GOV, BENNETT'S ADDRESS.

A Large Crowd in Attendance-In-tense Enthusiasm. fotwithstanding the delay in securing the hall and the brief space of time allowed for circulating the announcement, Reed's Opera House was well filled last evening to en to the address of Gov. Bennett of Idaho Territory on the political issues of the day. In the lower portion of the hall the mats were all occupied and persons coming in late were compelled to stand and we also noticed a large number in the are ting by their presence, and evidently took no little interest in the proceedings. Gov. Bennett was introduced by Hon. Joseph G. Wilson, Congressman elect from this State in his usual, flowery style, after which the speaker proceeded to propound Republican doctrine in a plain straight-forward manner. He traced the record of the party during the past few years. paid a handsome tribute to its acknowledged lead ders, showed up the Democratic reform (?) in its true light, delivered crushing blows of scathing rebake at the bulwarks of the reeley supporters, touched lightly may ive manner on the attacks made Democrats on the personal character Gen. Grant, and in a general way, knocke the props from under the so called "Liberal reform" movement, and showed the insidement, and showed the inst an acceptable manner to the friends of the trolling power over his hearers that shows itself in the close attention paid to his re-marks. His remarks were interspersed with an occasional comical yarn that served to keep the audience in excellent humor at the same time being well adapted to the subject in hand. Taken altogether the

AN EXTRA SESSION .- This question seem to be agitating the mind of parties interested just at present. Can the Legislative Assembly transact its business in the time prescribed by law, or will the Governor be compelled to call a special session for the purpose of finishing up. The members closed as though they meant to get throug anyway. But there is an immense amour of work accumulated, and many doubt the bility of the present session to wa it all within the next ten days. It remail

WHAT NEXT?-Now that the State Fair i over and the Legislature drawing to a close-the question arises what will we have next to keep up an excitement. But what we have done we can no doubt do again so let it come.

Special Notice.—The annual meeting of the Oregon Children's Aid Society at two o'clock P. M. at the M. E. Church to-day. All members are requested to be present. From Daily of Thursday Oct. 10. BADLY MARED

We have often heard of the timidity of some people during a thunder storm, and we have a case in point which is so amusing that we cannot refrain from telling it.

Some time since a printer employed in one of the offices of this city, went home early to the boarding house in which he had only recently taken lodgings; and, retiring to bed early, he was awakened near midnight by the noise of a violent storm. He thereupon got up and lighted the lamp, and then Meantime the landlady, hearing a no in the adjoining room, and forgetting about the boarder, wakened her husband up and the boarder, wakened her husband up and told him there was a burglar in the house. He jumped out of bed, and seizing an old rusty sword, which hung on a nail in the wall, he proceeded to search the premises for the supposed robber. Coming to the door of the boarder's room, he saw the light, and at once made up his mind (not knowing that his wife had taken the printer to board) that a struggle would be necessary to secure the intruder. Mustering all his courage, therefore, he rushed into the his courage, therefore, he rushed into the room, sword in hand, and demanded that the frightened printer should surrender! the frightened printer should surrender!

The scene was no less startling than rediculous, and the feelings of the innocent printer can better be imagined than described. He proclaimed his innocence instanter, and announced himself a genuine boarder and no mistake, which explanation molified and disarmed the landlord, and especially so when the printer's story was confirmed by the landlady herself. The printer was then questioned as to the cause of his being up at that time of the night, when he replied that he was frightened by the thunder and lightning! A good hearty when he repried that he was frightened by the thunder and lightning! A good hearty laugh ensuad, and a few moments later the printer was left to his own reflections for the remainder of the night.

The Governor's Reception.—One of the principal events of Salem's greatest season—the Legislative session—was the reception last evening, by Gov. Grover and lady at their beautiful residence in South Salem. All the notables of Oregon, including the creame de la creme of fashion were there. the throng being a particularly brilliant one for even the Capital which gets up these af fairs in better style than any of her more pretentious neighbors. Of distinguished men there were a greater number than of-ten fall to the lot of any one in Oregon, to entertain together—ex-Governors, an exten fall to the lot of any one in Oregon, to entertain together—ex-Governors, an ex-Senator a Senator elect, Secretary, Treasurer, and other dignitaries of State, State Senators and Representatives, Judges of the Supreme Court, etc., almost without limit; and a greater number of beautiful and richly dressed ladies than we should dare to attempt mention of. The Governor and his accomplished lady did the honors with a simple democratic grace and ease that did them immense credit and won the hearts of all. The assemblage did not fully disperse till a late hour, and we are sure no one left without a sense of having spent an unusually pleasant evening.

Two Young Rascals.—On Monday morning of this week the thieving operations of we soung boys, both of whom were under welve years of age, and if the boys had twelve years of age, and if the boys had been taken before a magistrate they would in all probability have been sent to jail for a few days. One day last week a gentleman borrowed a fine double barrelled shot gun worth about $45 which he set up in the corner of his kitchen until he had use for the same. The boys who had noticed the transaction through an open door watched their chance and secured it with a lot of hunting equipments that were with it. They took it home and hid it under the house. Sunday morning they took it out house. Sunday morning they took it out and started for the country to enjoy a days sport. But their joy was turned to grief before night, for on their return to the city they were met by a gentlemen who recognised the fowling piece and asked the boys where they got it. They were so terrined that they confessed their guilt and surrandered their fire-arms without further ado. We withhold the boy's name simply on account of the mother who has done all in her power to make the boys repent of their theft by administering to them a sesevere punishment.

This Theatres.—Owing to other attractions the andlence at the Opera House last exening was the smallest that has greated Waldron since the season opened. But we are piessed to say that it made no difference in the munner the piece was put upon the stage. Had the house been crowded Enoch Arden would have been no better modered.
