FOR PRESIDENT Theodore Roosevelt, of New York. FOR VICE-PRESIDENT Chas. W. Fairbanks, of Indiana.

The burning question with the Democrats during the past fortnight has been the National Chairmanship, a post for the time being almost as important as that of the candidate.

The Eugene Register rather boastfully remarks: "A distinction of Lane county will be that it is the first place in Oregon where the government has interested itself in building a sample of public highway according to the latest and best improved methods."

Homer Davenport, America's foremost cartoonist, and a product of Marion county, has again taken up his pencil, and will be busy during the campaign, but this year in the Republican cause.

Why should the whole American public be made the victim and sufferer in a contest between a few meat packing firms and their workmen? That query was propounded when the anthracite coal strike was on and when the coal famine threatened a national disaster.

It is worthy to note that the platform of the New York Democratic convention carefully steers clear of the Philippine question. It may be assumed, therefore, that Judge Parker, who is the mere creature of the State machine as now ruled by Hill, will not expand on anti-imperialism.

Advised received by the Exposition Management are that there will be a considerable travel to the Pacific Northwest from east of the Rocky mountains in 1905. Low rates will be put into effect by the railroads and the people who will come will investigate the advantages which the Northwestern states offer to investors and homebuilders.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT NOTIFIED. The Notification and Acceptance Speeches Given in Brief.

Speaker Cannon, of the house of representatives, made the speech formally notifying President Roosevelt of his nomination, Wednesday. He said in part: "The Republican party, under your leadership, keeps its record from the beginning, under Lincoln, of doing the right thing at the right time and in the right way, notwithstanding opposition by those who oppose right policies from a selfish or a partisan standpoint."

Secretary Henry F. Reed of the Lewis and Clark Fair, is out with an address to the Oregon press in which he suggests as a means of inducing immigration to Oregon, that the local papers publish extensive write-ups of their respective communities and encourage home people to mail marked copies of the paper to Eastern relatives and friends.

Representative Democrats from all parts of the state will assemble in Portland Friday evening for the mass meeting which is to endorse the presidential and vice-presidential nominations of the St. Louis convention. The gathering will be held in the Columbia theatre.

After all this suspense President Roosevelt and Chas. W. Fairbanks have at last been acquainted with the fact that they were the choice of the Republicans in national convention at Chicago for president and vice-president respectively. The dispatches do not state that they manifested any unusual surprise upon receiving this official information.

The season has arrived for people to get drowned while attempting to swim at the summer resort; for men to shoot other men by mistake for deer; and for excursionists by rail or water to be killed by the score and by the hundreds.

A party is worthy only in so far as it promotes national interest and every official, high or low, can serve his party best by rendering to the people the best service of which he is capable.

We who have been entrusted with power as public servants during the past seven years of administration and legislation now come before the people content to be judged by our record of achievement. In years that have gone by we have made the deed square with the word, and if we are continued in power we shall unswervingly follow out the great lines of public policy which the Republican party has laid down.
