Homer Ritchey went to Drain the first of the week. E. B. Handsaker went to Cottage Grove Tuesday. Sammie and Eddie Handsaker arrived on the southbound local Sunday from Eugene, where Master Eddie has been spending the holidays.

The infant son of Mrs. Dollie Davis was quite severely burned about the face and head by the turning over of a cup of coffee, but fortunately the burn did not prove fatal and the little fellow is out and around again.

Neno Perini had a very narrow escape with his life last Saturday. He and a brother were shooting at a target when the shot gun burst, cutting his head very badly.

We understand that the quartz ledge found near here by Messrs. Mires, Putnam and Brown is proving to be a pretty good prospect. We wish them the best of luck and hope they will find lots of gold.

The political pot here is just beginning to simmer and will soon be boiling, the general opinion is that we have a man in the White House that is President and that we should keep him there another four years. Hurrah for Roosevelt!

BILLY BOY

Drain Nonparcels.

Jan. A. Sterling is registering voters for the coming election. He expects some to call on the voters in Thiel Creek Tin Pot, Hardscarable and Shoestring. J. W. Krewson has purchased the Chas. Trumbull residence property in South Drain. Mr. Trumbull will move to Placerville and Wm. Wilson will occupy the house.

Chas. Perkins, Frank Lane and John Sims were appointed viewers by the county court to locate a public road over the land of Mrs. Guthrie between Gardiner and Glenada, and assess the damage.

Dr. C. E. Wade left Tuesday morning for San Francisco to take a month's course in the Post Graduate Hospital of the University of California. Mrs. Wade and Marie accompanied the doctor and will visit relatives in and near the city. The Nonparcell has received word from Portland that our new presses would be shipped in a day or two. Now is a good time to help the printer out with cash, if you are indebted to the office, as it takes real money and lots of it to buy presses and type.

When Agent Bassett went out to milk his cow this morning he found a hog roosting in blissful slumber in the "new moon hay" in the bridal chamber on the second floor of his barn. A trunk in the barn had been broken open and the contents strewn around the place until it looked like a Kansas cyclone had struck this part of Oregon. This causes angry passions to arise in Bassett. He looked at the hog, then at the trunk and forthwith told his troubles to a policeman, who brought the weary willie before His Honor, Justice Krewson. The hog claimed he knew nothing about the trunk—he had simply taken refuge in the barn to get in out of the wet and had not even discovered the trunk. The Justice then ordered the constable to escort the wanderer to the edge of the city limits and "sit" the dogs on 'im.

The Best in the West.

January McClure's.

The biggest thing certainly, in the January McClure's is the article of Carl Schurz, "Can the South Solve the Negro Question?" It is absolutely masterly in elevation of thought and vigor of treatment; and will awaken discussion, much of which is bound to be vehement. Neck and neck with this article in political and social significance is the second chapter of Part Two of Miss Tarbell's "History of the Standard Oil Company" taking up "The Fight for the Pipe Lines." The other articles comprise a "Wild-Animal Surgeon and His Patients," and a stirring account of "Tunneling Out of the Liberty Prison," by James Wells, one of the survivors of this daring epic. Of fiction, there is to suit everybody. Henry Wallace Phillips begins his new "Red Saunders" series by a rollicking account of the blossoming out of the Saunders Ranch. There is a tale of a highwayman in the good old English times stage coaches, by Ellen Phillips, with the suggestive title of "A Pickaxe, and a Spade," a tragic and compelling story of Manila, "The Failure," by Jas. Hopper, and a whimsical tale of love routing mathematics, "The Tree of a Thousand Leaves," by Alice Brown. The January McClure cover is so remarkable. It is by Jessie Wilcox Smith and one of the most beautiful child drawings, certainly, ever made.

Be Quick.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

When bilious try a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and realize for once how quickly a first-class up-to-date medicine will correct the disorder. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.

ORIGINAL EFFECTS.

They Are Thoroughly Characteristic of the Winter's Gowns. Much originality is displayed in the ones are made of white or of light gray cloth. The fichu once more appears on evening gowns and takes the place of the bertha.

The smarter evening dresses are pulled off at the shoulders and have short draped puffs with long tails. Children's dresses are particularly becoming just now, as they are made of the most delicate materials.

FOR THE WINTER SEASON.

Steel and Jet Combined With Silver. Drooping Plumes. Steel and jet are combined with silver to make most effective evening gowns. They have petticoats of black chiffon and sometimes touches of beautiful tinted lace. Three-quarter coats are the smart thing for winter wear. They have cape effects of fur, and bands of this are skillfully applied on the skirt. Gowns entirely composed of perpen dicular ribbons are dainty made of

Up to date the shrinkage in the market quotations for the securities of the United States Steel corporation, reckoned from highest to lowest, has been nearly $440,000,000. And the shrinkage apparently continues.

An Indiana astronomer has discovered that the climate of the sun is generally warm. This has been suspected before, and it is somewhat strange that nobody made the actual discovery.

Now, if an earthquake should come along and sink those two islands which Canada sends by the Alaskan award the discomfiture of the Kanakas would be complete.

The hat worn with this is trimmed with a bird laid flat on the crown.

Who's Who and Who's Not. The last issue of "Who's Who in America" appears to have stirred up not a little discussion among newspaper editors in various parts of the country as to what constitutes fame, and incidentally the desirability of getting married and the advantages of a college education. The book in question contains the names of 14,443 persons, and these are taken as the basis of all sorts of calculations.
