of conflicting and confusing ideas, issues, doctrines, tides, tendencies, we are now to need more and more men taught and trained to apply to our problems, national and international, the wisest thought and most skillful practice evolved in history or discovered among our contemporaries. MUCH HAS ALREADY BEEN DONE, BUT MORE REMAINS.

In view of this fact I would establish at as many of our greater universities as possible professorships, lectureships and fellowships and comparative law and legislation. Various countries have made a beginning in this already. Looking at the problem as it stands today, it would seem that nowhere would professors and students in this field be supplied with such abundant material for thought and work or encouraged by such certainty of fruitful results as in our own ountry.

The first results of such professorships, lectureships and fellowships would naturally be to interest in all parts of the Union great For sale by A C Marsters & Co. numbers of YOUNG MEN, EARNEST, VIGOROUS AND IN THE BEST SENSE AMBITIOUS. The next probable result Roseburg Theater would be that many of these men would influence their fellow citizens can be obtained from its roots by a helpfully on various important questions. Another exceedingly likely result would be the increasing entrance of such men into positions executive and legislative. Yet another would be A STEADY AND THURSDAY MAY 11, 1905 INTELLIGENT IMPROVEMENT IN THE LAWS THROUGH moral stamina of the aspirants for see millions in what was a few years OUT THE COUNTRY, and in addition to this there would come in the legislation of our various states, an increasing tendency toward When Governor Folk asked the HOMOGENEITY, a consummation most devoutly to be wished.

Besides the improvement of law there is needed an improvement of institutions, and for this purpose I would establish in our more important universities professorships, lectureships and fellowships of COMPARATIVE ADMINISTRATION.

Look at the problem in its simplest form. Here are 80,000,000 and within the lifetime of many before me there will be 150,000,000 of THE MOST ACTIVE MINDED AND ENERGETIC PEO-PLE IN THE WORLD. The number of their combinations for every purpose seems infinite. There are not merely state, county, city and village organizations, but institutions dealing with pauperism, inebriety, lunacy, feebleness of mind, incipient crime, chronic crime, and besides these an innumerable number of minor corporations, combinations and arrangements bearing upon the public welfare. city.
