COAST STATES WILL HANG TOGETHER

Co-operation is the watchword by which the Pacific States region will extend influence and prestige. The movement to bring the Pacific States, Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah and the territory of Arizona into harmonious and combined effort for progress is meeting with great favor and is being favorably commented upon by the press and public of the Pacific States. The commercial bodies of those of the Pacific States which are not already organized into a state central body are taking steps to bring about this important result and when this is accomplished which promises to be in the not distant future—the state commercial bodies will all work together into one central association representing the whole Pacific States region.

The central association will be built upon sound lines. It will represent the highest type of non-political, co-operative work for progress in the history of the west. The hundreds and even thousands of men who will be brought together in ideas or in association through this central body are the men who support the commercial organizations are numbered among the men who have hope for the west. Their effort is unselfish for they share results with the rest of the community. The state commercial organizations in turn are representative of the spirit of co-operative effort in the several states. They mean that all the commercial bodies in any one of the Pacific States have "gotten together" and are working with united effort through an established organization which provides the machinery for effective work on a business-like basis. Even the moral support which one section of a state or one city in a state may receive from all other portions of that commonwealth has a tremendous commercial value. A spirit of helpfulness in a state existing between the different regions enhances the opinion in which it is held throughout the world and has a value not measurable on a commercial basis. By organization this spirit finds a proper outlet in vigorous and continued action.

The different chambers of commercial bodies are rapidly preparing for combined state effort and the whole Pacific States region will be in a better position than at any time in its history to take advantage of the attention now focused upon it.

An important business change was made this week, by which T. S. Woolson, of Portland, purchased the interest of Mr. Chapin in The Leader Grocery, located near the depot. Mr. Woolson is an experienced business man and will find his firm doing a good business in this city. He is highly pleased with Roseburg, the people, climate, and particularly, with the business prospects of The Leader, which, as its name indicated, is one of the progressive establishments of the city.

It begins to look very much as though the proposed new telephone office would soon be a fact for the material is arriving on the ground and the spacious new quarters in the new Marsters block, on Cass Street is receiving much of it. Two immense cables, measuring 1400 feet and weighing 5400 pounds are already here and will soon be placed. The big switchboard will put in an appearance some time this week, and then just as soon as the force of expert workmen arrive from Salem and Eugene, where they have been similarly engaged, then things will rapidly assume shape here. When the new office is completed it will be a veritable "thing of beauty and a joy forever."

R. B. Mathews is the proud owner of a fine pointer dog, which he values at $100. The fellow is 3 years old and his father was a "White Stone," while the mother is a "Printer Boy." Well, the dog is a crackerjack, when it comes to running down birds, but, as the season is "closed" Mr. Mathews concluded to train the dog to catch rats. Accordingly he set a trap and got a rat as large as a squirrel, and then came the fun. Out in the street the trap was opened and away went the rat, with the dog in pursuit. But, not once could the dog even touch the rat. Up and down the street they ran, a crowd of people enjoying the sport. Finally the rat got entirely away. "If it had feathers the dog would have caught it," jokingly remarked Mr. Mathews to the bystanders.

A Judicial Inquiry

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine, whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup is unsurpassed. For sale by A. C. Marsters & Co.
