The Rose Hose Company held their annual election last Friday evening, at which time the following officers were elected: Pres., Scott Landers; vice pres., W. E. Sovern; Sec., Roy Sloper; Fiscal Sec., —; Treasure, C. S. Jackson; Foreman, M. F. Rice; Assistant Foreman, Henry Worthington. Members of board of Fire delegates, C. S. Jackson, Scott Landers, Roy Sloper. Contrary to former custom of the department, the Rose Hose Company nominated a candidate for chief engineer in the person of J. G. Stevenson, they also nominated W. E. Sovern for assistant chief. Joe Sykes a member of the Rose Hose Company has held the office of chief Engineer for the past year with W. H. Carroll a member of Umqua Hose Co. as assistant. Here-to fore it has been customary for the assistant chief to be promoted to chief and the opposite company to nominate the assistant chief, but the Rose Hose Company have decided to oppose this custom and attempt to elect both officers from their company.

Without Electric Lights.

The streets of Roseburg are bathed in utter darkness for a short time owing to an accident to the Roseburg Water and Light Company plant at Winchester. Friday afternoon, the 120 kilowatt generator armature caught fire and was totally destroyed. The cause for the fire is unknown. The accident is a very severe and unfortunate one, as it will be impossible to purchase a new machine short of San Francisco, and it is possible that one will have to be ordered from Chicago. As an armature weighs about 1090 lbs. cased and will have to be shipped by express the cartage of the machine will be quite expensive. However Manager Cockran telegraphed for a new machine to be expressed immediately, and it is expected to have every thing in running order by next Monday night.

Roseburg Lost.

In the base ball game between Roseburg and Eugene, at Eugene, yesterday, Roseburg lost, the score being 4 to 5. Salem won from Albany score 7 to 0. Following is the score by innings. Eugene, 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 0 2—5 Roseburg, 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0 2—4 Summers, the new pitcher was in the box for Roseburg. In the third inning Tailfero batted the ball over the fence. A large number of Roseburgers will go to Eugene on tonight's overland to ginger up the boys.

Rural Free Delivery.

On Wednesday, July 1, the citizens east of Roseburg will be blessed by having a rural free delivery route put in operation, with Ike Thornton as star router, who, we learn, has been appointed to the position, he having stood a very high examination according to the rules and regulations of the civil service examiners. The route, as laid out, is from Roseburg, up Roberts creek and over the divide, to Deer creek, and down Deer creek, to Roseburg. The route is 24 miles long, and all that is necessary to make it a success is for the citizens receiving mail along the route to put up their boxes so that the postman can take out the mail for other points and leave the daily mail. If there is one thing above all others having a tendency to make our citizens contented on the farm or ranch, it is receiving the daily mail.

High School Site.

At a recent meeting of the voters of Roseburg School District, a committee was appointed to select a site and submit plans for a High School building at Roseburg.

Gen. Lane's Treaty Tree.

It is a matter for regret says the Grants Pass Courier, that the landmarks of early Oregon history have not been better-preserved. Features whose interest would increase with the years have been suffered to be destroyed through ignorance or indifference. In 1853, there was some trouble with the Rogue River Indians, though the war did not occur until two years later. In 1853, General "Joe" Lane, whose name is inseparably connected with the history of Oregon, made a treaty with the Rogue River Indians on a spot which is now included within the present city limits of Grants Pass. He met the Indians under a black oak tree on Rogue river, just above "White Rock."

Old timers are still able to point out the stump of this tree, but the tree itself has been cut down and sawed into stove wood in these later years, probably, by some man who never heard of Joe Lane.

What is Osteopathy?

The question is asked, "what is Osteopathy?" The inquisitive citizen usually goes to their Medical Physician expecting to get an honest answer to their query, but answering for myself I get this information, the subject seeming to cause the Doctor considerable uneasiness but finally to get rid of me, he said, "a method of massage or "rubbing" of the skin, a kind of a faith cure, or Christian science. It don't amount to anything except for rheumatism."

When asked if it would cure paralysis, he replied: Well yes, "massage" is really the best thing for that, but I would use the Smidistat Monument Cure instead."

Look at this. I was advised by an American citizen to go to a foreigner to get a so-called substitute of Osteopathic treatment. Perhaps some would prefer a Chinaman. Would you? In conclusion I will say that I employed an honest and faithful Osteopathic physician, and never did I find him wanting. For two years I used this method of treatment in my family

IN STRAWBERRY TIME.

Various Delicacies Concoctions and Good Biscuit Dough Shortcakes.

The making of dainty desserts is an easy thing in strawberry time. Table Talk tells of some tempting arrangements, as follows:

Served Unhulled.—If of large size strawberries can be served after the French fashion, arranging on each plate ten or a dozen round a tiny cup containing powdered sugar. The berries are washed, but stems and hulls are left on, and they are eaten with the fingers.

Strawberry Float.—What is called a float needs a pint of mashed berries. The whites of four eggs are whipped until frothy, one-half of a cupful of powdered sugar is added and the whipping continued until very stiff. The crushed berries are then beaten in and the frothy mixture served heaped in glasses. It should not stand more than half an hour.

Strawberry Dumplings.—A rich biscuit dough is the basis for strawberry dumplings, three or four berries in each, while to the usual hard sauce as many crushed berries are beaten in as can be used without danger of separation.

Strawberry Popovers.—Popovers when carefully split as soon as taken from the oven, filled with a spoonful of the crushed fruit and served with the hard sauce make an easy and delicious dessert.

White Pudding With Strawberries.—A pudding made with cornstarch or gelatin can be molded in an oval form lined with lady fingers. When turned out it is prettily garnished with whole strawberries.

Strawberry Sponge.—A strawberry sponge calls for one-half of a box of gelatin soaked in one-half of a cupful of cold water, then dissolved in a hot sirup made by boiling together for one minute one cupful of water and one cupful of sugar; when cold one cupful of strawberry juice is added, and when quite thick the whipped whites of four eggs; all are then beaten together until thick and spongy.

Strawberry Shortcake.—Make a rich baking powder biscuit crust; bake in cakes cut out with a tumbler. When done, split, butter and close again, keeping hot until served. Open the cakes and fill with mashed and sweetened berries at the table as you serve them.

One of Herrmann's Tricks.

Not many months before his death Alexander Herrmann, the magician, was a guest at the famous but now defunct Whitechapel club, the rendezvous of Chicago Bohemians. On the night in question a venerable Japanese priest was present. In the course of a few tricks Herrmann picked up a deck of cards and asked some one to select a card. The seven of clubs was the card drawn from the pack, and it was shown to the spectators, but not to the magician. The card was replaced in the deck, which was shuffled, and then handed to one of the spectators.

"Look through the deck, please," said Herrmann.

The holder of the cards did as requested.

"Is the card that was drawn in the pack?" asked the wizard.

"No, sir," answered the spectator.

"What was the card?"

"The seven of clubs."

"Well, gentlemen," said Herrmann, "if one of you will kindly unlace the prelate's shoe you will find the card that has vanished from the pack."

After a smiling protest the Japanese priest unlaced his shoe, and there, to the amazement of all, was found the seven spot of clubs.—Rochester Post-Express.

A Double Barreled Joke.

The facetious boarder had the plot laid for a killing joke.

"It's a wonder," he said, "that you didn't serve up this hen, feathers and all."

"The next time," said the landlady, with marked emphasis, "I'll serve her, bill and all."

Causes.

"Success," I asserted sagely, "is due to our accurate judgment of human nature."

"And," retorted the man who always carries things to extremes, "to its inaccurate judgment of us."—Brooklyn Life.
