FOR PRESIDENT
Theodore Roosevelt, of New York.
FOR VICE-PRESIDENT
Chas. W. Fairbanks, of Indiana.

TIRED OF DEMOCRACY.

A dispatch from New York says:—In its leading editorial Friday the New York Sun declared flatly for Roosevelt and Fairbanks, and announced that it will support the Republican ticket during the coming campaign. This announcement caused great surprise. Under the late Charles A. Dana the Sun was radically Democratic and even stood by Grover Cleveland after fighting bitterly against the nomination of "the stuffed prophet," as it termed him. On Mr. Dana's death, his son, Paul Dana, took the editorial chair, but occupied it for only a short time.

Then the paper passed into the hands of W. M. Laffan, long connected with that newspaper. For several years the Sun has been the recognized organ of New York Democracy, but has suddenly been forced by its convictions into the opposite party.

A portion of its editorial announcement follows.

"Nothing has come from Judge Parker's lips or pen to indicate that he possesses a single political idea marking him as a statesman of independent initiative; of courage superior to the St. Louis brand; of stature to command and lead.

"As the case is now made up we prefer the impulsive candidate to a mildly conservative, temporizing opportunist representative of the Hun vote in the background. We have more faith in the distinct promises of the Chicago platform, not ignoring the many serious defects of that document, than we have in the miserable hell-broth of dishwater and dynamite concocted at St. Louis a month ago by a party afraid to renounce its criminal follies, and tasted yesterday at Esopus by the respectable candidate who declares with gusto that its flavor is admirable. We shall therefore advocate the election of Roosevelt and Fairbanks, and advise the defeat of Parker and Davis, preserving our own absolute independence of organic control, and our freedom of judgment as to every specific question occuring. And may Honorable Theodore Roosevelt's present mood continue, and if he is elected may the discourager of precipitancy stand always at his elbow."

A son is born to the czar; he is the fifth child in the family, the four first having been girls. The prestige of Nicholas as well as the succession to the throne hinged on this event. So long as there was a strong probability or even possibility that the succession would, in the natural order of things, pass out of his immediate line he was more or less at the mercy of the powerful coterie that surrounds him. But with a male heir in his house he will become complete master of the situation. Comparatively, trifling things sometimes exercise the profoundest influence on mighty events. The birth of one male child in Russia may alter the destinies of the nation and appreciably affect the well being of millions of people.

Judge Parker is incensed at the newspaper stories that deviated from his printed speech of acceptance but laid stress on his gold views for the purpose of gaining support from Wall street. If the Judge is to become agitated over a little thing like that at the very outset of the campaign, his troubles will be manifold before it is all over. He will doubtless regard it as "contempt of court," but he will find no such intrenchment in politics. His delicate, dignified judicial makeup will receive a good many severe jars before the old Democratic craft is stranded in the approaching November storm.

In dealing with the great organizations known as trusts, we do not have to explain why the laws were not enforced, but to point out that they actually have been enforced and that legislation has been enacted to increase the effectiveness of their enforcement. We do not have to propose to "turn the rascals out," for we have shown in every deed that whenever by diligent investigation a public official can be found who has betrayed his trust he will be punished to the full extent of the law without regard to whether he was appointed under a Republican or a Democratic administration.—Extract from President Roosevelt's acceptance speech.

The war upon Protection to American industries and American labor is certain to be renewed in the coming Presidential campaign. The Democratic leaders have already announced that this is to be the leading issue of the campaign. They have so indicated in their discussions in Congress and in every State platform that they have thus far adopted, as well as their National platform. To all intents and purposes they have sidetracked every other question and have gone back to the old fight on the Tariff. This recalls vividly to mind the free trade nightmare of Cleveland's administrations.

The claim is made by Hon. Albert William's, ex-attorney of Michigan, and father of the grand old party, that he is the oldest living Republican in the United States. He was present in Jackson, Mich., July 6, 1854, at the organization of the party. He was born in Halifax, Vt., February 8, 1817. He is still healthy and vigorous, and today is as firmly devoted to the principles of the "under the oaks" platform as fifty years ago.

One night recently a cow got in the yard of Editor Frank Irvine of Corvallis. He was hot and telephoned for the nightwatch to attend to the cow and put her in the pound, which he proceeded to do. The joke lies in the fact that it was Irvine's own cow, which had broken out of the pasture.

The toll road is a thing of the past and now we can expect more travel into the county. Good Oregon fruit, having the tariff taken off, will find ready sale here. Rosy-cheeked apples and girls from over the ridge will be more plentiful than ever.—Crescent City (Calif.) Record.

The Democrats, either openly or secretly, according to their several temperaments, now ask the people to trust their present promises in consideration of the fact that they intend to treat their past promises as null and void.

There being no zeal equal to that of a convert, it is not surprising to find that the Chicago Chronicle, Democratic a month ago, now assails Democratic candidates with unequaled virulence.

Mr. Root's warning on the subject of electing a man to the vice presidency who will be 85 before the end of the next presidential term is a plain piece of common sense.

He used to be the pride of the Russian army as "Kuropatkin the Fighter," but now he is known as Kuropatkin the Flighter.

Henry G. Davis, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, is a cousin of Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, of Maryland, though it is probably not his fault.

It's all over with Judge Parker. The North Bend Citizen says Roosevelt's majority in Coos county may safely be estimated at 500.

The heading in a Sunday daily says, "Judge Parker will take a rest from politics." It probably means after the November election.

Judge Parker takes a plunge in cold water every morning, and then spends the rest of the day in political hot water.

An exchange thinks the stork will displace the eagle under another administration. But the stork is not a bird of war.

"We denounce Protection," says the Democratic party. "We denounce the Democratic party," says the people.

We don't believe we can keep away from the country much longer. Watermelons and Crawford peaches are ripe.

Well, Japan is getting rid of some of its surplus male population, all right. But what are the Jap girls to do?

Populists throughout the west are declaring their intention of supporting Mr. Roosevelt.

THEATER SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

The greatest problem presented in "A Runaway Match," which is to be presented at the opera house on Thursday, Aug. 18, is how to keep from laughing every minute that the curtain is up. Problems of this character are a very acceptable variation to the usual run of plays which seem to be devised solely for the purpose of filling in an evening. "A Runaway Match" was designed to cause laughter and it has not failed to meet every requirement of the specifications in this particular line, and it is moreover highly praised by the press critics for the pure, healthy tone which distinguishes it from the usual farce comedy. It moreover, has a plot about which all the action of the play is centered. The company presenting it here is composed of high class players, many of whom appear in the specialty features, which are interspersed through the production. Seats on sale at Burr's music house. Get your seats early.

A New Watermelon Pest.

A very bad pest is visiting the watermelon field near Grants Pass this season. It appears in the way of a small gray bug and does its work at night From all appearances the harm results from a puncture of the plants, a few inches above the ground. When a plant is thus affected it soon withers and dies. This pest has bothered the melons for several past seasons, but not to such an extent as to cause much damage. It is thought that most of the ground utilized this year for the industry will be unfit for futher use in that line. The melon patches west of town are those most affected. In one patch there have been about 32 acres totally destroyed and many others are nearly as bad. The only melon fields free of the pest are found on the Upper Applegate. It is stated by some growers that the too frequent planting of the same ground to melons is mainly responsible for the development of the pest.—Grants Pass Observer.

City Council Meeting.

The postponed regular meeting of the city council was held Thursday evening and it was a record breaker in the amount of business transacted most of it, however, being in the way of general routine matters, the following being one of the most timely orders made by the council. The marshal was instructed to notify all property owners having defective sidewalks, to repair the same within ten days or stand the expense incurred by the city for so doing. Street improvements seems to be the general order of the council and property holders are warned to keep their sewers open. General progress and advancement seems to be the watchword of the present enterprising council.

Attacked by "Bob Cats."

D. Y. Allison, out alone hunting on the Lindstrom place near Divide Thursday morning, was stalking deer, crawled up to a log and on the farther side came upon a nest of wild cats (catamounts) The female flew in his face and he shot her dead, then turning in time to cripple the male as he sprang. A second shot finished the Tom and completely riddled his hide. The pelt from the mother cat Allison brought to town and gave to Harry Metcalf. Two kittens, size of house cats, got away. Dave Allison thinks he is fortunate, for he says he never knew these "varminte" to show fight in so furious a fashion.—Cottage Grove Leader.

David Briggs and his son-in-law, Mr. Fulk, were in Grants Pass from Sucker creek Monday on business. They have been greatly annoyed by the operations of those who might be termed claim jumpers. One man has filed a claim which overlaps a part of the rich Briggs claim. The sympathy of the entire public is with the Briggs people and they will probably have no serious trouble.

Just From Washington.

Attorney H. P. Gatley, of Washington, D. C., a son-in-law of Congressman and Mrs. Binger Hermann, arrived in Roseburg Saturday evening to join Mrs Gatley who has been a guest of relatives and friends here for some weeks past. Mr. Gatley informed a PLAINDEALER representative that while this is his first visit to the far west he finds the country, its climate, commercial and business conditions and the customs of the people much the same as the impress or picture formed on his mind from reading western literature and news papers, his relations with a prominent Oregon family, having enabled him to especially broaden his knowledge of the great Webfoot state, hence he readily forms an acquaintance with Oregonians, dispells all formality and gracefully adjusts himself to the changed manners and conditions of things. Mr. Gatley is a genial and affable gentleman, thoroughly versed in his profession, in which he has a high standing in the national capital city, and expresses himself as being most favorably impressed with what he has seen of Oregon and its climate. He will be given an introduction to camp and frontier life in the lofty fir clad mountains adjacent to this city in the haunts of the festive deer and the speckled mountain brook trout, an experience which he anticipates with no small degree of pleasure. Upon being introduced to prominent Roseburg citizens it is a common expression of Mr. Gatley that, "I have known you for several years," having reference to the time he has read the PLAINDEALER and thus familiarized himself with the names of local residents. Mr. Gatley's stay in Roseburg and Western Oregon will cover a period of several weeks.

A Business Change.

E. C. Jackson, of Riddle, was transacting business in Roseburg Saturday and informed the PLAINDEALER that J. T. Mayes, who for many years has conducted a general merchandise store at Riddle, sold out last Thursday to Chas. Stauffer and George Frater, two well-known and enterprising young men of that little city, who are sons-in-law of J. B. Riddle. These young men assumed charge of the business Thursday, and being capable and energetic business men, are sure to succeed, at least the PLAINDEALER bespeaks for them a liberal share of the South Douglas patronage in their line, and wishes them success. Mr. Stauffer has lately been connected with the Hair-Riddle Hardware Co., at Grants Pass, and Geo. Frater is a son of Postmaster Frater, of Roseburg.

To the Country and Back.

W. Dale Strange, the duly authorized representative of the PLAINDEALER, returned home from a four days tour of South Douglas County Saturday in the interests of the TWICE-A-WEEK PLAINDEALER. He found the PLAINDEALER growing in popularity and public favor every where and was promised the renewal of patronage by many old friends of the paper who had become estranged in the past year. He also received several orders for job printing in which the PLAINDEALER now excells, as well as a number of advertisements and subscriptions, while a number of old subcribers paid up their arrearages, for all of which the management is duly thankful. Owing to this being the quiet vacation season, the visit was a very successful one from a business standpoint, and a pleasant one socially, Mr. Strange being received very courteously by the citizens of the enterprising and progresive towns in the south end of the county. These visits to various parts of the county will be repeated from time to time.
