An Exciting Run-a-way.

Friday was an exciting day in the life of Thomas Cobb who had two dangerous runaways and escaped with but a slight bruise and a wrecked buzzy.

During the forenoon he had driven to Roberts Creek and upon returning he was accompanied by Miss Emma Farks who is teaching school there. When near the Green farm south of this city, one of the horses became frightened and commenced to kick and run and the other entering into the spirit of the occasion assisted in jerking the buggy along at a lively gait. Mr. Cobb succeeded in keeping the horse in the road and after they had run about a mile Cobb again gained complete control of the team and came into town, where he pulled up at the foot of Rose street to let Miss Farks out of the car. She became unmanageable and started on a lively pace up Rose street hardly giving Miss Farks time to alight. As they passed the Empire stable, Cobb jumped from the rig and escaped with no other injury than a bruised ankle, and the team after circling around in the Presbyterian Church yard and badly wrecking the buggy were stopped and taken to their stalls in the Empire stable.

A fashionable woman of middle age advises every young maiden as follows: "Never marry a man until you have seen his upper lip. Man has an advantage over us because he can read us through our lips. We cannot read him through his mustache, which no matter how beautiful, is an expressionless adornment. The upper lip tells the character of both men and women. If long and thick there is coarseness. If thin there is cruelty. If short and cupid-bowed there is delicacy. If straight and well drawn against the teeth there is resolution. Before saying 'yes' to a lover make him shave for a month. You will then learn his character."

More significant than all else is the fact that we have commenced this new century with over seventeen million children in school in the United States and over fifteen millions of these in the public school—children of the plain people, of free, law-abiding, self-respecting people, looking up to no superiors and masters of their own lives; children well fed, well housed, well nourished, looking forward with clear, bright eyes through the open gateways of boundless opportunity in this free Republic, where the highest rewards are to be won by individual enterprise, and where the result is not birth nor social position, but the personal qualities of the man himself, whether he be rich or poor, are the sole title to the highest distinction and the greatest power.

The advisory board of the Republican county central committee in Lane County met on the 17th, and held a general rally just before the candidates left for the canvass. All the democrats of the campaign were outlined and it was decided to raise the republican majority from 750 of last year to 1000 in 1904.

The watchword adopted was "One Thousand majority for Roosevelt and the entire Republican ticket."

The candidates of the republican party go among you soon, asking your support. They are all able and worthy men and entitled to your most hearty approval. Let each and every republican feel that the success of his ticket will be his own individual victory. There is no need to trade votes to elect any man. The result of the coming election will be far reaching upon it depends the prosperity of our nation, the welfare of our state, the future growth of Douglas county, and not last nor least by any means, the price of your day's labor and the value of your farms.—EX

Among the multitude of startling circus novelties and trained animal acts which Norris and Rowe are offering this season with their new big two ringed and elevated stage shows, there are two that stand out with more than ordinary prominence. They are the Gardner Family of six persons and the McDonald Brothers. The former perform upon horizontal bars, placed at the top of the huge tent. With such precision of time and accuracy they repass each other and with giant swings toss between them two others of the members of the troupe. It is an achievement bordering upon the miraculous and requires the greatest possible strength, skill, daring, courage and grace. The McDonald Bros are a trio of sensational trick cyclists. Upon one, two and three wheels, they go through wonderfully intricate maneuvers, riding backwards and forwards on one wheel; riding blindfolded, riding at breakneck speed down long flights of stairs and going through many other difficult evolutions. The acts make a really marvelous spectacle and it is but two acts of this nature which Norris and Rowe have provided for our entertainment this season. The shows will exhibit at Roseburg Monday May 16.

Whispering Cough.

"In the spring of 1901 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Capps, of Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. It will be done this time in a manner so overwhelmingly magnificent that no language in its praise may seem extravagant. This will best serve to show the many new wild animals and den of rare beasts, trick ponies, horses and elephants, lions, bears, camels and so many other beasts that Messrs. Norris and Rowe recently received that it is utterly impossible to enumerate them in this article, suffice it to say that there will be shown over one hundred acts of a nature startling ever to the modern circus world. An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C. News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicine failed to give any relief. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents were were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. This remedy is for sale by A.
