

People Mentioned In the News

PARAGRAPH has been going the rounds of the press referring to the following inscription, which it is stated, was written by Mark Twain for the tombstone of his wife in Woodlawn cemetery, Elmira, N. Y.:

Warm summer sun, Shine kindly on her, Warm southern wind, Blow softly here, Refresh her face and heart, Lie light, lie light, Good night, dear heart, Good night, good night.

It appears that this statement is erroneous. The lines are favorite ones with the humorist, and when he had them engraved for his daughter's—not his wife's—gravestone he enclosed them in quotation marks to indicate that the writer of the lines does not know; but, as he says, the lines were in his own touching and beautiful and expressed what he felt better than any words of his own could have done.

"Why do they have yellow cars for the senate side of the national capitol and green cars for the house side?" asked a constituent of Representative Bowers of Mississippi.

"No particular reason, I guess," answered Mr. Bowers, "except that the senate's got a yellow streak and is not as green as the house."

Senator William Brimley of Tennessee, who was recently chosen to a fourth term in the upper branch of congress, has the reputation of being the most honest legislator at Washington. He will not frank a telegram, has never ridden on a railroad pass and, though a veteran of the Mexican war, refuses to draw a pension. He is seventy-eight years of age, but looks forward to serving his state at Washington for six more years.

He is seventy-eight years of age, but looks forward to serving his state at Washington for six more years.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew tells of a bibulous traveler who entered the Grand Central station in New York and staggered up to the ticket window.

"Do you sell—shell tickets here?" he asked.

"What point, please?" "Well, say, young fellow," said the man, "what tickets have you in stock?"

Major General Arthur MacArthur, U. S. A., who on the invitation of the Japanese is to accompany their army in Manchuria and inspect the military operations there, is a veteran of two wars and senior major general of the United States army. He looks very young, and no one would take him for a veteran of the civil war.

After the war MacArthur entered the regular army and won a reputation as an Indian fighter. He was conspicuous in the Spanish war and was commander of the forces in the Philippines for a time and military governor. In the latter capacity he had many opportunities to note the character of the educated Filipinos, whether friendly or hostile, to make a good impression on the American.

On one occasion a Filipino prisoner who was brought before the general sought to impress the latter with his importance by saying: "I am permeated with the atmosphere of European cabinets. I therefore am prepared to discuss this question on the highest plane of statesmanship."

It would not be supposed that so busy a man as James J. Hill, the railway king, who advocates a law prohibiting railroad rebates, would have much time for reading. As a matter of fact, though deeply absorbed in transportation problems, Mr. Hill always manages to secure some time each day for a favorite book. He has been a student of Shakespeare from early manhood. Some time ago a friend met him as he came downstairs from his apartments in a New York hotel and entered the cafe for luncheon.

"Hill, let you have had a stormy conference this morning," said the friend. "No, sir; you are wrong this time," said Mr. Hill. "I've been resting in my bed and reading 'Hamlet,' as I always do when I wish mental recreation and recuperation. I try to devote several hours each day to reading. I have educated myself by consulting a memorandum. It is not in my nature to be idle, and my rest and recuperation are found in reading."

Mr. Hill has a good memory. As a Minneapolis man had a horse which he desired to match in order to make a team, and he asked the railroad president to be on the lookout for a suitable mate. Not long thereafter Mr. Hill was in a little town about thirty miles from Minneapolis when he saw a man driving a horse that struck him as being a perfect mate for his friend's trotter. On returning to Minneapolis he told his friend of having seen just the horse he needed to make a perfectly matched team.

"A Mr. Wade of Ancona owns it," he said after consulting a memorandum. "Yes," replied his friend. "I know him. That was my horse he was driving. I sold it to him last week."

Congressman Henry Wilbur Palmer of Wilkesbarre, Pa., who was re-elected in November from the Eleventh district of Pennsylvania and who is a member of the committee appointed to prosecute Judge Swayne, is now serving his second term in the house of representatives. He was born in Clifford, Pa., in 1859, was educated at a seminary in Pennsylvania and the Fort Edwards institute at Fort Edward, N. Y., and also at the National Law school at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., from which he graduated in 1880, being admitted to the bar the same year. During the year he served in the pay department of the Union army. He was a member of the Pennsylvania constitutional convention of 1872-73 and was attorney general of the state from 1879 to 1883.

In 1861, at Plattsburgh, N. Y., Representative Palmer married Miss Ellen M. Webster, who won the affection of the large mining population in her husband's district by her efforts for the improvement of social and economic conditions among the miners' families and who founded in 1891 the Boy's Industrial association, known as the "B. I. A." She worked for years in behalf of the breaker boys of the anthracite region, seeking to improve their minds and enlarge their limited educational opportunities. Many of Mrs. Palmer's "boys" have graduated from the mines and won positions of prominence in the community.

Itch—Ringworm. E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes April 25, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I have been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable. I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Ballard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ring worm and it cured completely. 25c, 50c and $1.00 Sold by A. C. Marsters & Co.

Afraid of Strong Medicines. Many people suffer for years from rheumatic pains, and prefer to do so rather than take the strong medicines usually given for rheumatism, not knowing that quick relief from pain may be had simply by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm and without taking any medicine internally.
