GIVE THE COUNTRY A CHANCE

The Register has a communication from a prominent Oregon person who is deeply interested in the future of our state and who is now in Portland. This communication suggests that arrangements be made for bringing a large delegation of representatives from other states to Eugene at the session of the Willamette Valley Development League. These guests could be brought from among the commissioners who are permanently located at the exposition. Our correspondent states that the fair commission is not dealing with the outlying districts in a manner approaching fairness, and that they are discouraging visitors from frequenting the country districts, simply for the purpose of swelling admissions. If this is true, and from observations there is every reason to believe it is, the exposition officials should re-adjust their position in this matter.

The financial success of the fair is already assured and the country ought to be in line for attention dur-

MORE KIND WORDS.

The Roseburg Plaindealer changed hands last week. For more than a year past the paper has been owned and published by an incorporated company, but has now passed into the hands of W. E. Willis, of Los Angeles, Cal., and experienced newspaper man, who will do doubt draw freely upon his nervous force in order to build it up into a flourishing publication. The Observer welcomes Mr. Willis to the Oregon newspaper field, and extends best wishes for his success.—Observer, Grants Pass.

The Roseburg Plaindealer has changed hands and has been bought by newspaper men from Los Angeles. Editor Conner now returns to Cottage Grove, his home. It is to be hoped that Editor Conner will not retire from the profession as he is without question one of the best newspaper men in the State.—North Bend Citizen.

The Roseburg Plaindealer has been sold by the company of politicians and business men, who owned it, to W. E. Willis, a newspaperman from Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Willis assumed control of the Plaindealer last week and the first number under his management proved that he is an up-to-date newspaper man. W. C. Conner, the former editor, has moved to Cottage Grove to again take up work at that town.—Grants Pass Courier.

The Roseburg Plaindealer has changed owners again, this time passing into the hands of W. E. Willis, an experienced newspaper man of Los Angeles. Editor Conner, who so ably conducted the destinies of the Plaindealer for the past year, will retire to Cottage Grove, where he has property interests that command his attention.—Marshfield Sun.

The Roseburg Plaindealer has changed hands, the paper having been sold to W. E. Willis of Los Angeles, Cal. The new editor will have to get a hustle on if he keeps the paper up to the high standard of excellence it has always been under the management of the retiring editor, W. C. Conner, who is one of the ablest and brightest writers in Oregon. We wish the new management success.—Drain Nonpariel.

The New York Herald comes out in glowing headlines and announces that "diamonds have advanced fifty per cent during the past year." Such reports may interest the average citizen, but for the ordinary newspaper man, they are as nothing, for he knows very little about such things.

At Ashland, says the Record, the Elks have purchased a choice building site and will now proceed to erect a fine lodge hall.

Next Friday evening there will be an important meeting of the Reno Corps, W. R. C., in Foresters hall. All members are urged to attend.

Visitors at the district fair are invited to call and make themselves at home with the Plaindealer. The new editor hopes to meet many Douglas county friends of the paper during the week.

Dr. Sealey performed a delicate but very successful operation for Dr. Studley the other day. He removed scar tissue which had developed from a carbuncle, and the operation was very successful.

The Tidings announces that Henry C. Gale, formerly of Roseburg where he was cashier of the Douglas County Bank, has purchased the Ashland Steam Laundry, which he will now personally conduct.

Local weather prognosticators are saying that there will soon be some rainfall in this section, but the fair management sincerely trusts that Jupiter Pluvius will not conclude to send downpours all through fair week, as he does sometimes.

According to the Tidings, Ashland is reaping profits from the raid which is being made upon "blind pigs." It figures out $245.10 costs of prosecution, for witnesses, etc., while $550 has been received from fines, leaving a net gain of $304.90.

A Brown county girl recently sent 50 cents to a Chicago advertiser for a receipt to white and keep the hands soft. She received the following advice: "Soak them three times a day in dishwater while your mother rests."—Kansas City Journal.

Wednesday the newly elected directors of the Umpqua Coal Co. will hold a meeting for the purpose of electing officers of the corporation to serve for the ensuing year. The affairs of the company are reported to be in a most prosperous condition.

Noah was the first man to advertise. He advertised the flood, and it came all right. The fellows who laughed at the advertising got drowned, and it served them right. Ever since Noah's time the advertiser has been prosperous while the other fellows have been swallowed up in the floods of disaster.

The other day while out hunting near Blackrock, Lyle Marsters, the thirteen-year-old son of Hon. A. C. Marsters, had the good luck of seeing some deer, and what is better, he succeeded in bringing one to the earth with a good shot.

When he returned home with the trophy his grandmother suggested that he go down and get his father to dress it, but Lyle went ahead and dressed the animal in a very creditable manner. Being able to kill and dress a deer is quite an achievement for a boy of Lyle's age.
