THE END OF EDUCATION.

This month is the one in which the happy children begin again their school life. They will spend from three to six hours per day (of the school days in the week) in the task of being educated. Never was there such thought and attention given to the science of pedagogy as today; never so many teachers pursuing courses in our colleges and universities specially to fit them all the more for the high profession of teaching as today. Think of those who come from Porto Rico and the Philippines for just this one subject!

The PLAINDEALER wishes to greet with a word of cheer all the boys and girls who this year enter school or resume school studies. We desire to remind them of the importance of the work before them, of the necessity there is that they should master each day's lesson thoroughly and well and of the possibilities of their nature, which education alone can develop. We desire to greet the teachers of these children and to wish them high ideals and success in their training of these young minds. There are some things that are to be emphasized if the people of our country are to be wisely educated.

The first thing to be emphasized is the end of education. What end have you in view as you try to educate? There can be no successful method without an end in view. Plato in his republic said that the end in education was the impartation of wisdom; Aristotle said the end should be the development of the theorizing activity; the stoics said "self-development"; epicures, "individual happiness"; public opinion holds that money making is the chief end, while society of today seems to maintain that "cutting a dash, giving the finest dinners, etc." is the end to have in view. The true end of education, it seems to us, consists in preparation for rational living, and by this is meant that training of the child which shall ever keep in view the necessity for bringing the child more and more to govern its life by the employment of reason in order to reach the end before it. What that end is depends on the ideals of parents, teacher and environment. That end will be the ultimate good in life which the child shall be taught to strive for. Do you ask what the ultimate good in life is? Intellectual activity and appreciation of beauty and character and friendship and the development of the domestic affection and sympathy and loyalty and service for others. All these enter into the ends to be striven after in education. These make rational living to be a life lived for the purpose of realizing these ends. The problem before the school and the teacher and the parents or guardians of these children is none less than this. It is a serious, a high one. It demands the best in teacher and school and home. The child will learn what it is taught. But it is not mere knowledge or capacity to count or write or read that is important as is the training in mind and heart and body that is received in the impartation of these other fundamental subjects. What you are as a teacher will impress itself ten thousand times more forcefully on the child than what you say.

The American people spend about $200,000,000 annually on free education. We have a right, therefore, to ask that those who dispose of this money shall see to it that in our common schools the highest ends in education shall be pursued. We believe in free education, in light rather than darkness. We believe in the fundamental democratic principle that the greatest good of all is subserved by the highest individual development of each. The world is moving toward the adoption of this principle. America leads the world. Let us work and aim for the realization of this principle.

A NATION OF LAWBREAKERS.

We as a nation are a nation of law-breakers. It's a habit, this disregard of the plain statutes. Nobody thinks anything of it. Sheriff's take oaths and don't keep them. Never have any idea of keeping them. Mayors and District Attorneys and Chiefs of Police all do the same thing. Oaths of office are a farce. Perjury in this line is a flourishing felony that nobody thinks anything of. It ought to be stopped.—Sheriff Brown, of Baker.

And Sheriff Brown is right, the Oregonian's spacious reasoning to the contrary notwithstanding. The sheriff was not speaking of obsolete laws, or of laws that come in conflict with the constitution of the United States; but of laws that have the sanction of great majority of the people of Oregon's metropolis—the laws prohibiting gambling, says the Oregonist.

The Constitution of the State of Oregon provides that no negro shall come into the State or own property, but the amendments to the Federal Constitution nullify that provision.

The violations of the State Constitution in regard to salaries, location of State institutions, etc., have cost the taxpayers immense sums of money, and have created a system of log rolling or reciprocal robbery that will continue to benefit the grafters, at the expense of the producers, for years to come.

The greatest of all President Roosevelt's claims to the good will of the American people is that he stands for the enforcement of the law. He does not ask the trusts whether they approve of the Sherman law. He does not ask humbler anarchists if they approve of the laws against anarchy. He is the executive—sworn to uphold the Constitution and the laws, and he will do so without fear or favor.

Sheriff Brown is right, as President Roosevelt is right, and as the Supreme Court of the State of Oregon is right when it upholds mandamus proceedings to compel officers of the law to do their duty, leaving to the legislative body the duty of enacting good laws and repealing bad ones. A rigid enforcement of all the laws will have a purifying effect upon the nation.

LINCOLN WAS "DANGEROUS."

Abraham Lincoln, even after his election to the presidency in 1860, was considered a "dangerous man," just as Theodore Roosevelt is now.

The following are extracts from the speeches of Senator Clingman of North Carolina and Senator Lane of Oregon, made in the United States senate in that year:

"It is not, for example, merely that a dangerous man has been elected to the Presidency of the United States. We know that under our complicated system that might very well occur by accident and he be powerless; but I assert that the President-elect has been elected because he was known to be a dangerous man."

"Mr. President, it is not the election of Mr. Lincoln that is troubling the country, but that he is regarded as a dangerous man."

The boasted "liberty" of American girls is filling the houses of prostitution along one line, and along another making business for the divorce courts. Late cases of ruined girls' lives are saddening. No daughter should be permitted to take care of herself before the age of 18, and 20 would be better, says the Observer.

Between the ages of 14 and 18 the average girl is the easiest of victims for designing men, and hideous as it is, it is a fact that hundreds—thousands—of men in Oregon, not rowdies or toughs, follow the deception of foolish maidens as a profession, making it in many cases their business in life. What chance has a guileless young fool of a girl, with unlimited "liberty" to go wrong, against these "respectable" scoundrels. The Oregonian newspaper is right in saying that the blame for fallen daughters rests largely with parents. The law is no doubt some to blame, and it will be better for the purity of womanhood in Oregon when the law—the genuine article—is introduced into the law that aims to protect innocent females from force.

Raise your banners, hail the chief O—f our country, great and glorious; O—f our party long victorious; S—trenuous always—pressing onward E—ver watchful—looking forward, V—ote for him who is truly leading, E—arrest all good causes pleading, L—est our nation come to grief, T—rust in him—our faithful chief.

This is the way the Colorado free silver Democrats have figured out: Those who are supposed to know, assures us that the country is "safe." A good, thorough-going, dependable Democrat, Roosevelt, has been nominated by the Republicans, and a staunch, reliable, conservative and safe Republican, Parker has been nominated by the Democrats.

WOMAN MURDERED

Mrs. Lenore Jones Shot to Death by G. W. Lauth at OREGON CITY TUESDAY.

A Roseburg Railroad Engineer Figures in the Tragedy.

OREGON CITY, Ore., Sept. 6.—Prompted by jealousy and the refusal of the woman to return him a valuable diamond ring which he claimed as his own, G. W. Lauth shot four times and fatally wounded Mrs. Lenore B. Jones, to whom he had been paying his attentions for the past three years. The shooting took place at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woods, Lauth just as he was running from the house and turned over to Constable Trembath, who lodged the would-be murderer in the county jail.

Mrs. Jones was shot four times and is mortally wounded. She was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital at Portland this afternoon. The revolver used was of 38 calibre, and while three of the wounds are flesh wounds the fourth penetrated the abdomen, lacerating the intestines. One bullet entered the right breast just below the nipple, and lodged just beneath the skin at the back. Another struck the woman in the left hip and ranged upward, and the other lodged in the right leg just below the knee.

Lauth was seen at the county jail but refused to make a statement or to give a motive for the murderous assault. He is a young man about 24 years of age, while the woman is 28 years of age and the mother of two children. His home is at Sparta, Ill., and a brother resides at Aberdeen, Wash. It was there that he met Mrs. Jones about three years ago. The two at once became enamored of each other, and have been on intimate terms until within the past few weeks, when a quarrel was precipitated, it is reported, because of the woman's disposition to receive the attentions of a railroad engineer residing at Roseburg.

Lauth has been on the coast about five years, spending the major portion of that time in Portland, where he was employed as a "twenty-one" dealer at the Portland Club. When gambling was suppressed in Portland about a month ago Lauth came to Oregon City where he has been following the same vocation. While here he has been making his home with the Woods', and on the return to this city of Mrs. Jones, who had been spending a few weeks at Roseburg, the quarrel was renewed.

The husband of the injured woman is mate on one of the Spaulding Lumber company's Upper Willamette river boats, against whom the woman was about to commence divorce proceedings. While the woman was visiting at Roseburg Lauth is said to have written her a letter in which he warned her not to receive the attentions of any other man. In the letter he stated that either he or no one else should have the woman, otherwise he would kill her. Mrs. Jones says she destroyed the letter, and the visit of the engineer to this city about a week ago, who is said to be responsible for the estrangement between Lauth and the woman, is believed to have hastened today's tragedy.

DIED OF HER INJURIES.
PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Lenore Jones died at the Good Samaritan hospital last night, and when her death was related to Lauth, who is in jail at Oregon City charged with murder, he wept bitterly.

MRS. JONES' STATEMENT.
"The man who shot me is George W. Lauth. I had been with him two or three years. It happened at my father's house. I asked him for the things of mine he had in Portland. He said he wanted the things he had given me, and I said he was welcome to them. He then said that he wanted me, and I told him that he could not have me on account of the dirty, mean letters he had written to me, in which he cursed and swore and called me names. He said he would have me, and then grabbed me and held me against the wall and shot me. Before I went to Roseburg I told him I would have nothing more to do with him, and after my return from Roseburg I refused to see him. He wrote a letter to me at Roseburg and said he would kill me, but I have not the letter, as I burned it."

Ante-mortem statement of Mrs. Lenore Jones, made at Good Samaritan hospital.

Mrs. Jones left Roseburg last Sunday morning for Portland, after spending several days at a certain resort in this city, it is stated. As to the identity of the engineer referred to there is naught but speculation, it being hinted, however, that he is not a permanent resident of this city.

Attempted Suicide At Grants Pass.

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Sept. 6.—Mrs. Harvey, wife of J. R. Harvey, attempted to commit suicide by shooting herself in the head with a 22-calibre revolver at her home in this city yesterday. The unfortunate woman was in a very serious condition yesterday, and but little hopes of her recovery were entertained, but to-day she is some better. J. R. Harvey is one of the leading mining men of this district, being manager of the Royal group, or Old Channel placer mines, of Galice.

The Amalgamated Sugar Company has paid $53,000 for 1186 acres of sugar beet land near Union.

An attempt is being made in Grant county to stop the excessive expense of justice courts.

The School Superintendent of Baker county reports that there are ten districts without teachers.

Roseburg's New Postmaster.

Charles W. Parks, who recently received the appointment of postmaster at Roseburg, has just received his commission from President Roosevelt and will assume the responsibilities and duties of the office October 1st, the commencement of the new quarter. Mr. Parks has resided in Roseburg and has been actively engaged in business for 23 years, being at the head of the well known grocery firm of C. W. Parks & Co. He was born in Kentland, Indiana, September 23, 1862, and with his father and mother came to Oregon in 1881 and located in Roseburg, where they have since resided. In 1883 Mr. Parks and his father embarked in the grocery and bakery business in this city, sometime later engaging exclusively in the grocery business, having by fair and courteous treatment and straightforward business methods built up a very lucrative and successful business. In 1892 Mr. Parks was married to Miss Nellie Perry, of this city, a bright little girl being the issue of this union. Mr. Parks has always been a loyal republican, but has never been a candidate for office, preferring to work in the ranks for the success of the party. His many friends, therefore, by securing his appointment as postmaster, feel that it is only substantial recognition for faithful service rendered, and honors worthy and fittingly bestowed.

C. W. PARKS
Mr. Parks has selected Miss Clara McCoy, the present deputy, as his assistant; Charles Fields as clerk and Miss Ella Cox as assistant clerk.

Revival Services to Begin Sunday Night.

Evangelist L. F. Stephens and wife will begin a revival service, Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock, in the big tent at the corner of Jackson and Lane streets. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens are gifted evangelists and have conducted many very successful revivals in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. These meetings are under the direction of the Christian church of this city and all are most cordially welcome.

Democrats Routed in Vermont.

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 7.—The Republicans won a sweeping victory in the state elections yesterday. C. J. Bell, their candidate for Governor will have, on practically complete returns, a plurality greater than that returned for a Governor since 1896, and which will prove to be not far from 33,300. Bell, 47,816; Porter, (dem) 15,979; plurality for the Republican candidate, 32,836.

The rest of the state ticket, Congressional and Legislative candidates, ran well with the head of the state ticket. The result is a general surprise to the leaders of both parties, it not having been deemed possible by the Republicans or conceded to be within the bounds of possibility by the Democrats.

The vote was normal for a Presidential year, and the weather fine. The campaign was hard fought by both parties. Democrats bending their efforts to a reduction of the Republican majority of 31,000 given to W. W. Stickney for Governor in 1900.

Of Interest to Horsemen.

COLES VALLEY, Sept. 5.—Editor PLAINDEALER: I wish to express my opinion of the interest which has been manifested in horse raising at the present time. All men who have fine blooded horses for breeding qualities should form a club, and each man deposit in some bank the sum of five dollars, then appoint a day and exhibit their best colts for the coming year. All men who have bred their mares to these horses and wish to enter the contest for the best colt raised, should deposit 50c, or $1.00 per entrance fee, give the name of the mare, age, color and weight. This is essential if men wish to raise profitable horses for the market. There are many sharpers who can fix up a horse, or make him attractive to the eye, which might deceive the most expert horseman. But his offering will convince the public as to his general merit. I would like to hear from some or all of these horsemen in expression of their views on this subject, which should interest every farmer. Yours respectfully,
PATRICK MURPHY.
