Panama Treaty.

The first five articles of the Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty are to this effect:

Article 1. The United States guarantees and agrees to maintain the independence of the republic of Panama.

Article 2. The republic of Panama cedes to the United States five miles on each side of the canal and three marine leagues at each terminal.

Article 3. The republic of Panama grants to the United States the right to exercise the same power and authority over such lands "as if it was sovereign."

Article 4. The republic of Panama grants to the United States the use of all the rivers, streams and waters for navigation, or so far as is necessary to the construction of the canal and its auxiliaries.

Article 5. The republic of Panama grants to the United States in perpetuity a monopoly of any system of communication across its territory, by canal or by railroad.

The remaining twenty-one articles of the treaty deal for the most part with questions of administration, as follows:

Article 6 declares free for all time the ports at each entrance of the canal, including Panama and Colon, and provides that no dues of any kind shall be imposed by the republic of Panama on any vessel using the canal or belonging to or employed by the United States.

It provides also that the ports of Panama and Colon and others leading to the canal shall be free to the commerce of the world, and that no duties shall be collected except on merchandise destined to be introduced for consumption into the republic of Panama and on vessels which touch at Colon and Panama and don't cross the canal.

Article 6 further provides that all damages caused to private land owners by inundation or by the deviation of water courses or in other ways arising out of the construction or operation of the canal, shall be appraised and determined by a joint commission appointed by the governments of the United States and the republic of Panama.

In another article the republic of Panama authorizes the new Panama canal company to sell and transfer its rights and concessions to the United States, as well as the Panama railroad and all or part of the shares of that company.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy test the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

THE GELILO CANAL THE STATE SHOULD PURCHASE LAND FOR GOVERNMENT

GOV. CHAMBERLAIN DARE NOT VETO THE REPEAL OF THE PORTAGE RAILROAD BILL IF IT IS PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE

A Washington news dispatch of last Saturday's date says: "Engineer officers in Washington are inclined to believe The Dalles-Celilo Canal situation is very much simplified by the fact that there is to be an extra session of the Oregon Legislature. These officers say such a session presents an opportunity for an early and a thoroughly satisfactory solution of the problem raised by the recent restrictive order of the Secretary of War, who demands that right of way for the canal shall cost the Government nothing.

It is the opinion of the engineers that the Legislature should make an example appropriation to purchase the desired right of way, as they are convinced the state can not only get the needed lands sooner, but cheaper, than could the general Government, should it resort to condemnation proceedings.

Among engineer officers who are known to be friendly to The Dalles-Celilo Canal project, there is a hope that it may not be necessary to go to Congress to ask for a further appropriation for purchasing this right of way. They fear that if Congress is asked to increase the limit of cost of this work beyond the figure set by the last Congress unfavorable action on the entire project may be taken, which will delay construction indefinitely.

If the Legislature will make such an appropriation as has been suggested, there will be no necessity for Congress to give further consideration to The Dalles Canal project, except to make annual appropriation for carrying out the work which has heretofore been authorized, and for the commencement of which there is now over $300,000 available."

The Colorado Labor Feud

DENVER, Colo., November 28—Late tonight Independence and Altman, the centers of disturbance in Cripple Creek, were placed under martial law. Fourteen leaders have been arrested by the military, including all the officers of the miners' union. Four hundred of the national guard left Goldfield this evening in two special trains under sealed orders to be opened after the trains got out of the district.

Gen. John Bates left for Telluride tonight. Upon his report depends whether or not the war department will comply with Gov. Peabody's request to send federal troops to that point. Gen. Bates said in an interview: "I am entirely ignorant of the situation and will look into matters thoroughly. The way Gov. Peabody's request was worded caused the war department to reply that troops could not be furnished, but if conditions are such that there is real need of federal troops I have no doubt they will be sent. I shall probably stop at Cripple Creek a few days as I return."

The situation seems to be coming to a head through the concentration of every interest opposed to the strikers. The infernal machine explosion at the Vindicator mine Saturday has set the state ablaze with excitement. The miners' union insists that the explosion was due to an accident. The mine owners' association in a circular, denounce the infernal machine as the contrivance of the inner circle of the miners' union, which was prepared with the full knowledge of the leaders who have managed the Cripple Creek strike for the last three months.

The governor has decided to invoke the full power at his command to meet the conditions, and the arrival of Brig. Gen. John Bates this morning was hailed with joy, as he could not have come to a more opportune time to gain an idea of the tactics of the strikers, both in the coal and metal districts.

The coal strike in northern Colorado would have settled last night had it not been for the influence the Western Federation exerted to defeat the resumption, that they might tie up every wheel in Colorado, according to the words of their boast.

Wood to Face Charges.

It is not improbable that Brig. Gen. Leonard Wood may be ordered home from Manila, Philippine Islands, to appear before the Senate military committee in regard to charges made against him. Secretary Root on Friday he would send to the Senate committee anything that may be called for in connection with Gen. Wood's record in the army, his services in Cuba and regarding charges made against him. He also said that if the committee found the war department records insufficient he would, if requested by the committee, send for Gen. Wood to return to the United States.

Papers relating to Gen. Wood's military record were prepared at the war department Friday and delivered to Senator Proctor of the military committee the same afternoon. It was the intention of the officials to make the papers public, but Senator Proctor said the senate had decided to treat the Wood matter as executive, and he did not think it proper to make the papers public.

It was learned that the matter turned over to Senator Proctor does not include the correspondence between Gen. Wood and the war department in regard to the Muncie article criticising the administration of Gen. Brooke in Cuba, nor does it include the several charges filed at the war department by Maj. Rathbone, and which were brought to Gen. Wood's attention before he left for the Philippines.

A compromise verdict was recently returned at Portland. Seven men favored a verdict of murder in the first degree and five favored an acquittal. The jury finally compromised on a second degree murder verdict.

An accident, caused by a partially open switch, in which five cars were thrown from the track, occurred near the Drain depot Monday noon. A small boy coming from school just after the noon local had passed, removed the lock, which he says he found unfastened, from the switch post and turned the switch open. In turning it back to position he failed to get it in the proper place to completely turn off the switch. The freight coming in some ten minutes later, the two heavy engines and a few cars passed safely over the partly open switch, when either the jar of the heavy train opened the switch more or the car swung just right to take the siding, it was immediately derailed and, running a short distance over the ties, soon jumped the track, followed by four others, one of which turned over down the embankment and all were badly splintered up.
