In Memoriam.

Lines written in memory of Mrs. Mary Wilson, of Roseburg, Ore., who departed from this life Jan. 23, 1904.
Dearest one you have left us
For a fairer, brighter home;
You are resting, sweetly resting
While we wait the hour to come.
No more to meet thee until our cares
And troubles are o'er;
But we expect to meet thee there
Safe on the golden shore.
Lonely is the house and sad the hours
Since our dear one has gone;
But oh! a fairer home than ours
In heaven is thine own.
Every year some hand has finished
All the work for others here;
And we miss the voice whose accents
Fell like music on the ear.
And the eyes that smiled so sweetly
Answering back each look of love;
Are you gazing on the glories
Of the beauteous realms above?
Sad ones weep not o'er her grave
She sweetly sleeps with the dead;
For unto Him who died to save
Our loving one has fled.
Let us not mourn for her,
Simply live to meet her there;
Where no death shall ever part us
In that home so bright and fair.

No Specific Cure For Pneumonia.

"Drug treatment is useless in cases of pneumonia. The medical profession, so far as medicine are concerned, can be of no assistance in the fight against this disease. The sooner the profession will acknowledge this to public and set to work to discover some specific to save pneumonia patients, the better for all concerned."

This startling statement by Dr. A. D. Bevan, who stands high in the profession, has stirred up the members of the Chicago Medical Society at their meeting.

Several physicians sprang to their feet to protest against this arraignment. All had to admit, however, that there is no definite remedy known, and they backed their protests solely on the contention that they might influence the patient favorably by easing somewhat and by the moral effect of their presence.
