A record breaking run was made by an engine and four cars, between Medford and Ashland, last week. Catching, the brakeman who was injured at Central Point, was brought to this city before Saturday morning for Portland. The run from Medford here was made in 12 minutes, or at the rate of a mile a minute. The fastest time previously over the same stretch was thirteen minutes and two seconds, says the Tidings.

This county is missing the early fall rains badly, the small storm of September being little good, as the ground does not show the effect of it in the least at the present time. If rain does not soon come there will be little fall grain sown, but what is worse, the grass will not start, leaving the cattle without pasture, which will almost bankrupt the cattle owners, as they have stood two bad winters in succession in which many cattle have perished already.

Curry county beach placer and copper veins in the extreme southwestern part of Oregon, are reported to be looming up in a most encouraging way. Curry county is an old mining section, but some newly discovered copper veins have been uncovered that assay away up in the percentages, and a new process for saving the fine particles of metal from the black sands on the beaches is being used with gratifying success.

This is one of the seasons of the year when the Umpqua valley is at its best. Clear, sunny days will be the rule for several weeks now. The late rains have dissipated the smoke and drowned out the forest fire, and now Indian summer, when nature, of the year completed, rests for a time before falling into sleep of winter. The trees are beginning to assume the brilliant tints of their autumn dress, splashes of crimson and gold are beginning to appear on the hillsides. Autumn has arrived.

Governor George E. Chamberlain appeared before the Roseburg City Council at its regular meeting Monday evening as a representative of the old water and light company, which has been trying to collect a bill of nearly $3,000 from the city for lighting service for 22 months, beginning in March 1901. Although the injunction restraining the city from paying for the service was dissolved by the courts over a year ago, the council had steadfastly refused to liquidate because when the old company sold out to the present concern it made no provision for preventing the latter from raising the rates on the city notwithstanding the fact that the contract specified performance of all agreements "unto their successors or assigns." The price paid to the old company for lights was $125 per month; the price charged by the new company is $140 per month. The contract with the old company specified performance of its agreements for ten years, whereas only three years' service was given. Councilman Norman thought the old company should allow the city damages for seven years at $15 per month. Councilman Miceli favored paying the bill at the rate of $95 per month, while Councilman West favored a compromise settlement at $100 per month. Three councilmen being absent the meeting adjourned to Oct. 13, when the Governor will be present and a final settlement effected.
