By the completion of Roseburg's large, modern new brick high school building the crowded condition of the schools which has existed for some years has been overcome and the home educational advantages and facilities thereby greatly enhanced. This improvement places Roseburg fully in line with other Oregon towns of similar and even greater importance in respect to educational advantages and an increased corps of teachers assures the very best service to the student as well as satisfaction to the school patron.

Following is a list of the teachers elected for the various departments of the Roseburg Public Schools:
