digits on each foot, whereas the horse known to the world in historical times is an animal with but a single toe to each foot. Prof. Huxley pointed out that though when America was discovered no trace of the existence of the horse on any part of the continent, nevertheless the investigations of American geologists had proved that the remains of horses occur in the most superficial deposits of both North and South America, just as they do in Europe. A Spaniard seated upon a horse was a startling phenomenon to the natives of Mexico.

At the time Prof. Huxley delivered his lecture Prof. Marsh of Yale had collected in the Yale Museum a noteworthy assemblage of the fossil remains of horses, including not only the remains of three-toed horses, but of the far older Orohippus of the Eocene formations, which was then the oldest member of the equine series known, and possessed four complete toes on the front limb and three toes on the hind limb.

It is noteworthy that Prof. Huxley then predicted that when "the still lower Eocene deposits, and those which belong to the Cretaceous epoch have yielded up their remains of ancestral equine animals, we shall find, first, a form with four complete toes and a rudiment of the fifth digit in the hind foot; while in still older forms the series of the digits will be more complete, until we come to the five-toed animals, in which, if the doctrine of evolution is well grounded, the whole series must have taken its origin."

After the lecture was delivered Professor Marsh discovered a new genus of equine mammals called the Eohippus, from the lowest Eocene deposits of the West, corresponding very nearly to Professor Huxley's description. The remains of the Eohippus and Orohippus, as well as many other strange remains, came from the Rocky Mountain region of the United States.

There is a tendency to return to simplicity in education and to emphasize the importance of the three "R's" with the addition of geography, and with better methods of teaching. For ourselves, we believe that one of the "fads" which can be spared is a good deal of the teaching that comes under the name of "science." The difficulty is in the attempt to teach a specialty in the public school which belongs to the university, or to the specialist. There can not be too much knowledge of natural science among those who make a business of any department, and who may give the results of their work to the world. The physician cannot know too much about anatomy and kindred subjects; and the study of zoology and comparative anatomy has its place for the investigator. But unwise teachers have even introduced dissection into the public schools. A learned physician of broad general culture, in addition to his special knowledge, claimed that even the teaching of physiology in public schools is no advantage; that unless one is to be a specialist he may as well let it alone, and that the little knowledge which a public school pupil absorbs is on the whole worse than useless. This may be an extreme view. There is a distinct loss of some of the finer feelings in the study of much which is called "science" in the public schools, by teachers who have learned a little themselves, and do not distinguish between the proper education of the man of general culture, and that of the specialist. Physics or "Natural Philosophy" might perhaps receive even more attention, with profit, since it is the basis of much of the practical work of life. Public schools will produce better results by devoting attention to "Natural Philosophy" than to biology.

In closing up their various places of business Saturday, in order to give their support to the District Fair, the business men of this city again clearly demonstrated that they have the best interests of this community at heart. Likewise, they showed that they stand as a unit, when it comes to any such move as this kind. Such hearty co-operation will bring great returns and will mean much for the future of this place.

Judicious advertising is a splendid thing, remarks an exchange. The successful business man spends between one and two per cent of his gross earnings in advertising his business, and the more he does the more he advertises. The greatest of all mediums is the newspaper which circulates among the people, going to many homes daily. There are other ways, but many of them are fakes, because not above board, mere schemes in their character, and it is easy to throw away money on them. They are generally promulgated by strangers who make their clean-up and are gone with their money. The newspaper is a permanent fixture, constantly rustling for those who support it and the city in which it is published. It is read, and there is nothing in it but what is known. Some may skim the paper, but most people know what is going on inside the columns of the local paper. But the pamphlet of the schemer is thrown aside after one reading and is seen no more.

Editor Hayter, of the Polk county Observer, is inclined to resent a thrust at the country editor which he thinks was made by one of the Portland papers, which commented as follows regarding the recent meeting of the State Press Association: "The country editor has come to town. He has left for a time his sanctum, his devil, his esteemed contemporary and the rapid pumpkin contributed by Uncle Ebenezer Hayseed upon the celebrated occasion when he called in to pay a year's subscription. The pumpkin, glowing through the dust of the office window like a serene and golden sunset, was the last thing the editor's eye rested upon as he climbed into the smoker with his pass in his pocket, to dare the temptations of the great city. But when he returns vanquished and bankrupt from his encounter with metropolitan sin, the pumpkin will glow no longer, for 'our wife' will have baked it into a batch of those luscious pies. They take all the had taste out of his mouth and re-illumine his soul with the peaceful light of bucolic innocence. May the farms not be pined nor the devil drunk when he gets back, and may all his delinquent subscribers pay up forthwith, either in cash or cordwood, for he will need both. The joys of the city are expensive, and winter is at hand."

In closing up their various places of business Saturday, in order to give their support to the District Fair, the business men of this city again clearly demonstrated that they have the best interests of this community at heart. Likewise, they showed that they stand as a unit, when it comes to any such move as this kind. Such hearty co-operation will bring great returns and will mean much for the future of this place.

INTERESTING APPEAL FOR NEW HOSPITAL

Dear Mr. Editor of Plaindealer—In the open letter please allow me to place before your readers a correction of some false ideas occasionally expressed and to call on the people for concerted effort in the building of the Providence Hospital. This undertaking is not the work of a Stock Co., nor is it a commercial enterprise. It is solely and absolutely a charitable institution to be built by every one's generosity. It is a public utility in which patients will receive the best care in accordance with the doctor's orders and prescriptions. As in hotels, travelers pay for bed and board, so in this hospital, patients will be charged a small fee to meet current expenses, buy necessary equipments and make additional improvements. In religious matters the greatest liberty and respect will be guaranteed. In fact, ministers of every denomination will have the same liberty to attend the sick members of their flocks as I have to mine. The beauty of the climate and the varied richness of the soil have been advertised extensively. This an excellent thing and reflects great credit on the business tact of the community, yet a district without a hospital is like a city without fortifications. It has no protection against its enemy, no inducement for outsiders to settle, a home and no means to keep its inhabitants from fleeing to safe quarters. It is a well-known fact that intending settlers ask this triple question: Has it a church, a hospital and a school? We have churches and schools, but the third essential is still wanting. In fact entirely neglected. Besides being a drawing card for others to come and live amongst us, such an institution greatly increases the property value of the country to which it administers. What is to be done? Today each business man, each R. H. employee, each farmer and each government and city official can say, "We have now in our midst one who is building such an institution whose progress within a few months proves his fidelity and his sincerity to our best interests. We would be wanting in our duty, unjust and ungrateful if our indifference stood between us and the benefactor of ourselves and our children and our country. Therefore, let each of us stand pledged to give now such whole-hearted assistance as will rebound to the honor of all. Some, on the first appeal have done nobly and well. They will do so again, for their examples encourage and obliges others to come to the rescue. Let us be faithful to the last." In business, life success attends the long pull, the strong pull, the pull altogether. The writer seeks no honors but the consciousness of having performed a duty that will bring a ray of hope to the hearts of his fellow men in the hour of affliction.

Yours sincerely,
Thos. O'Carroll.

NOTED LECTURER COMING TUESDAY

A lecture will be given under the auspices of the Christian Scientist Society of Roseburg, Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, at the Opera House by Miss Mary Brookins, of Minneapolis. Miss Brookins is a member of the Christian Scientists Board of Lecturers of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston. This will be a free lecture and it will be for the purpose of clearing up any misconceptions which may exist in this locality regarding this church and its teachings, and not to proselyte. Any statements which Miss Brookins makes will be authentic for her lectures are selected with great care. It is hoped that the people of Roseburg will take this opportunity of informing themselves as to what Christian Science really is. All will be welcome. In speaking of this lecturer, Fairmount, Minn., News says: "An audience that nearly filled the spacious auditorium of the Christian Science church assembled Sunday afternoon, Nov. 13, to hear the lecture of Miss Mary Brookins, of Minneapolis, on the subject of Christian Science. Miss Brookins is a pleasing and interesting speaker and held the close attention of her audience for fully an hour. A few Christian Scientists from out of town points were in attendance in addition to the regular local congregation, but the audience was mostly made up from the representative people of Fairmount, and judging from the close attention given the speaker they were well pleased with the opportunity given to learn more of this doctrine which is undoubtedly doing much good in raising the standard of health and morality."

Cannon, the book store man, is fixing up his establishment in fine style these days. He did his own job painting and shows that he is no novice at such things. Special Postal Inspectors J. R. Fullinwider, of Spokane, and F. H. Farr, of Seattle, were prying into postal matters in this city, Saturday. They told the Plaindealer that it was not the Roseburg office they were after, for they regard Postmaster Parks' office as one of the best conducted to be found anywhere.

Contractor C. A. Gibler is taking a little of his spare time in which to erect a neat cottage for his home. With the assistance of Mr. Park he has put a nice concrete gutter from Main to Jackson streets for the Brooks block. Some miscreants went to the trouble of badly mutilating the work before it was done. Mr. Gibler says that he has the fellow spotted and that he will attend to his case later on.

Mr. and Mrs. Bland and children, of Garden City, Kas., who have been visiting Mrs. Bland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Millike, left today for California en route home.

B. S. Nichols started work today on a neat cottage which he will erect on Jackson street.

M. D. Murphy left Sunday morning for Portland to take in the fair and visit relatives.

Card of Thanks
We desire to thank the many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us in the burial of our beloved daughter and sister Eliza. W. H. ROSE and FAMILY.

Personal Mention

Thomas and Ross Townsend are home from Newport, where they have passed the vacation months.

J. A. Salabury, a prosperous Billings, Montana farmer, is the guest of his uncle, P. Benedict, and family.

Mrs. Thomas Gibson and daughters, Misses Ruth and Sybil Gibson, have returned from a pleasant sojourn at the great fair.

Mrs. Margaret Mere, of Burnettsville, Indiana, arrived in this city Sunday evening from Portland and is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cochran, of Edenbower.

Miss Eva Ryker, of Grants Pass, who has been working a few days at the local telephone office, returned home Sunday evening.

Miss Lucy Stanton, of San Francisco, Cal., who has been visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stanton and sister, Miss Lillie, has returned home.

S. K. Sykes and wife returned home from a visit to Portland on Sunday evening's local.

Fred Brown, night operator at the local telephone office has returned from a visit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

David Thompson and wife left for Portland on Sunday morning's local for a ten days visit to the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Mrs. R. L. Cannon and daughter, returned home Sunday night from a visit with relatives in the Willamette Valley.

Geo. W. Kruse, the groceryman, Engineer Burr Jones and Nathaniel Weatherford, are enjoying an outing in Upper Olatia. J. E. Fickens is employed in Kruse and Newlands store during Mr. Kruse's absence.

Otto Hansen made a business visit to Salem last week.

Frank Goodman left this city Sunday night for Klamath Falls, where he will attend the race meeting this week.

Robert McLaughlin and wife, have returned from a visit to the Portland fair. Mr. McLaughlin says the most interesting exhibit there now is that of the excellent live stock.

Mrs. O. P. Coshaw and daughters have returned from a visit in the Willamette Valley and the Portland fair.

Attorney C. I. Le. engod and wife returned from Portland, Friday morning, where they enjoyed several days attending the fair.

J. F. Whitsett who operates the Lone Rock county ferry was in this city on business, Saturday.

J. A. Buchanan wife and little child spent Saturday and Sunday visiting at Drain.

Miss Elma Teater left Sunday morning for Salem to enter the Willamette University.

Dr. Luther Hamilton, of Portland, who has been at the bedside of his mother Mrs. Hamilton, of this city, during her recent illness, left Sunday morning for Portland. We are glad to state that Mrs. Hamilton is now much better.

Edgar Campbell of Marshfield, who has been visiting here with relatives, left Saturday morning for Portland to attend the fair and visit relatives.

Miss May and Gertrude Neely who have been visiting their grandmothers, Mrs. L. C. Williams, of West Roseburg, left on Saturday morning's local for Portland enroute home, at Centralia, Washington.

Claud and Victor Short are in Portland attending the big fair.

Judge M. D. Thompson and family who have been attending the fair have returned home. Judge Thompson says that the Douglas county exhibit is now in fine shape and is a credit to our county.

Earl Strong and Thos. Townsend left on Monday's local for Eugene to enter the University. Other high school graduates who will attend the Oregon University this year are Bessie Kidder, Katherine Fullerton, Hazel Jewett, Olivia Ristley and Jessie Bell. This is the only crowd of students ever sent to the state institution from Douglas county.

S. S. Myers, special representative of the Census Bureau, is here gathering data for the manufacturing statistical report.

Ora Marsters and family, who have been living at Brownsville for a couple of years, have moved to Myrtle Point, where they will reside.

Phil. Frankenhaimer, of the firm of Frankenhaimer & Lightner, one of the leading drygoods firms of Riverside, Cal., is the guest of the family of E. Jacquins, of this city. He has been at the big fair.

Notice to Taxpayers.
The last half payment of the taxes for the year 1904 becomes delinquent Monday evening, October 2, 1905. Pay before that time to avoid penalty and interest. Taxpayers who have paid no part of the 1904 taxes and all other taxpayers are notified that shortly after the above date there will be other costs in addition to the penalty and interest on unpaid taxes. Please take notice and pay promptly.
H. E. McCLELLAN, Sheriff and Tax Collector.

Wiley J. Phillips, the great temperance orator, will address the people of this community at the Baptist church, Friday evening, Sept. 29, on "The Downfall of the Crib District." This is a startling revelation of sin as the orator found in Los Angeles. The admission is free and the church will probably be crowded.
77 2t

Mrs. S. D. Puffer, of Myrtle Point, is the guest of Mrs. A. C. Marsters.

Miss Eliza Cobb came home from the Portland fair Saturday night. She was delighted with everything, especially so with the music rendered by the Italian and Hawaiian bands.

COST MUCH MONEY TO CAST BALLOT

Hon. E. G. Hursh, who for several years guided the destinies of the Plaindealer, has been in this city having a good visit with his many friends. From 1880 to 1886 he was sole owner of the paper and he gave the people an excellent publication. At present he is Special Examiner for the U. S. Pension Bureau, with headquarters at San Francisco.

Mr. Hursh still regards Roseburg as his home and as an evidence of his loyalty to the Republican party he tells how he would drop his work and come here to cast his ballot for the nominees of that party, and he says that it never cost him less than one hundred and fifty dollars to thus exercise the right of franchise, counting railroad fare and all. But, the last campaign he did not come because he felt that there was no need of his coming, as subsequent developments showed.

His sons, Ray and Lorin, are both residents of San Francisco and both are doing well. Ray went to the Philippines and came; near losing an arm, as his father did, in the service of his country. A gun handled by a comrade exploded and a piece of it penetrated Ray's arm and for some time it was feared he was going to lose it. That caused him to give up his choice of life work and he took up dentistry, in which he is doing very nicely, while Lorin is a mining engineer.

While here, Mr. Hursh had a fine time visiting with old time friends and they spent a rich time recalling many of the exploits of the days when they were "young."
