PAGIN INDICTMENTS PRODD.

These famous Olive B. Pugin indictments came in for a vigorous prod, only this time it was the court who sarcastically took them to task. It was while the case of J. H. Booth, who was recently removed from the Roseburg Land Office, was up. Booth is represented by County Judge Webster and A. C. Woodcock, of Eugene. Attorney Woodcock was reading the indictment which charged Booth with having used his office for private gain, when Judge De Haven took a fling at the compiler of indictments. Attorney Woodcock started to read the indictment against his client, when the court suddenly asked, "Is that one of Pugin's indictments?" District Attorney Heney replied that it was, and His Honor called for the indictment, saying: "You had better let me read it. I don't think anyone can understand what it means with one reading."

A gentleman late from Washington City informs the Plaindealer that Pugin, as an indictment compiler, is only recognized as "famous" by the Oregonian and Telegram, their sketches of Pugin and his splendid legal talent being received as huge jokes at the national capital where he is well known, but not as a "famous writer of indictments" or a legal light of any superior ability.

While on this subject of crime and publicity it is well to mention another phase of it which appeals directly to every newspaper publisher—it is the effort so often made to exclude from juries men who have read something of the matter about which they are to sit in judgment. This is virtually a premium to ignorance in the makeup of juries, for it is a safe proposition that all intelligent men of this day read newspapers. Consequently a jury made up of non-newspaper readers is a jury remarkable only for the density of the ignorance of those who compose it. Because you read some of the details of either a civil or criminal matter it is no indication that your mind is so warped one way or other that you will be unable to reach a correct conclusion after the matter has been presented to you in due and legal form while sitting as a jurymen. It ought to be the earnest desire of all connected with the administration of the law to secure the most intelligent consideration of all matters presented, yet it must be said that it is too often the case that studious efforts is made to exclude intelligence from the jury box. In most of our states intelligence is a prerequisite to voting, it being deemed essential to minimize the evils of voting ignorantly and indiscriminately. Is not the sitting in judgment upon life and property equally important as voting, and intelligence equally essential?

Woodburn must certainly have a standing candidate for Congress or some other place, judging from the humorous antics of the Independent in pronouncing sentence upon, and writing up the obituary notices of several prominent Oregon politicians, who are, by the way, not yet convicted and who are decidedly lively corpses. The Independent's work is coarse and will do the Woodburn candidate no good. There is an old adage something about people dwelling in glass houses, which Herbert L. Gill should meditate over.

Governor Chamberlain might have saved himself and the state trouble at the right time had he properly considered the state's interest in his action on the general appropriation bill. It is fitting he should now arrange with some bank in Portland to take the state's certificates against the next meeting of the legislature. He should also figure out some way to save the state the interest on these certificates, although it is hardly likely he will do so.—Statesman.

Sympathy for Senator Mitchell will be abundant and widespread. His physical condition is reported to be pitiable. No one believes that he was other than the tool of dishonest men, or that he profited to any great extent by the services he was persuaded to render them. But his crime deserved punishment none the less because he was not a principal.—Spokane Review.

The men put on the ticket next year should not only be good Republicans, but good men, and stand for good programs that mean something tangible to the public. The Republican party must stand up for the protective tariff, for state and national regulation of transportation companies, but also for lower state and county taxes.

H. L. Pittock, business manager of the Oregonian, has been drawn on the extra panel from which 12 jurors will be selected to try Congressman Williamson and others. If Senator Mitchell is granted a new trial will Harvey Scott be on a jury panel?—Owl.

Binger Hermann's case has been put at the tail-end of the land fraud calendar. From the noise made by politicians in the last two congressional campaigns one would have thought it should have been first on the docket and taken procedure over the Mitchell case.—Eugene Register.

A Chicago husband has secured an injunction restraining his wife from moving. It is only a step now to enjoining the lady of the house from house-cleaning. When that step is taken life may indeed become one grand sweet song.

Secretary Wilson announces officially that the "cabbage snake" is not poisonous. It is a comfort to know that if you happen to eat a few they won't hurt you.

Among the first to congratulate Heney upon his conviction of Senator Mitchell was the notorious outlaw, perjurer and all around crook, S. A. D. Pater. Heney seems to have a predilection for associating with such people.

The United States will make no more 16-inch guns. Mr. Togo has demonstrated that the 12-inch variety can do quite damage enough to anything afloat.

The unfortunate Russian poet laureate will probably have to content himself with a few appropriate stanzas on the victory of the Dogger Banks.

The Cear and Mr. Hyde of the Equitable ought to sympathize with each other. They both know how painful it is to give up an absolute "cinch."

Before Russia and Spain actually begin to rebuild their navies they would do well to ascertain if they can secure the proper sort of men to place behind the guns.

The hospitals of the country will soon begin to clear their wards of the Fourth of July casualty victims.

MITCHELL ASKS FOR NEW TRIAL

Senator Mitchell has filed his motion for a new trial and will present his argument before the Federal court today. Upon the words of Senator Thurston and his partner counsel, Judge A. S. Bennett, and upon the construction and decision of Judge DeHaven depends whether or not the Senator will be granted the privilege of once more presenting his case before a jury of his fellow citizens and neighbors or whether he will be forced to rely upon the justice and mercy of the Supreme Court of the United States or of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

Saturday morning, when the Federal Court was convened, Senator Thurston appeared before Judge DeHaven, for the first time since the night of July 3, when he had served notice of a motion for a new trial upon the court, and acquainted the court with the fact that his motion had been filed. He stated to the court that he was ready to argue his motion on Monday if it met with the favor of the court.

Judge DeHaven was willing to hear the motion at that time if it were necessary to be heard, but he did not wish to interrupt the course of the Williamson trial unless he had to do so.

Senator Thurston told the court that he had nothing more to keep him in Portland, that he was a long journey from his home and called to the court's mind that a homing journey was always a pleasant one. The court therefore ordered that the motion be set for a hearing today.

Musings

Almost any man will take a second look at an empty bottle. The quality of neither a woman nor a cigar depends on the wrapper.

When a woman takes it into her head to have the blues she just has 'em.

Never heard of a man's getting whipp'd as long as he was in a good humor.

The only argument some people can advance is to pull out a roll and offer to bet.

Every man should so live that his wife will be glad she did not marry the other fellow.

Many a man has fallen into a hole while trying to see what somebody else was doing.

It might help some to make the marriage fee as big as the divorce lawyer's fee.

Can't understand why a woman will wear a pair of hose she is ashamed to hang out on the line.

Of all the characters developed in the land fraud cases—McKinley, Pater, Gardner and others—there are none but what are entitled to more consideration than traitor Robertson.

When asked to write a short composition on some interesting experience, John after much labor, handed his teacher the following: "Twins is a baby, only its double. It usually arrives about 4:37 in the morning when a fellow is getting in his best licks sleepin'. Twins is accompanied with excitement and a doctor. When twins do anything wrong their mother can't tell which one to lick, so she gives it to both of 'em so as to make sure. We've got twins on our house, and I'd swap 'em any day for a billygoat or moose' anything."

CROP PROSPECTS ENCOURAGING

Last week was favorable for normal growth, notwithstanding it averaged cooler than usual. Haying is now general and, although considerable hay was cut and lying in the fields when the rains of the early part of last week occurred, no great damage ensued, and the hay crop promises to be unusually heavy and of excellent quality. Fall wheat continues to fill nicely and its harvest will begin in about ten days or two weeks. Fungus diseases and insect pests are more troublesome than usual at this season of the year. Spring wheat in portions of the Willamette valley is badly infested with aphid, but otherwise its condition is promising. Oats are affected by a red rust fungus, which is causing much apprehension. Barley is ripening nicely. Corn, gardens, potatoes, field onions and sugar beets continue doing well. Many lice are reported in the hop yards, especially those situated near the river bottoms, and preparations for extensive spraying have been made, which will be put in operation if the present warm and bright weather does not cause their disappearance. Berries are plentiful, and other fruit has made satisfactory advancement.

County Court Orders

County surveyor and board of viewers ordered to locate a county road from Hall creek, near Oakland, to the S. M. Driver claim, as petitioned for by Victor Boyd and 15 others.

District Attorney ordered to bring an action against the Title Guarantee & Loan Co., to recover $99, due for rent of former office in the court house.

County treasurer ordered to issue a receipt to Roseburg park and fair association for $1500 in part payment for the fair grounds situated one mile east of Roseburg, and upon payment of $800 more in two years to convey deed to said property to said association.

Court adjourned for the term on Friday evening.

Just before the adjournment much to the surprise of everyone, the petition of the residents of West Roseburg, asking to be incorporated as a separate and independent city was granted.

The petition of the West Roseburg residents, which was granted by the county court, sets forth that the territory involved contains 200 inhabitants. It is to be known as "West Roseburg" and is embodied in the following description:

"Beginning at the west bank of the South Umpqua River at the corner of the lands owned by J. C. Fullerton and O. F. Godfrey, in Twp. 27 S., R. 6 W., running thence on the line of the land of the said O. F. Godfrey northerly to the east line on John Lasser donation land claim to the west bank of the South Umpqua River, thence following the meanders of said river westerly and southerly to place of beginning."

The petition specified further that an election to determine whether a majority of the voters within the limits described are in favor of the proposed new incorporation, will be held on September 4, 1905. At the same time there are to be chosen, if incorporation carries, three trustees, a recorder, a treasurer and a marshal.

Before the West Roseburg people can form an independent municipality, however, they will have to stand a battle in the circuit court against the City of Roseburg. Members of the council were busy consulting with attorneys here today, preparing for a contest in the courts. Just what action will be taken by the city or when it will occur has not yet been announced. Members of the council stated today that the original plan of annexing West Roseburg, as well as North Roseburg, as a ward, will be carried out to the letter just as if no action to the contrary had been taken by the residents of West Roseburg. At the special meeting of the council on the 13th of this month, the territories of West and North Rose-
