E. M. Armitage and John Noddrift of Myrtle Creek were transacting business in Roseburg Wednesday and favored the PLAINDEALER with a pleasant call. By Mr. Armitage we were informed that at a depth of nearly 1500 feet, a string of tools was lost by the driller in the oil well at that place, and he has been given thirty days in which to remove the tools from the well or forfeit his contract. Strong oil seepages have been encountered since the well reached a depth of 1200 feet and there is every indication that oil in paying quantities would be found at a depth of not more than 2000 feet. These delays through carelessness in drilling operations have become very vexatious as well as expensive, it being found necessary to abandon one well at the depth of 1500 feet on account of inability to remove a string of tools lost in it. With the removal of the present obstruction in the well, there is but little doubt but what the drill would soon penetrate into good oil sands.

The PLAINDEALER editor enjoyed a pleasant evening at the commodious and pleasant new home of M. McCoy, on Douglas street, Tuesday. This is one of the well arranged and modernly constructed, new homes completed in Roseburg this season and combines neatness and attractiveness with comfort. It has ten large, elegantly furnished rooms and the staircase and hall is particularly artistic and convenient. A son of Mr. and Mrs. McCoy being in the U. S. Navy service, as electrician on the battleship Wisconsin during the past three years, in which time he has visited almost every country on the globe, a beautiful collection of curios has been made by him and presented to his parents, which we had the pleasure of viewing with much interest. Mr. and Mrs. McCoy are promised a visit from their son at an early date.

THIRD OREGON WINS.

Foe Would Have Been Annihilated In Real Warfare. Hand To Hand Conflict.

Murray, Wash., July 13.—The Third Oregon retrieved its losses of last Saturday this morning in defending old Fort Nisqually from attack by the First Brigade, routing the enemy in a way that left no question of doubt in the minds of the umpires to whom the victory belonged, although there were no dead left on the field at the end of the struggle. It was in a clash near Huggins' Crossing, about four miles south of Murray, that the Third made its stubborn defense and held the enemy from taking the fort, where the Idaho regiment had been planted.

The forces engaged today included every man in the encampment, excepting guards about the camps, and it was "up to" the First Brigade's entrenched position. The Oregon boys had been placed at the most vulnerable point, where it was expected the enemy would surely try to strike its most effective blow.

The Eighth Battery and part of the First Oregon Artillery grove of fire, opened fire on the attacking force, headed by the Tenth Infantry and the Twenty-sixth Artillery, and a portion of First Oregon. Had it been actual warfare, the Tenth would have been a thing of the past, and there would have been little left of the brave Twenty-sixth, so destructive and sudden was the opening of hostilities by the defense. A platoon of the Ninth Cavalry also assisted in harassing the enemy.

The feature of today's maneuvers was a hand-to-hand engagement between two troops of the Ninth Cavalry, the colored men getting into such close contact that when stopped by the umpires they were taking away the ammunition from each other. Several prisoners were taken.

TERRIBLE JAPANESE REVERSE.

Charged Into A Mined Basin And 30,000 Were Killed.

London, July 13.—The news of the loss of 30,000 Japanese in an attack on the outerworks of Port Arthur, received confirmation, in an official message from Viceroy Alexieff this morning. Alexieff says the news of the engagement has been received by him and adds that the reported casualties of 30,000 are believed to be in no sense over estimated.

The Japanese charged en masse directly over a territory that had been completely mined in anticipation of such an emergency and received the full force of the explosion of these mines.

A telegram from St. Petersburg this morning says that a sensational rumor is current there to the effect that the Japanese, after the terrible repulse in which they lost 30,000 men, rallied their forces and Monday night charged with unbridled zeal, almost fanatical in its fury, upon the contested outerworks.

After severe fighting they are reported to have captured and occupied the positions. No mention of casualties is made in the report.

THE ROSEBURG ORCHESTRA

Succeeds to the Management of the Roseburg Theater.

B. W. Strong having resigned as manager of the Roseburg Theater, after several years of efficient service rendered in that capacity, it will be gratifying to the many patrons of Roseburg's popular playhouse to learn that the Roseburg Orchestra has succeeded to its management. This orchestra, by diligent and efficient work on the part of its membership for the past year and the efficiency of its instructor, Prof. Appelhoff, has attained a high standing in its kind in the state south of Portland. It has been very successful financially, having purchased a high grade piano and paid for it during the past year, provided a great deal of excellent music and employed continuously at a fair salary, a good instructor. Roseburg is naturally proud of this splendid musical organization and theater goals will hereafter be entertained by its high class renditions.

The instrumentation of this orchestra is as follows: 1st violin, Prof. Appelhoff; 2nd violin, Thos. Wheaton; viola, J. Dunnaway; cello, Dale Strang; double bass, Arthur Mahoney; 1st cornet, L. E. Belfie; 2nd cornet, Mr. Westbrook; trombone, L. B. Moore; trumpet, Roy Bellows; piano, Ralph Terrell.

W. C. T. U. Notes

The Roseburg Union met at the home of the President Mrs. Ida Marsters last Friday afternoon. After the devotions and usual routine of business the subject "The Power Of The Press" was taken up and discussed. There were eleven persons present and all agreed that the meeting was very interesting so we expect a large attendance next week.

The Country is great and prosperous, but the business of being good has not yet received all the attention which it deserves.

Forty-two years ago the first saloon licenses were legalized by the federal government. President Lincoln proposed to veto the bill, which had passed the house, but being assured that it was only a temporary measure to raise much needed revenue for the war and that it was sure to be repealed when the war ceased, he reluctantly approved the bill July, 1862. His words at that time were prophetic. "If this law is not repealed, it will become a greater curse than humane slavery ever was."
