A Double Bereavement.
Gilde, Ore., Sept. 24, 1904.
Roseburg PLAINDALEAN—
A little four year old son of Tip Hill's, who has lived with his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. McMillan, died at their home at Hoaglin, Sept. 9, after an illness of only twenty-four hours. So sudden was his death and so great the shock that Mrs. McMillan was completely prostrated.

Sept. 11, James William Hill was laid to rest in the Oak Creek Cemetery beside his mother who died soon after his birth.

Hardly had the family realized that little "Happy" had left them when they were called together by the serious illness of Mrs. McMillan's youngest child, a sweet little girl two years and three months old.

For five days every thing that loving hearts could prompt, and loving hands do, was done for the sufferer. On the night of Sept. 18, little Alice May was allowed to rest from her sufferings. She was buried at Oak Creek Tuesday.

Mrs. McMillan who had partially recovered was again stricken down. All day yesterday she lay unconscious, and this morning we hear that she is no better.

Gorton's Great Minstrels.
Gorton's famous Minstrel will be at Roseburg Wednesday evening, Sept. 28. The show is entirely new and much larger than when here before. The new first part setting is very elaborate and represents the broad lawn of the Ponce de Leon hotel, Florida's famous winter resort. The idea is nicely worked out, the colors are good and the electric effects make the setting one of the prettiest yet shown by a minstrel company. The costumes are rich—even gaudy. The jokes are fresh and timely. The songs are up-to-date, and there are voices such as few men possess. Kenneth McAdams and the juvenile tenor, Master Richard Cole, are entitled to high place, while the humorous melodies of Welby, Lee and others and the remarkable voice of Arthur Fulton prove features. The Crescent Sextette is certainly a clever combination of voices. The first part winds up with a sketch that amuses—"The Female Shoppers." In the old-fashioned vaudeville the wonderful acrobatic comedians, the Brothers Egan, make a hit in remarkable performances. Welby, Pearl and Pell are amusing comedians. Harry Gibbs does some remarkable whistling, and the clever child artist, Cleone Pearl Fell, jots in dancing, monologue and other clever work. She is a great feature of the show. The performance concludes with an acrobatic turn by the Marde Brothers such as is not often seen on a stage. The brothers are graceful marvels in their line of work. Gorton's Minstrels are worthy of patronage. They fulfill all promises made and give a really creditable performance.

Married.
BEIDLER-RICHARDS—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Richards, at Stephens postoffice, Douglas county, Oregon, Sunday at high noon, Sept. 25, 1904, Ira J. Beidler and Miss Anna L. Richards, Rev. F. W. Leonard, officiating.

This was a very pretty Autumn home wedding, however, a quiet and unostentatious affair, only relatives and a few friends witnessing the impressive ceremony. The bride is a charming, vivacious and winsome young lady who looked very pretty in her handsome wedding gown of cream silk. The groom was attired in the conventional black and is a most exemplary, industrious and worthy young man, a son of the late W. H. Beidler, who is survived by Mrs. Beidler, the family having resided on the Calapooia for several years. Following the pretty ceremony, the bridal party repaired to the dining room where a splendid wedding feast was partaken of and good cheer prevailed. The happy couple were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents. They are both very popular and highly esteemed young people of the Calapooia, who are held in the highest regard by all who know them. The groom is a cousin of the PLAINDALEAN editor, and the happy couple will make their home on the Cooper farm north of Wilbur which will be conducted by the groom. With their wide circle of friends the PLAINDALEAN joins in extending the happy couple hearty congratulations and wishes for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life. Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. I. Abraham and daughter Fay, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Conner and son of Roseburg; Mrs. Jas. Star, Mrs. E. J. Beidler, A. T. Beidler, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Richards, John, Ed, Bert and Will Richards and Miss Annie Turner.

Filed in the Circuit Court.
