"Are You a Mason?" which will be seen in this city at the Opera House, Monday, Jan. 11, in meeting with great success wherever it has been presented. It is now in its fourth year as a dramatic offering, and up to the present there has been no diminution in the patronage. Many theatre parties have been given by Masons in neighboring towns, and the ludicrous situation in which a quasi candidate for fraternal orders have been put seems to appeal strongly to them. 21

The lively farce, "Are You a Mason?" will be seen here for the first presentation at the Opera House, on Monday, January 11. The action of the piece revolves about one Amos Bloodgood, of Rockford, Ill., who, without any knowledge of the workings and ritual of Masonry, tries to make his wife believe that, in accordance with her wishes, he has joined an order, when in reality he has not. He is obliged to resort to all manner of subterfuge, and he becomes involved in endless difficulties in his endeavors to explain his conduct. He is finally unmasked by a boni-bide Mason, and in the end satisfies his wife by according to her wish. 21
