Football, Thanksgiving Day. Roseburg H. S. vs. Albany College.

The football team from Albany college will line up against our High school team, in this city, Thanksgiving day, and battle for supremacy. Our boys feel confident of victory and their record so far this year insures a good game for Thursday. The people of Roseburg should show some interest in their representative football team and turn out for this game. Everyone can attend on a holiday. Heretofore all games were played on Saturdays and being the busiest day of the week, few spectators witnessed the games and our boys hardly made expenses bringing the visiting teams here. A large crowd will be welcome and will get their money's worth. Roseburg's lineup will undoubtedly be as follows:

Bell, C
Hildebrand, R G
Moore, L G
Gilliland, R F
Ferguson, L F
Johnson, R E
W. Faulkner, L E
Hanna, Q
Short, R H
Fraley, L H
C. Faulkner, F

Give Thanksgiving.

The Rev. John Dawson has received the following which speaks for itself.

DEAR SIR:—In accordance with a long established custom, the management of the Good Samaritan hospital again send out a Thanksgiving circular to call attention to its work and needs and to ask a generous response to the same.

During the last fiscal year 2105 patients have received treatment, representing many creeds and nationalities 7687 entirely free days' care have been given and, in addition to this, a number of patients have been treated at reduced rates, thus severely taxing the resources of the hospital. We ask you on this Thanksgiving day to think of the unfortunate in health and the poor in purse, and with your help give us the privilege to continue our ministrations to them. Donations may be given in money or supplies. Groceries, fruit, canned goods, bed linen and blankets, drugs, etc. are especially acceptable. Free transportation will be furnished by the railroads for all produce.

Very sincerely yours
E. J. WAKEMAN, Supt.

Mr. Dawson will be glad to receive any gift that may be sent him and will be responsible for its shipment to Portland.

Reduced Rates on Thanksgiving Day

The Southern Pacific Company will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for the round trip between all points on its Oregon Lines, account Thanksgiving Day. Tickets will be sold on Nov. 25th and 26th, and will be limited to return to the 27th. All who desire to take advantage of this reduction can secure tickets from nearest Southern Pacific Agent, on dates mentioned.

NO EFFORT TO RESCUE THE COWBOYS FAIL TO MAKE A FIGHT

ASSASSIN TOM HORN, THE CONDEMNED CATTLE DETECTIVE, DIED OF A BROKEN NECK AT CHEYENNE LAST FRIDAY

At Cheyenne, Wyoming, on Friday, Tom Horn died of a broken neck. Gov. Chatterton was aroused before 6 o'clock this morning by friends of Tom Horn, who again sought a reprieve for the condemned cattle detective, who was hanged Friday for the murder of Willie Nickell, the 14-year-old son of Kels P. Nickell, an Iron Mountain ranchman. The Governor listened to the arguments of Horn's friends for some time and then said emphatically: "There is no use, gentlemen. This execution will take place at the time set by the law. I will not interfere in the case. This is final."

No less than a dozen attempts were made during Thursday afternoon and night to have the Governor delay the execution for even a few days. He had but one answer for all and that was that the law must take its course. Horn has apparently been hopeful all along that in some manner he would escape the gallows, but last night he wrote a farewell letter to John Coble, manager of the Iron Mountain Cattle Company, by which he was employed for ten years, his business being to prevent rustling or thefts of cattle.

"If I go I want John to have this letter," he said. The letter was devoted to saying good-bye to Coble and making a few requests as to what should be done with the personal property he should leave.

Charles Irwin, the stockman who has been one of Horn's closest friends, renewed his efforts to see the condemned man early today, but admission to the jail or even to the courthouse was denied him by Sheriff Smalley.

"I'll be down in time for the execution, however," Irwin said. "I have an invitation from Horn."

It was reported that Irwin, falling in his effort to see Horn alone, would ask him on the gallows if he killed Willie Nickell.

Sheriff Smalley said that he would not permit any of the spectators to speak to Horn while he was on the gallows.

John Coble who came from Cheyenne was an early caller at the jail. He did not ask to see Horn, nor did he speak to any of the guards who were standing in the doorway. He soon departed toward the business part of the town. Police Captain Delaney, of Denver, mingled among the police, sheriffs and militia at the jail.

"I expected any moment to see a riot started last night. I can't understand the reason for Horn's friends not attacking the jail, as planned. I guess their leaders decided that it would be only courting death to attack the jail."

Adjutant-General Stitzer, after a conference with Governor Chatterton, decided to place more members of the militia around the jail.

Even before daylight persons came to the vicinity of the jail and took the best points of observation. Every second brought additional arrivals until the vacant lots in the vicinity were crowded with people.

Once more Charley Irwin came to the jail, this time in answer to a hurried message. Horn had sent for Coble, saying he wanted to talk with him before he died.

"I can't refuse him this request, said Jailer Proctor, "but any one that enters the jail will be searched and Coble must talk to Horn in my presence."

Irwin waited patiently for the arrival of Coble.

"I will make John let me go in his place," he said. "He knows Tom will tell me more than any other person. I must talk to Tom before he dies. Remember, I do not think he is guilty."

"Well, John," said Horn, "I'm glad you came."

"Can't we shake hands?" pleaded Horn to his keepers. Sheriff Smalley hesitated, then opened the door of the cell for the first time since the death watch was placed.

Coble and Horn grasped hands in the cell.

"Good-by, John," Horn broke the spell.

Coble murmured a faint "good-by," and walked away.

Coble came again to the cell and was permitted to see Horn. He remained with him only a moment.

"Good-by, Tom," he said in a choked voice. "Tom, I can't stay. I came to say good-bye. I am sorry, Tom, but die like the man I know you to be. Tom, fate's against you. You must die. Good-by. God bless you. Good-by, Tom."

Horn died at 11:08 a. m., game to the last and smiling. His neck was broken by the fall of the trap. The execution passed off without a hitch or attempt on the part of Horn's friends to save him.

Ten minutes before he was bound on the scaffold he lay on his cot smoking a cigar and looking out at the spectators. Frank and Charles Irwin sang a sentimental cowboy song and were allowed to shake hands with Horn. Horn's last word was to Joseph Cahill, County Clerk, who assisted on the scaffold.

When the spectators had been admitted to the jail the Rev. George H. Rafter climbed up a ladder to the tier in which Horn was confined and opened a prayer book. The massive iron doors opened as Under Sheriff Proctor, Sheriff Smalley, County Clerk Joseph Cahill and Deputy Sheriff Leslie Snow appeared. Horn got up off his couch and walked out of the door. He was pale and thin from long confinement, but he was game.

Proctor began to fasten the straps. Horn turned and twisted to suit the executioner.

Horn's hands were then securely pinioned to his body and he was all ready for the final strap on his feet. Between Smalley, Proctor and Cahill he walked out on the platform, with short steps and stood looking at the noose.

"I'll have to have a hand to get on that thing," said Horn with a ghastly smile.

Proctor picked up the noose at 11:05 o'clock and started to place it over Horn's head. The condemned man coolly ducked his head and thrust it through the noose.

Proctor took up the black cap and slipped it over the doomed man's head, and in this he was assisted by Horn's movements of the neck.

Cahill and Smalley lifted Horn to the trap door. Instantly water began to run from the tank, and in 50 seconds the trap fell. In just 16 minutes after the drop Horn was pronounced dead by physicians and his body taken down. It was turned over

The Adventist School.

The Adventists have started a school in the basement of their church in West Roseburg. The reason they give for so doing, is not that they have any opposition to the public schools, but because they want their children educated in things of God. So they cheerfully pay their taxes to support the public school as they say it is one of the foundation stones of good government, and should be sustained. But since the Bible can not be taught in the public schools, they feel compelled to conduct a school where their children can learn of Him of whom it is said, He went about doing good.

Besides the Bible the common branches of the English language are taught. There are 18 scholars enrolled. Eighteen Adventist children and five who are not.

The present enrollment goes as high as the sixth grade and a tuition of one dollar per month is charged each pupil.

The school is taught by W. H. Jones, a graduate of the Heidelberg College of California.—Com.
