The thrilling Russian drama, "F. Her Sake" was presented to a well filled house at the Roseburg theater Tuesday evening, the Roseburg theater furnishing excellent music. The plot centers around a Russian officer's love for a serf girl who is in his employ. Through the intrigues of officials she is forced to live a life of exile in Siberia rather than become the slave of the man who has been her guardian. The plot of the play was good and served well to show the horrors of the Siberian exile system. The play itself was fairly good. The actors—well, some of them could have done better.

The part of the Russian captain taken by Edward Scribner was spoken in a rather loud and fast voice. The part of the Englishman was very good, while the part of "Oiga," taken by Helen Gillington, seemed to improve as the play proceeded. The audience was a very patriotic one and more than one cheered for the young American girl who upheld her country.

The circuit court of this district, after an adjournment of one week, reopened Monday morning. The only important case brought up was that of an injunction suit of R. D. Hume against E. B. Burns and 16 others from Curry county. The plaintiff asks that the Rogue river from its mouth to a point eight miles up the stream, be closed to fishermen with the exception of those in his employ as he owns the land on both sides of the stream for that distance. Hume's attorneys are R. H. Countryman, of San Francisco, and W. C. Champion Jas. Jeffries Coming.

Jeffries, the world's champion and the prince of athletes is announced to appear here at the Roseburg Theatre in his splendid revival of "Davy Crockett" on Tuesday evening Nov. 1st. Jeffries is playing to crowded houses wherever he appears and he is credited with giving a natural and fascinating portrayal of the role which is so intertwined in the recollections of the late Frank Mayo. Jeffries is a man of many parts for he is not only a crack shot and a mighty hunter and fisherman but he is also demonstrating that he is a clever actor and is being praised by the critics for his effective rendering of the role of the frontiersman. The champion has his production of the famous American drama splendidly staged and is supported by a company of clever players. The physical culture feature announced for the last act is an illustration of scientific boxing in three rounds. It is an art in which it cannot be denied that Jeffries is a master opponent of Joseph Kennedy, one of the Apollons of the athletic arena is the champion exponent in these exhibitions.

Roseburg Soldier Robbed at Portland.

PORTLAND, Oct. 24.—After taking a ride about the city in company with his niece yesterday afternoon, William Stewart, from the Soldiers' Home at Roseburg, went to a north end resort and was robbed of $44 and his gold watch and chain. Stewart grew weary of the humdrum life at Roseburg home and for a brief change came to visit relatives here. He started out yesterday by taking his niece, Miss Bertha Stewart, of 494 Market street, for a street car ride about town. After they finished their ride, she returned to her home. Then it was that Stewart wandered away and lost himself in the mazes of the north end. It was a long story Stewart had to tell this morning, when he walked into the central police station and sought assistance from the captain. He was unable to tell what resort he was robbed in, but he was certain his watch and money were gone. Two women robbed him, Stewart said.
