WHEN GREEK MEETS GREEK

Charged with shooting two of his companions, Antonio Bruno, who has been working with the railroad ballasting gang, was brought to this city from Green's Station Tuesday and locked up in the county jail. Because of indolence, Bruno was discharged by the road boss Saturday night, and owing to his shiftlessness he received little consideration at the hands of his countrymen. This angered him and coming to Roseburg Monday he proceeded to "tank" up on "Booze." Buying a revolver and having another on his person, he returned to the section camp at Green's that night, presumably to attempt to exterminate the gang. No sooner did he draw one of his revolvers than several of the gang rushed upon him and attempted to disarm him. In the scuffle that ensued, Bruno fired the revolver three times, two of the bullets taking effect. One bullet struck a briar pipe in one of the front pockets of Paella's overalls, glancing downward and entering the right leg for a depth of about an inch. Another bullet made a slight flesh wound on the inner side of Scavelli's left leg, above and below the knee. Bruno was given a preliminary hearing before Justice Long Wednesday, and bound over to the circuit court in the sum of $1000, and will await trial in jail.

Pictures Tell the Truth

That pictures tell the truth has been often proved beyond all reasonable doubt and clever advertisers have long since learned their worth as a feature, but the ingenious idea so clearly set forth in the Sonvenir Writing Paper about to be published from the Plaindealer office clearly establishes the fact. When you photograph a tree you must first have the tree, so hence pictures tell the truth. The engraving is a bird's-eye view of Roseburg, printed in colors, on the "best paper on earth" and put up in tablet form. "Boost Roseburg." When you write to your friends in other cities telling them of Roseburg's attractions use this paper, your friends will appreciate it and "pictures tell the truth." It costs no more than the ordinary kind and as everyone writes letters we should all do a little to "Boost Roseburg," by using this paper. The extent of the project can readily be seen. Leave orders at the Plaindealer office.

A Big Galvanized Tank

Winnie C. Gaddis, a local plumber and tinner, completed this week from the raw material, an 1800 gallon galvanized tank for engineer Barr Jones, the tank being built in three sections, riveted and bound with three strong steel hoops. Mr. Jones will erect this tank on a platform at an elevation of 20 feet at his Roseburg residence, install a small gasoline engine and pump and thereby provide abundance of water for domestic and irrigation purposes on his premises.

Glendale and Vicinity

Exceedingly warm weather is the order in this valley. Mrs. Dick Miller is visiting Mrs. Jess Clemens at the Gold Flat mine. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Roberts son and daughter will spend a week at our guests. Lawrence Whitsett who has just returned from the Exposition is visiting his parents in this city. Mrs. Alfred Slocum left on Saturday for a two month visit with her children at Portland and to see the fair. Geo. Kearns a popular mining man of Grants Pass and the owner of the Vindicator mine on Grave Creek was a city visitor this week. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kearns of Stayt Oregon who spent two weeks here for Mrs. Kearns' health will leave for their home this evening. We are sorry to say that Mrs. Kearns is slowly getting worse with very little hope of her recovery. Abe Miller of Gazelle, Cal., has made a lucky strike at the Granite mines near Reno, Nevada. He took two pockets of coarse gold that contained six hundred and fifteen hundred dollars respectively. His friends and relatives in this city are glad to hear of his good luck. The Editor of the News left for Eugene last night we are informed. His wife and daughter will return home this evening. Mollie.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Two heads may be better than one, but not to an army.

In a game that two can play at one is apt to get beat.

When a man gets beaten in a business deal he may play the baby, but not to the extent of threatening to tell his mother on the other side of the fence.

When a man starts out to paint a town the police should hold him up and ask him if he belongs to the painters' union.

It is only a step from the sublime to the ridiculous—the handmaster when he takes off his hat.

A man may have a shiny bald head and yet be regarded by the neighbors as hair brained.

Some people who would not think of jumping from a ten story house plunge into matrimony in the most thoughtless manner.

A man has to be very far gone before he will sit on a barb wire fence to watch a girl go by.

A STRANGER SUICIDES

Blowed His Brains Out With Shot Gun FOUND ON RIVER BANK

Had Some Money In His Pockets Investigation and Verdict of the Coroner's Jury

A mysterious case of suicide, or else a fatal accidental shooting, occurred in the north Roseburg suburbs Wednesday morning at an early hour. The victim of the suicide or accident was found on the river bank near the railroad rock cut in Northwest Roseburg by two transient travelers giving their names and addresses as Frank Mason, of St. Paul, Minn., and Jas. Murphy, of Bay City, Mich. They had started down a trail to the river to eat an early morning lunch when they came upon a single barrel shot gun lying in the trail and a little further down noticed a man's body lying where it had rolled after the fatal shot. They at once notified the local officers and an investigation was begun. Justice John T. Long summoned a coroner's jury and hurried to the scene. They were accompanied by Dr. E. V. Hoover as examining physician. The body was rigid, having been dead for several hours. Death had resulted from a charge of BB shot from a 12-gauge, single barrel breech-loading shot gun. The shot entered at the inner corner of the left eye and the man's head was literally torn to pieces. Investigation and inquiry showed that he had purchased the weapon, a second-hand article, at the store of the Roseburg Furniture Co., about three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and a box of ammunition at Beards & Culver's store a few minutes later. He first asked for a revolver, but beyond seeming anxious to procure a weapon of some kind gave no intimation of his personality or intentions. He was thought to be of German parentage.

Not a letter or anything else was found that would lead to his identification. He was apparently about 35 years old, light complexion, sandy mustache and beard (perhaps three or four weeks growth), broad face, weight about 160 pounds, height 5 feet and 7 or 8 inches, wore No. 7 shoes, overalls, dark colored cotton shirt, with no coat or vest. Was evidently a working man and had $15 in his pocket when found. The gun and ammunition had cost him $6.50, and from the box of cartridges only two had been fired; the first evidently to see if the gun was in working order. The body was taken to Hammett's undertaking rooms pending the investigation by the coroner's jury. Nothing has so far been learned as to the man's identity or the cause for this tragic ending of his life.

The remains were interred at the county's expense today. Following is the jury's VERDICT:

In the Justice's Court for Deer Creek district, Douglas County, State of Oregon.

In the matter of the inquisition held upon the body of an unknown man: We, the jury empaneled to investigate and inquire the cause of death of a certain person, who was found dead on the east bank of the South Umpqua river, near the railroad bridge that crosses over Deer Creek, in the city of Roseburg, Douglas county, Oregon, are unable to find out the name of the person who was so found dead. That he was between 30 and 40 years of age at the time of his death.

That on the 25 day of July, 1905, he came to his death by a wound from a shotgun, that the shot was fired at the hands of said deceased, and we further find that the same was fired with suicidal intent, and we further find that said person, whose name is unknown to us, came to his death by a wound inflicted with his own hands. Dated at Roseburg, Oregon, this 26th day of July, A. D. 1905.

CORNELIUS—BORN—At the bride's home near Riddle, July 18, 1905, Mr. Rodney Cornelius and Miss Mayme Born, Rev. Miller, of Dillard, officiating. The groom is a young man of exceptional character, respected and esteemed by all who knew him. He has been in the employ of the S. P. Co. as telegraph operator for a number of years. The bride is a charming and popular young lady, the daughter of Mrs. M. Winters, of Riddle. After a few days spent at Portland visiting the fair and with Mr. Cornelius' parents at Jefferson, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius will make their home in Dillard, where Mr. Cornelius is employed as agent and telegraph operator. The parlors were decorated with trailing clematis, ferns, potted plants and a profusion of cut flowers. A beautiful arch of ferns and white verbenas supported the wedding bell where at 8:30 the contracting parties took their places. Mr. Preston Lake acting as best man, and Miss Ethel Harmon as bridesmaid. The bride looked very beautiful in a dress of cream albatross trimmed in delicate lace of beautiful needlework. She wore a bridal veil and orange blossoms. The groom was clothed in conventional black. After the impressive marriage ceremony had been performed the bride threw her bouquet and Mr. N. Blundell secured it while the rest of the boys turned green with envy. The groom was requested to toss a bouquet and Miss Gussie Brown was the fortunate one to receive it. A most delicious lunch was served. The appearance of the bride's cake with the floral button and nickel caused a great deal of good-natured jest. Ralph Quine receiving the nickel and Mr. Wallace the button. Hardly had the guests partaken of refreshments when the discordant sound of a bell and a repressed laugh were heard and the tin can and cowbell artists were upon the scene. Girls, boys, women and men were among the number, all determined to do credit to the occasion and to themselves, and while the sounds were not as melodious as Beethoven's Sonatas, the performers were cordially received and beautifully treated to ice cream, cake and lemonade. Many beautiful and valuable presents were received. At a late hour the guests bid the bride and groom goodnight wishing them a long and prosperous voyage on life's ocean. B. C.

The Williamson Case.

Congressman Williamson's second trial is dragging along at Portland a few new witnesses being examined but the testimony remains practically the same as in the first trial. Wednesday Judge Bennett and Heney had several lively tilts which Judge De Haven quelled.

Hats off! for the body of John Paul Jones is coming across the sea! Across the sea and the wild white foam, To the land where he longed to be. He served her well, and loved her true, And he fought for her heart and brain, While his quaint old ship and their ragged crew Faced death in that fiery rain. Small fear of the odds he had little John Paul, But he fought as he saw the right, And did he surrender? Oh, not at all! He "had only begun to fight." The falling masts and steaming decks— Yes, the groans of his wounded men— But never the spirit of Captain Paul To run his flag up again! Hats off! for the body of John Paul Jones Is coming across the sea. Blow, soft sea breezes, and waft him home To the land where he longed to be. —Ella True Conner, Colorado Springs.
