TO THE TIMES -- MOUNTAINEER

The PLAINDEALER has read quite a number of your reflections upon the editor because he has dared to do what was right in publishing the news in the Moody case. You presumed that the editor is a fool-well he would sooner be a fool in protecting the interests of the state of Oregon than to be a knave with the high compliment of escaping the penitentiary because of attenuated, technimanner by a Federal Judge.

three thousand years ago it was said: "Thy princes are rebellious and the companions of thieves, * * * they judge not the fatherless, neither doth the cause of the widow come before nal law. them." We will not say that there was a parallel case to Isaiah's in Portthat court we never read of a case on Moody did: trial where there was so much law pulled out and stretched and so much latitude and sophistical explanation allowed a defendant before the bar of justice-but was it justice? If the state of Oregon or the United States got justice in that lamentable trial may God have mercy on justice as it was exemplified.

One of the technicalities on which one of the counts in the indictment was thrown out by the judge was as follows: The certificate sent by the United States Treasurer to Mrs. Conrov stated that the amount of $320 or thereabouts was due to her in full for the final payment. This certificate only lacked her signature to make it good for that amount of money.
