of the foreign nations, which will have buildings at the fair, the proceedings constituting the dedication of the foreign sections.

The history of the Louisiana Purchase under its three sovereignties—Spain, France and the United States—was suggested in the appearance of three speakers, Senor Ojeda, the Spanish Minister, M. J. Jusserand, the French Ambassador, and D. R. Francis, president of the exposition. The Liberal Arts building, where the exercises took place, still wore its dress of yesterday—the mingled colors of Spain, France and the United States, and in the speech the trinity of interests in the exposition was noted.

Italy Sends War-ships to Salonica.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—A state of siege has been proclaimed at Salonica and extraordinary military precautions have been ordered everywhere in the empire, as it is anticipated that outrages similar to those perpetrated there yesterday may be attempted at Constantinople and elsewhere. The action of the Macedonian committee in directing attacks on foreign property was evidently with the view of provoking the intervention of the powers. It is feared the outrages may lead to massacres of Macedonians and Bulgarians by Mussulmans, who are in a state of dangerous excitement.

Baseball Team Practicing.

The Albany baseball boys are hard at work and expect to be in fine shape for their opening games in this city on May 9 and 10. The Schedule has been changed and the games intended to be played at Salem May 23 and 31, have been cancelled on account of the grounds not being in condition. The Albany boys donned their new uniforms for the first time last evening and present a fine appearance. The suits are of dark blue with the letter "A" in white on the left side of the shirt. The suits were made by James Coon, the tailor, and are substantial. Jack Snyder and Fred Weatherford will probably do duty behind the bat. Dogger and McFarland have several new fangled curves that will puzzle the Leagues for a while any way. Percy holds down first base, Whitney presides at second and Danforth will watch the other corner. Carter Lee has the contract to stop everything stopable in the infield, and Blyven, Kupert and Rowell will make the grand stand plays in the suburbs of the diamond. Several others who have read about the game in a book are casting food eyes at the sport they love so well and will be there with bells at the proper time. The "Home-Run" team is now ready for business and with several hundred dollars in the treasury will start out in a few days to show the other clubs how to play the national game.—Albany Herald.

Bronze Turkeys.

How to mate and care for the turkey is a subject that will interest most persons engaged in raising this variety of fowls. It has been the experience of turkey raisers generally that the turkey is a hard fowl to raise, that it requires a different treatment from the ordinary barn yard fowl.

The Bronze is far and away the most popular variety of turkeys yet introduced. Their extreme hardness, grand size and beautiful plumage make them favorites with both fanciers and market-men. The females are fine egg producers and gentle mothers, rearing a large proportion of their young. The great demand and fine prices that turkeys have commanded for the past few months should encourage the average farmer to breed more and better turkeys.

To those readers who may not fully understand how to select, mate, and care for their breeders, I submit the following:

No matter whether we are to breed for exhibition or for market, only the strongest should be selected. All birds with crooked breastbones should be rejected. I know from experience that such defect will reproduce itself to a great extent in the progeny. All matings should be not akin if we expect strong, vigorous points. Under no consideration should immature birds be used for breeding.

If we are to mate for exhibition, only the largest specimens procurable should be used. The male should be of the largest type that can be had. He should be extra brilliant in general color, tall and rangy, and sturdy in build; very large in frame and bone; head very large and wattles well developed; breast very full, broad and deep; back well arched, broad and strong; body deep and long. Wings should be distinctly barred with white in all primary feathers. Secondary feathers the same for lower two-thirds—then as we approach the top of the wing the color changes rapidly to a bronzy brown with but little admixture of white. Tail black—each feather well penciled with brown, ending in a strong black and bronze band, with a wide edging of white. Main tail coverts should be black, penciled with brown, ending in a strong black band and a wide edging of white. Lesser coverts, well penciled and ending in a wide, brilliant bronze band, edged with white, a narrow black band dividing the bronze from white, giving the two colors a very distinct appearance.

The female should be of the same good qualities, but less brilliant in general color, and having the breast feathers edged with white. Such a mating (if bred from the right kind of ancestors) is sure to produce the desired results.

If we are to breed solely for market purposes, grand color is not necessary, and birds lower in build are just as desirable. But they should be strong and vigorous and very compact in build.

Breeding turkeys should not be allowed to become fat. From now on they should be fed sparingly on whole oats and wheat, and an occasional feed of corn. Broken oyster shells should be within their reach to insure good digestion and sound-shelled eggs.

The breeders should be kept perfectly free from lice.

I am aware of the fact that many breeders give up turkey raising in disgust, and attribute their failure to "bad luck." Eternal vigilance is the only way to success in any undertaking, and luck is a thing of the past. At least, I find it so in raising turkeys.—Farm Poultry.

Marie Ware Heard From.

The latest thing in the Marie Ware commissioner case is that the young woman has been informed of the charges made in the columns of the Oregonian and the Telegram against H. G. McKinley and her and that the young woman will return from San Francisco, where she has been visiting, and will make her accusers refute their statements or see them for $25,000 damages. SENDS WORD TO GUARD.

The Guard this morning received the following telegram from Miss Ware: "San Francisco, May 1. "I have just read the notices in the Oregonian saying my disappearance was mysterious, etc, which is absolutely false. Will be at my home in Eugene on or before May 8, the date for the termination of my visit here."

"Marie L. Ware."

When Miss Ware arrives home she will undoubtedly make it warm for her accusers.—Eugene Guard.

Directors' Meeting

The Board of Directors of the 2nd Southern Oregon District Agricultural Society will meet at F. G. Micelli's office in Roseburg on Monday, the 4th day of May, 1903, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year, and transacting any other business that may come before the meeting.

Another Medford Enterprise.

Medford's latest and one of its most laudable enterprises is rapidly receiving its finishing touches at the hands of Mr. C. E. Gaddis, who with his assistant, M. L. Parsons, is busily engaged in setting up the machinery in his Creamery on A street preparatory to commencing operations on May 1. The building, erected for the special use of this new industry and just completed, is a neat commodious frame structure, with large airy offices and receiving rooms on the main floor, and ample space in the basement to accommodate the vats, boiler, engine and other machinery necessary for the manufacture of first-class butter. Along with this machinery, which arrived last week, was received a large number of separators which are being distributed among the farmers as fast as practicable thus insuring a large and steady patronage from the outset.

Mr. Gaddis has been identified with the creamery business in Southern Oregon for a number of years, being the owner of the Roseburg creamery for which establishment he has drawn a considerable supply of cream from the vicinity of Medford and other Jackson county points. The dairy products of the Rogue River valley have recently, however, been rapidly increasing and as a result the Medford creamery, erected at a cost of about $3000, has become a necessity at the same time affording our dairy-men a steady and convenient market.

The new creamery will be one of the best in the state and doubtless before many weeks have passed its full capacity, of 1500 pounds will be pushed to the limit daily. Mr. Parsons, the butter maker, is an old and experienced creamery man and a high class product may be expected.—Medford Success.

LATE NEWS SUMMARIZED.

State, General and Foreign News Condensed for the Perusal of the Busy Reader.

Leatitis from the plague are increasing with frightful rapidity. This mortality throughout India now exceeds 30,000 a week.

Stuart Robson, the actor, died April 29, and was buried May 1 at Cohasset, Massachusetts. The interment will take place in the same cemetery in which Lawrence Barrett is buried.

The Crescent Powder Works plant on Piny Creek, ten miles south of Holi-daysburg, Pa., was wrecked by an explosion Thursday afternoon, and eight men are reported as killed and three fatally injured.

Through the carelessness of the motor-man a Calumet electric car, in Chicago, was struck by a Lake Shore express train and hurled from the track and demolished, injuring six passengers, two severely.

Fire started in a dry kiln of the Western Lumber Company, Friday morning, at 5:20 o'clock, and the mills of the Western Lumber Co., the planing mill of J. A. Martin and Co., and the Union Stock Yards, were all destroyed. The loss is estimated at about $250,000 with but little insurance.

The New Erie Press of April 30, reports two fights in the Balkans between Turkish troops and the insurgents as occurring Tuesday. In one at Osmajid, the insurgents lost 54 killed and wounded and the Turks 12. At Nourokop, the Turks surprised the enemy, inflicting a loss of 46, losing but one.

Agent John Peterson, of the United States Express Office at Britt, Iowa, was found gagged and a gunny sack over his head, by his son, and $10,000 of the express company's money gone. Peterson claims there were two men who compelled him to open the safe. No clue to the robbers has been obtained.

A hard tipped Wednesday evening as Earl R. Wesson, a Sophomore in the Oregon Agricultural College, vaulted it and he sat heavily on its leg. His body was penetrated to the depth of eight inches. The dressing of the wound was completed at one o'clock this afternoon, but the chances for recovery are very slender. Rawson was a novice at hurdling, this occasion being his second attempt.

An unknown negro, aged about 17 years, was lynched by a mob of angry farmers near the village of Santa Fe, Ill., Monday, for attempting to assault the 10 year old daughter of Farmer Davis, and this was followed by a general onslaught upon a colony of negroes living in tents who were engaged in bridge construction work. The tents were burned and many negroes were shot, but so far as known none was killed. Hundreds of shots were exchanged, but no whites were hurt.

At the invitation of Mr. Wm. Zeigler, the National Geographical Society will send a representative with the Zeigler Arctic Expedition, who will be the chief of the scientific staff and have entire charge of the scientific work of the expedition. The society has appointed Mr. William J. Peters, of the United States Geographical Survey, as its representative. Mr. Peters is one of the most experienced zoographers and scientists of the United States Geological Survey. In 1901 he made a trip with the dog sleds of over 1000 miles in Arctic Alaska.
