Tales Told About Ball Players

How Connie Mack Dazzled Rube Waddell With a Hundred One Dollar Bills—Jimmy Sebring and His Trouble In Getting a Bed.

When the Pacific coast was "scrapping" with the rest of baseball combined Rube Waddell jumped his eastern reservation to the land of the Golden Gate. After setting this league on fire one season with his great work Connie Mack planned a special trip to the Pacific coast where he had figured out how to yank the star Rube back to the Philadelphia American.

When the Athletic mogul reached the coast the Frisco magazine heard of his arrival and sought Rube out, handing him a check for $500 on his promise to remain. When Mack found this out, knowing the south paw as he did, he hit upon a unique scheme.

"What have they given you to stay here?" he asked the twirler.

Rube presented his check.

"What, just that piece of paper?" said C. Mack scornfully. "Well, here's what I'll do for you." And the eastern manager then counted a hundred one dollar bills, stacking them up in a pile about a foot high. Rube's eyes came near jumping from their sockets at this display of riches, and he lost no time repudiating the insignificant check and showing the blotted board of riches to his team.

The hundred one dollar bills looked better to him than one penny slip of paper, and he returned east, where he has since remained.

"Jimmy Sebring made his advent in professional baseball and in a grown-up town at one and the same time," says Lave Cross. "It was at Worcester, Mass., that Jimmy reported for diamond duty, but as he reached the city early on a Sunday morning there was nothing to do but to wait a day before donning his uniform.

"So Sebring went to a hotel and asked for a room. He was worn and weary from his long trip and needed rest. It was an up to date room into which the future great but then unknown ball player was ushered. Jimmy sought the easiest chair in sight and then sat down. After a long wait he touched the push button.

"A cigar, please," he said. An hour later he rang the bell again. "A pitcher of water, please," was this order. So it went on until well past noon. Lemons, magazines, newspapers and cigars were ordered. Jimmy all the time fighting shy of the question nearest to his heart.

"Finally, when almost ready to curl up on the carpet and go to sleep, Sebring's contrance came back to him. He gave the bell a savage punch. When the boy appeared, Jimmy yelled with all his might:

"Bring me a bed! Don't you see I'm dying for sleep?"

"Certainly, sah. Certainly," said the boy, and going over to the corner, he let down a sumptuous folding bed that, once in a horizontal position, seemed to fairly invite rest and sleep.

"Well, drag me for a Rube, whiskers and all," said Jimmy. "Here I've been sitting straight up in a chair half a day wondering whether that thing was a music box or an ice chest."

Baseball's Worst Players.
Ball playing is at greatest strain on the nerves. Professionals, though apparently calm to criticism and failure, suffer poignantly. Pitcher Eddie Cheney is in an insane asylum from worry at the game.

John M. Ward a Star Golfer.
John M. Ward, the former New York baseball player and manager, is now one of the greatest golfers in America. He is holder of the championship of New Jersey and is a candidate for national honors.

The Motor League.
The American Motor League membership is increasing at the rate of six a day.

Nothing For Tips.
"He lived in Paris through the reign of terror." "Paris?" That was over 100 years ago." "Not for him. He was there two weeks without any money."

Snap All Round.
"You have heard of the electric cradle." "No. How does it work?" "Well, the mother touches the button, and the baby does the rest."

The Difference.
When a man has paid his carfare and is asked to pay once more, then the racket that he raises fills the car from floor to door. When the man who takes the tickets doesn't see him for awhile, then the silence is so noisy. You can hear it for a mile.

Immune.
"He must be a charmed life." "Why so?" "He was thrown in with three widows this summer and came away unharmed."

More to Be Dreaded.
"Here is an item," said the starchy young man, "about a party being poisoned by ice cream that I am going to send to my girl. I calculate that it should be worth $25 for the summer."

"Huh," said Foxy Tightwad. "I have a better one than that. Here is a clipping that says ice cream is bad for the complexion."

Humor and Philosophy
By DUNCAN M. SMITH

FERT PARAGRAPHS.

Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today unless it is settling with a bill collector.

A man's good opinion of himself is often based on the supposition that the neighbors do not know as much about him as he knows himself.

Real green onions are to be distinguished from imitation ones by their odor.

A fair weather friend is the one that steals your umbrella whenever a shower threatens.

When a woman stands in a man's way, instead of trying to overcome the obstacle, he would better go a mile around.

If the man who is on two payrolls is not happy, he is hopeless.

All hot weather philosophy may be boiled into two words—keep cool.

When all is lost but honor, you can't raise more than the price of a drink of water on that.

The woman who values her peace of mind doesn't put a detective on the trail of her husband.

Man is such an adaptable animal that he can get used to anything but hotel cooking.

A faint heart never won a fair lady unless the fair one had made up her mind to be won.

The False Alarm.
The doorbell rings. A telegram: I tremble and grow white. What is this message in such haste? The sender could not write, but must invoke electric aid to reach me in the night!

Has some one in a railroad wreck been mangled by a train? Has brother Charley way out west by Indians been slain. Or was some loved one bathing and unable shore to gain?

Oh, possibly it only is A messenger of joy; Perhaps some cousin and his wife Have got a baby boy. I'll bet, if it is May and Frank, They'll name the infant Roy.

No, no; it must be evil news; It fills my soul with dread. Dear aunt has fallen in the well, Or uncle has dropped dead. Or some one is so sick that I Must hasten to his bed.

Oh, pahaw, it's just a single line From that dear silly Sue. She's on the train that comes along Tomorrow just at two. And says she'd like to see me for A chat as she goes through.

The Danger to the Child
May be real or the snake may be a harmless one, but there is danger that menaces every child's life if the mother is deficient in womanly health and functional vitality.

Thousands of women have borne their sufferings and kept the troubles to themselves for motives of delicacy and feeble childhood has paid for it.

Dr. Pierce, forty years ago, consulted Nature, and found that she had provided remedies in abundance for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments and weaknesses. He found that non-alcoholic glyceric Golden Seal root, Blue Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Black Cohosh root and Lady's Slipper root, combined in just the right proportions, gave such surprising results that this compound soon became a standard favorite of his in the treatment of such cases. In a little time the demand for it became so great that he determined to put it up and provide for its general sale so that the multitudes needing it could readily supply themselves.

This is now known all over the civilized world as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and its unparalleled record of hundreds of thousands of cures, in the last forty years, justifies all that can be said of it.

It is non-alcoholic, non-narcotic. It is safe and reliable for any woman, of any age and in any condition, to take.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—only one or two a day will regulate and cleanse and invigorate a foul, bad stomach, torpid liver, or sluggish bowels.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for putting up and providing for its general sale. Over 1000 pages and illustrated. Address Dr. E. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Come to our store and get a sample of Chi-Namel applied to wood. Take it home and test it.

First. Strike the wood sample a heavy blow with a hammer, and note that while the wood may be indented a quarter of an inch the varnish has not cracked or cracked. This proves that Chi-Namel is very elastic.

Second. Place the wood sample in a tea kettle, and note that boiling water does not turn it white. This proves that Chi-Namel contains no resin.

Third. Apply whiskey. This proves that Chi-Namel will stand upon bar tops.

Fourth. Allow a can of the varnish to stand open over night, and note that there is no evaporation. This proves that Chi-Namel contains no benzine.

Fifth. Spread varnish over flat surface, and break in every direction, and note "oil leveling" effect. This proves that all brush marks disappear, and the result will be pleasing no matter how inexperienced the applicator may be.

Old floors can be made to look like new hard wood.

Do not buy new furniture. Chi-Namel will make old furniture look BETTER than new furniture.

Take no substitutes. We invite you to prove to yourself that this is ROSEBURG "just as good as Chi-Namel."
