BORROWED HIS WIFE AND MONEY TOO

The Marshfield Mail says, J. Y. Smith, of Beaver court and cause, on the 4th day of February. Hill, was in this city yesterday searching for his wife and 1906, upon a judgment and decree duly rendered her paramour, J. O. Ashton, with whom she left Beaver day of January, 1906, in favor of the above named Hill, Wednesday morning, taking $50 of the wronged husband's cash. Mr. Smith upon learning that his wife had fled, immediately started in pursuit, hoping to overtake dollars and thirteen cents ($1,414,13) with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per M.; In Township eight (8) South, Range four (4) the guilty couple here; but they had laid their plans well, and left Beaver Hill just in time to catch the out going terest at the rate of six per cent per annum Plant for San Franscisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, together with Ashton, came to ments and the costs of and upon this writ of Beaver Hill some weeks ago from the quartz mines in California, and the men secured work in the mine. Monday Mr. Smith had worked out about $50 which Ashton borrowed of him and came to Marshfield, returning early Wednesday morning just after Smith had gone to work in the mine, for the woman, who, in the meantime had purchased about $15 worth of merchandise at the company's afty-one hundredths (38 51) chains: west nine of Section twenty-two (22), Sections twentystore, charging the same to the husbands account.

The eloping couple walked and carried their baggage as far as Coaledo where Ashten had left the rig in which he had driven up from Marshfield. Taking this they drove to Empire and caught the Plant just before she sailed.

Mr. Smith says that he does not mourn the loss of fitty hundredths (250) chains: thence north clusive, then rth half and southwest quarte his wife and friend, whom were both false, but says he would like to have his $50 back and will make an effort to Blacklock: thence south to the south-west south, range four 4 east; sections three, overtake them in order to punish Ashton for obtaining money under false preteuse.
