Dale Strange, formerly foreman on the Plaindealer, will go to Portland tonight to select a job printing plant which he will install in this city and give his personal attention.

He has had several years experience in the printing business and is a practical printer. He is also a very popular and worthy young man who is well and favorably known here and is deserving of success.

Work has commenced on the new 40x60 one story brick building opposite of Graves Art Emporium on Cass street.

The building will be divided into two rooms which will be occupied by Marsters brothers' marble works and Bridges & Marsters the plumbers. The new buildings on Jackson street to be occupied by the Plaindealer, Jennings Bakery and Schelmer's second hand store, are nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

The Oregon Good Roads Association will hold a Southern Oregon District Convention at Grants Pass, Monday and Tuesday, March 20-21.

This convention will be under the auspice of Grants Pass 'Miners' Association and invitations to attend have been extended generally in the southern part of the state. A fine program has been arranged and the platform attractions will embrace a number of road experts and leading men of Oregon, and the meeting promises to be a success both in attendance and in the interest aroused in the cause of good roads.

The editor accepted a kind invitation to attend a reception tendered Mr. and Mrs. Lundy of Myrtle Point at Cottage Grove Saturday evening by Mrs. W. C. Conner, Mrs. Lundy's sister.

About 45 guests were present and were entertained with music and various games. Chas. Cochran, the cornetist who was a member of the famous U. S. First regiment band in the Cuban campaign, and Mrs. W. H. Abrams, pianist supplied the music. Mr. Lundy and Mrs. Thompson carried off the honors of the evening and were awarded as a prize a large box of Carriers delicious chocolate creams, a Roseburg product. Mr. Cochran and Miss McMillan were awarded the consolation prize. Delicate refreshments were served just before midnight.

A most pleasant and enjoyable violet party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Carle, on Flint street, Thursday evening.

Games and instrumental music were entertainment of the evening. At eleven o'clock the twenty invited guests were ushered into the luncheon room where a most sumptuous lunch was served. Entertainment and good cheer continued until after midnight when the guests departed for their various homes, bearing a souvenir bouquet of violets. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Marsters, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Carle, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Bellows, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blev, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Dyringer, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pickthorn, Miss Jennie Patrick, Miss Florence Gagnon, Hughie Blev, Wilbur Rose, and Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Carle.

The ladies of the M. E. Church are requested to meet in the League room at the church, on Thursday, March 16th at 2 o'clock in the interest of the Aid Society. Not only the members of the Society are requested to come, but the ladies of the church are requested to be present. By order of the president.

"The Moonshiner's Daughter" which comes to the Roseburg theatre March 16 truthfully depicts the strenuous life of the rugged mountain folks called "Moonshiners" in their fight for existence, and repelling their greatest enemy the revenue officers. The play abounds in thrilling situations and strong climaxes. A beautiful love story is intermingled throughout the action of the play. There is also plenty of the comedy element.

Gene Hence.

At the home of her brother, Sylvester Casbeer, on Deer Creek, Feb. 12, 1905, with but the briefest warning to her weeping friends around her, the spirit of Jennie Casbeer took its upward flight, after a pilgrimage of 51 years, 10 months and 10 days.

Jane Casbeer was born in Portland, Oregon, in April, 1853, where her parents, pioneers of 1852, had spent their first winter in Oregon. From there they brought the tiny infant, almost as light as the thistle down, and settled on Deer Creek, where they lived until sometime in 1858 when they moved to Wilbur, for the purpose of educating their children at the Umpqua Academy. Not long after they bought a place at French Settlement on which they resided when not in Wilbur. In 1890 she and her mother returned with her brother, Sylvester, (her father having died in 1870) to Deer Creek, to the home her brother bought joining the old home place. She was early converted and in the year 1877 joined the M. E. church, in which she remained a faithful member until summoned to the church above.

Her kind and loving ways, her patient labors for others, and her cheerful endurance of a life of constant pain endeared her to all. She was so frail it seemed a marvel to her friends that earth could hold her here so long, outliving her father, three sisters and her mother. It was a hard blow to her when her mother so suddenly slipped from her arms to join that innumerable company upon the shining shore. We had not thought she could endure the separation. But with the eye of faith she looked beyond earth's narrow bounds until the eternal hills seemed to shed its radiance: a dawn her descending pathway. She said she realized that the separation would not be long; nor was it long. On the 4th of February, 1904 her mother passed from mortal sight, and on Feb. 13, 1905, Jennie followed. It was on the 22nd of February, 1904 that her sister Sarah Juhnke left earth's grief behind. It was touching to see her in her feeble health, welcome so cheerfully into her loving care, her sister's motherless children. To all her sisters and brother's children she gave almost a mother's love.

She leaves behind four sorrowing brothers, S. and J. L. Casbeer of Deer Creek, W. H. Casbeer of Baker City, and J. A. Casbeer of Tony Creek, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. Kate Handle, of Washington. They buried her in the old burying ground at French Settlement. Sweet be her slumbers—though empty hearts may ache, they would not call her back.

Dear heart, so lately gone to rest, By griefs and cares no more oppressed, Sleep, sweetly sleep, 'neath skies of blue, Dear heart so faithful, good and true. The tender grass will come to dwell With the little flowers you loved so well.

In the cool green turf above you pressed Sleep on tired heart, sleep on and rest. Fatigue, farewell, sleep on for aye, Soar spirit, unfettered away, dim, Before the verge of earth's dim night, Past sun and stars in your upward flight

To the land where no footsteps of mortal e'er tread, To the home of your Savior and God, But our hearts are heavy, our eyes are dim

For we hear not the song that the glorified sing, And we heard not the welcome so sweet and clear

From the vanished of earth as your coming drew near And we long for the tender message "Come"

From our wanderings dear to our Father's Home, Dear Creek, Or., March 26, '05.

DIED.

KOHLHAGEN—At the home of his brother George, in Roseburg, Mar. 11, 1905, Edward Kohlhaben, of typhoid fever, aged 23 years.

Three weeks ago Mr. Kohlhaben came here from North Yakima, Wash., for treatment. Despite the closest attendance, however, he gradually declined until death ended his suffering. He was a member of the Elks lodge at Skagway, Alaska, where he spent two years looking after mining interests. Afterwards he went to Prosser, Wash., and remained there until he was attacked with illness, causing him to come to Roseburg.

The young man was unmarried and is survived by two brothers, Geo. and Louis Kohlhaben of Roseburg; a mother three sisters and another brother, all in Rochester, N. Y.

A brief service was held at the depot today prior to the shipment of the remains to Rochester N. Y. for burial.

For guaranteed dental work go to Dr. Pearson.

REMNANT SALE

For the past two weeks we have been busy invoicing our immense stock, and now that we have finished, we find in all departments hundreds of remnants, which in order to close out we have marked at very attractive figures.

The lot includes Remnants of Dress Goods of all colors and descriptions, silks, satins, calicos, ginghams, muslins, sheeting, percales, outing flannel, flannellettes, linings, ribbons, laces, embroideries, etc., in lengths from 1 to 10 yards.

These are marked at about one-half or two-thirds of their value. Remember that although there is a large assortment now, they will not last long, so come while the line is complete.
