THE GOVERNOR'S COAST VISIT.

The visit of our Governor, the Hon. Geo. E. Chamberlain, to Langlois, at the late meeting of the W. O. W., seems to have awakened quite an enthusiasm among the Democrats and muggums of Curry. It was perhaps fortunate that he was not persuaded to venture further into the country, as such a moral wave has struck the untried that a person of his convictions would be in danger of arrest if, perchance, he should have inhaled anything stronger than Adam's ale. It appears, by Coos county papers, that Democracy in that section has not forgotten its old-fashioned ways of prosperity, and that the Governor was treated right royally, says the Wedderburn Radiator.

The disposition of people who live in outlying districts to magnify the virtues of the latest comer is evinced by the expression of some of our local papers, who are asking the question, "can the Republicans find a man to beat Gov. Chamberlain?" It is true that Gov. Chamberlain is a very agreeable man to meet, and an astute politician; of course he did not attend the meeting of the Woodmen with the idea of receiving political benefit, his followers in Curry having heretofore been so numerous, there was no necessity.

The question of the ability of the Republicans of Oregon to find a competitor equal or superior to Gov. Chamberlain in intelligence, morality and honesty, seems absurd, when it is remembered that he holds his present office through a division in the party, which brought to the front an unpopular candidate in the person of a recently-converted Democrat. After remaining coagulated for many years in the Democratic pot became heated by the fire of Republican dissent, and Gov. Chamberlain popped to the surface, to be followed by a few of putrid principles, who hope by sticking closely to the heels of the Governor to elevate themselves by taking advantage of his popularity. The Democratic party in Oregon being out of control for many years there has been no disposition on the part of the best men of the party to offer themselves as victims for political hari kari, consequently the fo-tam and jetsam have, in most instances, been the only seekers for political preferment.

The difference between the Republican and Democratic parties in Oregon, is that the success of the Republican party came from the selection of men who had a good record at the time of election, and if any have political purposes is to dump the holdings of the poorer class of people into the hopper of the land barons and cattle barons, both opposed to settlement of the state.

If the common people, and the young people, all of whom have a perfect right, under the laws of congress, to get a piece of land if they can, do not resent this they are very much mistaken.

The government should prosecute, vigorously all cases of fraud, but the present policy of tying up all the claims in entire counties like Lincoln, is a blow to development.

It would be far better for every county in Oregon if titles could be perfected, and even if part of them were disposed of, that these lands become taxable, than to force them in to the hands of syndicates.

Rona file settlers are what the state needs, and must have to develop, and the cattle and timber syndicates are opposed to having the state settled up and having those lands become assessable.

Whose game is Heney playing? The game of the common people or big corporations that want to own millions of acres of land, and await their increased value to make more multi-millionaires?

Congressman Cushman, of Washington, made short work of the threat on Heney's part to go and investigate land frauds in Washington. He virtually told him such methods would not go down in that state.

SOCIALISM

"The Socialist party presents the anomaly of a party with an elaborate 'scientific' system of societary evolution, an excellent interpretation of history, and forecast of the supposedly final form which society will assume—yet without a program or hint of the specific manner in which industry will be carried on under the collective ownership of all the means of production and distribution, with democratic management by the workers engaged in each industry," writes Charles Q. De France, Secretary People's Party National Committee, in Tom Watson's magazine. "It is admitted that we have no right to ask for prophecies—but we have a right to see a rough draft, at least, of the new building that is to be erected after the social revolution has torn down the old edifice. It is true that a few so-called Socialist parties pretend to tell us what will be 'under Socialism'—vague, Utopian—parade the term 'pipe dreams', but none of them will give even an outline sketch of how collective industry might be carried on, preferring to hide behind the excuse that 'we'll cross that bridge when we reach it.' Alas! the bridge might happen to be washed out by the floods of social revolution.

"Being an extreme on the side of materialism as opposed to idealism, or collectivism as opposed to individualism, Socialism is quite impossible as a scheme of government. Besides, the 'materialistic conception of history,' upon which Socialism bases its prediction of the co-operative commonwealth, is not wholly scientific, because it fails to consider what changes may be wrought by invention. In a general way, it may be said that the invention of gunpowder destroyed feudalism, and that the discovery of steam power and its application to manufacturing broke up the guild system of masters, journeymen and apprentices, and ushered in the present wage system. Who has the hardihood to prophesy what an Edison may not do in the years to come, or to foretell what the effect may be?"

The simple fact remains that, under certain acts of congress, people acquired certain rights to take up land and certain rights to dispose of them. The effect of the Heney prosecution is to stop this practice, but to force the holders of unperfected and perfected titles to unoccupied government lands into the hands of syndicates for a song, says the Salem Journal.

Instead of the holder of a timber claim getting $1000 to $1500 or $2000, as they should get, they are forced to sell for $75 or $100 or $200, and they are doing it right along.

The effect of these prosecutions for

WILLIAMSON TRIAL UNFAIR

"Our esteemed Democratic contemporary, the Roseburg Review, after casually observing the progress of the land fraud case and carefully noting public sentiment as the trials advance, arrives at the following conclusion, which it states in rather plain and emphatic English:

"The people of Oregon will not be sorry that a new federal judge will preside over the future land fraud trials. They have grown tired of the continuous performance of the De Haven—Heney combination, the Williamson trials being as one-sided, unfair examples of the perversion of justice as is often witnessed. Reversing the general rule the defendants' attorneys and witnesses were bullied and gagged by the court while Prosecuting Attorney Heney was given full latitude in a tirade of abuse seldom, if ever equalled in a court of law. A prosecution that approaches persecution 'never appeals to the spirit of fair play that is so characteristically American."

The Drain Nonpareil offers a good suggestion to Drain and Douglas county people when it says: "It is to be sincerely hoped that the property owners of the town will not make the fatal mistake—like many other Oregon towns have made—of holding the prices so unreasonably high as to discourage and scare investors and newcomers out of the place. Many a small town has been ruined, when its prospects could not have been brighter, by wanting as much for a lot as a farm could be bought for just outside the city limits. Such a course generally results in everybody adjoining the town laying out "additions" to the town, thus spreading it all over the country and killing the place as dead as a door-nail. After towns are allowed to grow to a population of several thousand people, then there is not so much danger of raising the price of real estate. The same applies to farm lands.

Sloan P. Shutt, the new editor of the Drain Nonpareil, is evidently not only enterprising and aggressive, but is spoiling for trouble. With the very first issue of his paper he took another hitch in his trousers, buckled up his suspenders another notch, kicked the office cat into the backyard and gave us the following humiliating and libelous thrust, making us say something we never dreamed of. Just what we have said or done to merit this persecution must needs remain a mystery. Now listen! "Editor Conner of the Plaindealer says early in September there will be a baby show at the Portland fair and it seems as if that it is giving a fellow damned short notice." We might have forgiven Shutt if he had not written the following stanza:

The trees were full of leafy leaves,
The sun shone bright and fair,
The birds were singing in the trees,
And the wind blew through the air.

Only six weeks more remain of the Lewis and Clark Exposition period. The fair will close October 15. Nearly every one who visits it goes home advising his friends to take advantage of the opportunity to see this wonderful exposition before it is too late. When President Francis of the St. Louis World's Fair visited Portland two weeks ago he urged the people, in a public address, to attend the fair for their own pleasure and benefit. "If you do not," he said, "you will regret it only once, and that will be all the rest of your life."

The great astronomical event of the year will be the total solar eclipse of August 30. The pathway of the shadow begins at sunrise south of Hudson Bay, enters the Atlantic Ocean a short distance north of Newfoundland, crosses northeastern Spain, northeastern Algeria, and northern Tunis, passes centrally over Assuan on the Nile and ends at sunset in southeastern Arabia.

The railroad companies admit that they violate the law by granting rebates, but set up the claim that if they did not do it they would lose their share of the traffic. It is a very singular plea. It is not half as just as the one that a man steals because he is hungry, or because his wife and children are suffering for the necessities of life. "We violate the law because somebody else does," say the railroad companies. Suppose that every criminal would set up the same excuse for the commission of crime. And ordinary criminals have a better right to make that plea in palliation for their crime than the trusts and corporations have. If, as they admit, the railroad managers are so dishonest that one must violate the law because another does, if there is no way to restrain them except to turn the whole matter over to them, and permit them to pool their earnings so that one thief can watch the other thieves, it is about time to abolish the whole system of private ownership and for the Government to take charge of the lines of transportation. The railroad companies make out the worst kind of a case against themselves. They admit that there are enough lawbreakers among them to demoralize the whole system.

THINGS ARE DOING

OVER AT DRAIN

C. D. Chorpener, a bright young business-man of Roseburg was a Drain visitor Sunday.

Joao Beckley, of Elkton, brought in a carload of fine beef cattle Wednesday and shipped them to Portland.

Mrs. F. L. Kent has converted her residence into a hotel, just across the bridge between town and the normal school building.

Attorney J. E. Sawyer, of Roseburg, came over Tuesday for a few days, cutting with home folks on the farm a few miles west of here.

M. R. Ryan and A. H. Wheldon bored a much-needed well, 25 feet deep, this week at the corner of Biedso's store, for public use.

Roger De Laney, who resides about nine miles northwest of town, was unfortunate enough to lose his house with all its contents by fire a few days ago.

Miss Kyrle Hodgketh, of Roseburg, is visiting at the home of Benton Mires in Drain. She will resume her studies in the State Normal when school opens here Sept. 12th.

A lively game of baseball was played here Sunday between the railroad surveyors and the Drain boys, resulting in a victory for the latter, by a score of 9 to 6.

Frank Kent and Merritt Spalding have returned from a month's stay in the mountains on the middle fork of the Willamette where Mr. Kent is pasturing a drove of about 100 head of cattle on the reserve.

The roosting hum of Hedden's thrasher is once more heard in the land about Drain, while the steam thrasher of F. E. Wells is making similar music in the Triquet neighborhood, four miles west of town.

The railroad surveyors are now about 7 miles west of here. Up to Wednesday they had been driving to town every evening, but this practice will now be discontinued.

The Drain normal and public schools will open on Sept. 12th and an unusually large attendance is expected this term. Some of the most competent instructors in the entire county have been employed as teachers.

Mr. E. M. Durfee, secretary and treasurer of the Mexican Lumber Co., of the City of Mexico, is here on a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Durfee. On his return home his mother will accompany him as far as San Francisco, where she will visit a sister. They visited the fair at Portland this week and expect to go south Monday.

The railroad surveyors this week changed the former survey of the Y in South Drain, making it a couple of hundred feet further north. This was done in order not to interfere with the planning mill site of the Skeley Lumber Co., which has already commenced work on their mammoth lumbering plant and saw and floor factory at this place. Nuisings

It will soon be time to open negotiations with the fuel dealer for several cords of wood.

Newspapers are the alarm clocks of the public. They tell when it is necessary to be up and doing.

When girls return from the sea beach they never show the extent of their tan. They don't wear the bathing suits in town.

The laws adopted in some cities against spitting on the sidewalks appears to have added zest to the dirty performance.

Igorrotes are said to have cultivated a taste for wine. This is, however, only another way of serving their favorite meat.

Whether or not the country needs public ownership of public utilities, it certainly does need public ownership of public offices.

There is but one editor in the Ohio penitentiary, and he was sent up under mitigating circumstances. He shot a delinquent subscriber.

"Will your widow dress as well as your wife does?" is one of the advertisements of an insurance company. It depends on what luck she has in picking out No. 2.

It is about time to end this Edward Atkinson talk about a woman dressing on $65 a year. The proprieties and the law require that she wear something besides a hat.

"It is claimed that best act as messengers in an excellent manner," says the St. Johns Review. "We received a message from one a week or two ago and when we retransmitted, received a stinging rebuke. He sat right down on us."

Autumn is at hand. Saw a man this morning raking up and burning fallen dead leaves. Doesn't seem possible. It's been summer so long and we've danced along in the sunshine until the year's age is forgotten. Those falling leaves came as a shock.

Fritz is not the only fancy motorcycle rider about this neck of the woods. Our worthy machineist, Wm. Rodson, is said to have done some very artistic riding on top of the hill north of town this week, which, however, cost him a new pedal and a package of sticking plaster.

"Recently a little slim old lady came to Seaside from a middle state," tells the Seaside Signal. "She had always had to pinch and save to make both ends meet, and everything in her life had been small and of narrow scope. It was her first time to see the ocean, and a stranger standing near heard her exclaim, 'Thank God, there is enough of something!'"

A lady went into Kruse & Newland's grocery store a few days ago and asked for a peck of apples, taking as she supposed to be a new laundry'd floor sack in which to receive them. She held the sack while Newland poured in the apples. A singular thing then happened. The fruit went through the sack and rolled over the floor. On examination it was found that there were two holes in the bottom of the sack, both trimmed with embroidery. Mr. Newland had a fit and the lady scold a small boy after the apples—with a basket.

East Umpqua Items

Warm here, 90 degrees in the shade. A little rain is needed to freshen vegetation.

Grain threshing is proceeding rapidly as the weather is fine.

Livingston Brothers are operating their sawmill on the North Umpqua.

We have good catyaping grounds and plenty of good water for pleasure seekers. Come and be convinced.

County Surveyor Roberts has just finished a contract of surveying part of Township 27 South, Range 2 West.

Judge J. A. Buchanan and family, of Roseburg, are camping near the mouth of Wolf creek and are having a fine time.

P. J. Bond is in Roseburg looking after the business of Jeweler Salzman during a temporary absence of the proprietor.

A few days ago Atty.-Gen. Crawford and party passed up the valley on their way to Crater Lake and other points of interest.

Geo. Shrum and Will Singleton came home after a trip to the Cascade Reservation where they have their herds of sheep.

The valley of the East Umpqua is the favorite route of travelers going to Crater Lake and Fort Klamath and it is being well patronized.

Good health prevails in our part of the county. X. Z.

Yoncalla News.

Mrs. Laura Irelan is quite ill. Much hay will be baled in the vicinity of Wilbur.

Miss Merle Smith of Roseburg is the guest of Julia Bishop.

Bernard DeVore of Canyonville came in on Saturday morning's local.

Mrs. Wyatt of California is visiting her brother, Ed Tullar of Ill.

Miss Mae Bishop returned Monday from a two weeks absence at Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stock are visiting at Canyonville with Mrs. Stock's father. Claude Hockett of Grants Pass visited his parents on Maple Creek this week. Mrs. Minnie Beckley of Oakland is the guest of her brother A. L. Fisher at Milltown.

Mrs. Lizzie Little of Milltown presented her husband with a fine daughter Aug. 25.

Mrs. Lulu Dodge and Mrs. Josie McCallen of Ashland are the guests of Misses Lucy and Irene Applegate.

About two weeks yet will be required to finish threshing in this county. The yield will be a little above the average.

Mrs. Rader of Kellogg visited with Mr. Green and family west of town Friday and Saturday going to Oakland from here.

Mrs. Tensie Applegate was summoned to the bedside of her daughter Agnes, who is very sick at San Francisco. She left on Saturday's local.

Mrs. Charles Patrick and children and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brumfield are the guests of Mr. James Daugherty.

Miss Ethel Williams, telephone girl of Grants Pass, and Warren Burt, a S. P. fireman between Roseburg and Portland visited at Henry Burt's this week.

Jay Willey of Mead, Neb., with his wife and mother, are the guests of J. P. Bishop and wife. Mrs. Jay Willey was a schoolmate of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, but they had not met for 25 years. Many hearts are made glad because of the reunion which the Fair brings about.
