

TELEGRAPHIC.

Very Latest News Reports.

Utica Convention.

UTICA, N. Y., April 27.—The Democratic State Convention reassembled this morning recognizing the Tammany delegates from New York as the regular delegation and gave seats on the floor without a voice to the anti-Tammany contestants.

Mr. Fitch's Diamonds.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The House committee on ways and means take the ground that as the bill relating to the Fitch jewels relate to revenue it must originate in the House, they will therefore prepare a new bill.

Cable Between the United States and Asia.

The bill introduced by Sargent to-day to encourage and promote telegraphic communication between the United States and Asia authorizes the American and East Indian Telegraph Co. of New York to lay, land and operate cables on the Pacific Coast within the jurisdiction of the United States for a period of twenty years.

Bill for the Relief of Settlers on Railway Lands.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The bill introduced by Wigginton to-day for the relief of settlers on railroad lands within the limit of Roland grant, Stanislaus county, provides that when the Central Pacific Railroad Company shall file with the Secretary of the Interior a release of all claims to all lands within the exterior limits of the Roland grant, he shall issue to said company scrip for 34,000 acres.

Arkansas Republican Convention.

LITTLE ROCK, April 27.—The Republican State convention, held to-day, was organized by the election of the following officers: Joseph Brooks, President; G. Johnson (colored), Y. A. Grace, N. B. Barton, Vice Presidents; J. M. Cooper, A. Dawson (colored), J. P. Jones, (colored) Secretaries. Dawson and Jones declined to serve, and Ed. Levy and J. H. Smith (colored) were substituted.

Impediment Trial.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The galleries in the Senate chamber were again crowded to-day, two-thirds of the audience being ladies. At 12:15 the legislative business was suspended and the impeachment trial began.

WEEKLY OREGON STATESMAN

VOL. 26. SALEM, OREGON, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1876. NO. 25

FROM DALLAS.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—As you seem to have no regular correspondent at this lively burg I will take the liberty of sending you a few items which may be acceptable to your Polk county readers.

Our Saturday Morning Appetizer, (it gives us an appetite to vomit), is pegging away with all the vim that spider legs can throw into it, for the Independent "movement." His remarks are very pointed, somewhat like his lower extremities, and various parties feel deeply cut (?) by the terrible slashes of his mighty pen.

Jeems Polk is making it rather warm for W. C. Brown. He is not the smartest man in the county, and consequently not the man for a legislator, but aside from that Brown is a jolly good fellow privately, and I think is an honest man, but I would hesitate a little before I said the same of his Democratic opponents.

Your correspondent who sent the Hayden biography, has offended Bill Clinean. He don't want folks to think that he and Dirty Ben ever reposed in the same couch. Bill says you must retract or he will take all your Polk county subscribers away from you.

One word in regard to our Dallas candidate for the legislature, Mr. E. S. Bolter, we have heard no less than a dozen good Democrats say they would vote for him in preference to the best man on their ticket.

WOMAN'S DRESS AND EDUCATION.

ED. STATESMAN:—I have ascertained by close investigation that over two-thirds of the females, whether married or single, acknowledge to be very much out of health, and by the same means have I found that not one-fourth of them know the original causes of their ailments and not one-third of these suffering, delicate, clinging creatures are anxious to peruse the pages of a journal of health, as they are those of a fashion magazine.

Mothers send their daughters to school and properly tell them to improve the golden hours of youth, and imprudently they set the example by tucking and ruffling—the latest modes of folly; there is now opening a broader field of more useful and nobler work for woman to enter upon, and it is time that they were preparing themselves and their off-springs mentally and physically for a more active and useful life.

It is time that wealthy and influential ladies were despoiling these time-wasting fashions and customs which hold the females of the world in bondage, there is a mighty work for women to do, which womanhood can do and each thinking and wide awake mother and daughter should call upon her own soul; awake to your noble work and lend a helping hand by setting an example for prudence and good sense, which would very rapidly become popular if each would listen and heed the dictates of their own conscience.

FANNY ABBOTT.

The composition of San Francisco claret wine was lately made known by an analytical chemist. A citizen purchased a cask of wine from a manufacturer, and having drunk forty or fifty bottles decided that it was bad, refused to pay for it and sent a bottle to a chemist for analysis. The latter reported that the red color was produced by myrtle berries; this acid was mostly sulphuric with a little tartaric. The wine contained eight per cent of alcohol, with some traces of grape-sugar and phosphoric acid. Nice—Lull to drink, that!

Democratic Discussion in New York.

An Albany special says Senators Bixby and Morrissey, who have returned from the Utica convention, say that the anti-Tammany organization will not go to any more conventions, but will defeat the State ticket.

Bogus Bond Swindle.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Some four years ago a number of bankers and brokers in this city were swindled out of sums aggregating about $97,000 by means of counterfeit 7 3/8 United States bonds. These brokers sent to the treasury department for redemption and received the proceeds. After the bogus character of the bonds was discovered the government instituted suit to recover the amount. The case was tried in the U. S. District court and resulted in a verdict for the government apportioning the amount as follows: Jay Cooke and others, $19,005; Central National Bank, $3,528; D. B. Hatch, $5,440 40; Peter M. Meyers, $4,255 60; N. P. Vernilye, $39,233 20; Wm. M. Bull, $11,022 20; J. Brewster, $5,525 20, and H. A. Caesar, Jr., $8,723.

First Attempt to Assassinate President Lincoln.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says: An interesting incident which has never been printed has just transpired: On the day when Lincoln was inaugurated the second time in 1865, and just at the east portico, a man, recognized by several persons to be John Wilkes Booth, pushed hurriedly on through the passage leading from the Senate chamber to the rotunda, and in an excited and determined manner broke through the line of policemen, which kept the crowd back from the procession and made a desperate attempt to reach the eastern door of the capitol. He was discovered by a member of the capitol police who seized the excited stranger, and after a severe struggle succeeded in forcing him back into the crowd.

The Senate retired at 4 o'clock to consult on the motion to postpone the impeachment trial. At 4:30 the Senators returned, and the President pro tempore announced that the counsel for the respondent for a continuance of the trial until December had been overruled.

The Senate sitting as a court adjourned then at 4:30, went into executive session; after a short time the session opened.

The conference committee report on the deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to.

Mitchell called up the appropriation bill granting the right of way through the public lands for a wagon road over the Blue mountains, Oregon; passed.

Sargent introduced a bill to encourage and promote telegraphic communication between Asia and the Pacific Coast, which was referred to the committee on commerce.

Booth presented a memorial of the California legislature in favor of the adoption of suitable measures to protect the valley lands and harbors of that State from injury by discharge of detritus from the hydraulic mines; referred to the committee on mines and mining. Adjourned.

Determined Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—On Tuesday morning Andy Tyler, a saloon keeper at Washington Corners, committed suicide. Tyler lost his wife about a year ago, which had caused him much despondency, and this, together with other circumstances may account for the deed. On the morning mentioned he went out to the barn and attempted first to sever the jugular vein with a broken bottle. Failing in this attempt, but leaving a horrible wound, he next tried to hang himself with a rope, but his feet touched the floor, and he was again unsuccessful. Then he got an ax, and proceeded to gnash his forehead, striking himself perhaps fifty times, cutting his face in a most ghastly manner. Failing to the third mode, he, in the most determined manner, took a razor and tried to sever the large veins in both arms. Again he failed, and finally with determination and will which were most surprising, he took a razor, and with a tremendous effort cut his throat, laying it open clear into the spinal column, and leaving a piece of the razor there. It was one of the most determined cases of suicide on record.

Opposition.

Owing to the increase of the rates of fare in horse cars, a line of new first class busses has been established on Mission and Market streets, which is meeting with gratifying success at five cent fares.

Systematic Swindler.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, April 28.—John T. Morris, who lives in this city, is carrying on a systematic and extensive swindling business. He advertises his headquarters at Springfield and Cincinnati, and orders goods and products of various sorts from firms in all parts of the United States and Canada, referring them to bankers and other business men of this city. When the goods arrive they are immediately taken from the express office, or freight depot, and transferred to other parties for any amount Morris or his confederates, can get for them business. Many efforts have been made by the Springfield newspapers and leading business men to expose his practices and warn the public against him; but in spite of these efforts, he seems still to be doing a very large business.

Borney Williams' Funeral.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The funeral of Barney Williams took place to-day from St. Stephen's Catholic church, which was filled in every part, while the street in front was packed with people unable to enter. Every actor in the city and many from abroad were present.

Gold and Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Gold closed at 125 1/2; money dull; Government bonds dull and steady; stock active and unsettled.

He has disease of the bladder, and hernia, it is feared, of the bladder is ultimate and not distant. Vanderbilt being noted for years, has been prepared to resign his post and so complete are all his arrangements in this respect, that it is believed, that notwithstanding his great influence in the railroad business of the country, his death would have but little effect in the stock market.

The stock which he holds in the New York Central and Harlem Railroad would not it is said, be thrown on the market within one year after his death, if at all.

Charles O'Connor and the Forrest Divorce Case.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The tribunal selected by the committee of the Bar Association to investigate the charges against Charles O'Connor, in connection with the Forrest divorce case, met to-day. Ex-Governor John A. Dix presided. After the secretary had read the citation served upon the proprietors of the Times and Sun, but to which they did not respond, to appear and substantiate the charges published, O'Connor presented a letter from Mrs. Sinclair last evening, in which she states that she now, as well as always, bore the same feeling of gratitude to Mr. O'Connor, and reiterated her assertion that the article published in the Times was published without her consent, against her wish, and after a solemn promise had been given that it should not be. Mrs. Sinclair also says that she never made any charges against Mr. O'Connor, and had no intention of doing so; therefore, she did not intend to avail herself of the right to appear before the tribunal, as she did not regard herself as in any sense a party to the unpleasant controversy intruded upon the public.

Henry Sedley, the brother-in-law of Mrs. Sinclair, read a protest against the composition of the committee, in whose organization he claimed only one of the parties to the controversy has had a voice, and whose decision, whatever it may be, must consequently lack the moral authority which can satisfactorily dispose of the disputed points, and says that before a tribunal so constituted that it shall represent both sides and shall furnish guarantees that it cannot be suspected of affiliation with either. I shall be ready at any time to appear and contribute what I rightly can to the evidence on which an impartial judgment must necessarily be founded.

O'Connor replied that he did not intend to notice Sedley's protest; but came prepared to verify each and every statement contained in his memorial, and that probably he and Mrs. Sinclair knew most about the litigation. He also stated that the whole matter should be sifted to the bottom. He stated that the whole amount obtained from Mrs. Sinclair for 19 years professional services was $14,000.

Chief Justice Daly testified that at the conclusion of the Forrest case he was waited upon by a number of ladies, who requested him to present a silver vase to O'Connor, thanking and complimenting him on the able manner in which he had conducted the case.

O'Connor here stated that the silver vase was near at hand, and if the court decided he would produce it, chop it up and give it to the poor, if he had done a dishonorable action in receiving it. O'Connor then gave a general and explicit denial of the charges against him, enumerating all the letters received by him from various parties concerned in the case, and also all bills for money received by him for his services during the 20 years he was connected in the case with Mrs. Forrest, and handed to the chair all the papers connected with the case, or greater part thereof, and left the matter in their hands to abide by their decision.

Two Men Killed.

CAMBRIDGE, O., April 29.—Two men, named respectively Long and Turner, were killed, and a boy fatally injured, by the fall of a building upon which they were working.

Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—The body of a young man, named Bernard Bailey, was found in his room with a pistol shot wound in his side. He was very respectably connected, and had been clerk of a large business house in this city. He leaves a rather remarkable letter, for the benefit of physicians, which describes the mental and moral feelings of a suicide. He also intimates that unrequited love caused the deed.

Tilden's Prospects for the Presidency.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Tilden's prospects for the Democratic Presidential nomination are considerably improved by the action of the New York State convention. The ripple of factious opposition amounts to nothing as affecting the decision at St. Louis. Tilden is clearly the choice of his party here, and it is nominated at the national convention will get the entire party vote of the State. In this respect his case is the reverse of Conkling's, whose nomination would divide and not unite the Republicans. Bayard says he cannot expect much from New York, when it has Tilden to offer, whom he regards as a man of unquestionable ability and believes him to be so regarded by the country. Various journals in the South heretofore hostile, now admit that though Tilden is not their first choice, he is most available candidate. The ringing declarations of the Utica convention and these Syracuse platitudes of 1875 and 1876 are understood to be the work of Manton Marble, editor of the World.

Blaine's campaign continues to progress favorably; as Carl Schurz says of Bristow, he emerged from his mud bath of scandal stronger than before. Even the editors who originally were sure that the bottom facts in the Little Rock bond case were discreditable to Blaine, now recant, including Medill, of Chicago; Richard Smith, of Cincinnati, and Sam Bowles.

Conkling develops little added strength; by C. C. Cady, Paillard & Co., succeed in their pending efforts to secure him the Louisiana delegation, his reactionary effect

Vanderbilt Dying.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Commodore Vanderbilt is dying fast. His physical constitution is rapidly going to pieces. He has suffered from hemorrhoids, but the real cause is more deeply seated.

Democratic Discussion in New York.

An Albany special says Senators Bixby and Morrissey, who have returned from the Utica convention, say that the anti-Tammany organization will not go to any more conventions, but will defeat the State ticket.

Bogus Bond Swindle.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Some four years ago a number of bankers and brokers in this city were swindled out of sums aggregating about $97,000 by means of counterfeit 7 3/8 United States bonds. These brokers sent to the treasury department for redemption and received the proceeds. After the bogus character of the bonds was discovered the government instituted suit to recover the amount. The case was tried in the U. S. District court and resulted in a verdict for the government apportioning the amount as follows: Jay Cooke and others, $19,005; Central National Bank, $3,528; D. B. Hatch, $5,440 40; Peter M. Meyers, $4,255 60; N. P. Vernilye, $39,233 20; Wm. M. Bull, $11,022 20; J. Brewster, $5,525 20, and H. A. Caesar, Jr., $8,723.

First Attempt to Assassinate President Lincoln.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says: An interesting incident which has never been printed has just transpired: On the day when Lincoln was inaugurated the second time in 1865, and just at the east portico, a man, recognized by several persons to be John Wilkes Booth, pushed hurriedly on through the passage leading from the Senate chamber to the rotunda, and in an excited and determined manner broke through the line of policemen, which kept the crowd back from the procession and made a desperate attempt to reach the eastern door of the capitol. He was discovered by a member of the capitol police who seized the excited stranger, and after a severe struggle succeeded in forcing him back into the crowd.

The Senate retired at 4 o'clock to consult on the motion to postpone the impeachment trial. At 4:30 the Senators returned, and the President pro tempore announced that the counsel for the respondent for a continuance of the trial until December had been overruled.

The Senate sitting as a court adjourned then at 4:30, went into executive session; after a short time the session opened.

The conference committee report on the deficiency appropriation bill was agreed to.

Mitchell called up the appropriation bill granting the right of way through the public lands for a wagon road over the Blue mountains, Oregon; passed.

Sargent introduced a bill to encourage and promote telegraphic communication between Asia and the Pacific Coast, which was referred to the committee on commerce.

Booth presented a memorial of the California legislature in favor of the adoption of suitable measures to protect the valley lands and harbors of that State from injury by discharge of detritus from the hydraulic mines; referred to the committee on mines and mining. Adjourned.

Determined Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—On Tuesday morning Andy Tyler, a saloon keeper at Washington Corners, committed suicide. Tyler lost his wife about a year ago, which had caused him much despondency, and this, together with other circumstances may account for the deed. On the morning mentioned he went out to the barn and attempted first to sever the jugular vein with a broken bottle. Failing in this attempt, but leaving a horrible wound, he next tried to hang himself with a rope, but his feet touched the floor, and he was again unsuccessful. Then he got an ax, and proceeded to gnash his forehead, striking himself perhaps fifty times, cutting his face in a most ghastly manner. Failing to the third mode, he, in the most determined manner, took a razor and tried to sever the large veins in both arms. Again he failed, and finally with determination and will which were most surprising, he took a razor, and with a tremendous effort cut his throat, laying it open clear into the spinal column, and leaving a piece of the razor there. It was one of the most determined cases of suicide on record.

Opposition.

Owing to the increase of the rates of fare in horse cars, a line of new first class busses has been established on Mission and Market streets, which is meeting with gratifying success at five cent fares.

Systematic Swindler.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, April 28.—John T. Morris, who lives in this city, is carrying on a systematic and extensive swindling business. He advertises his headquarters at Springfield and Cincinnati, and orders goods and products of various sorts from firms in all parts of the United States and Canada, referring them to bankers and other business men of this city. When the goods arrive they are immediately taken from the express office, or freight depot, and transferred to other parties for any amount Morris or his confederates, can get for them business. Many efforts have been made by the Springfield newspapers and leading business men to expose his practices and warn the public against him; but in spite of these efforts, he seems still to be doing a very large business.

Borney Williams' Funeral.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The funeral of Barney Williams took place to-day from St. Stephen's Catholic church, which was filled in every part, while the street in front was packed with people unable to enter. Every actor in the city and many from abroad were present.

Gold and Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Gold closed at 125 1/2; money dull; Government bonds dull and steady; stock active and unsettled.

He has disease of the bladder, and hernia, it is feared, of the bladder is ultimate and not distant. Vanderbilt being noted for years, has been prepared to resign his post and so complete are all his arrangements in this respect, that it is believed, that notwithstanding his great influence in the railroad business of the country, his death would have but little effect in the stock market.

The stock which he holds in the New York Central and Harlem Railroad would not it is said, be thrown on the market within one year after his death, if at all.

Charles O'Connor and the Forrest Divorce Case.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The tribunal selected by the committee of the Bar Association to investigate the charges against Charles O'Connor, in connection with the Forrest divorce case, met to-day. Ex-Governor John A. Dix presided. After the secretary had read the citation served upon the proprietors of the Times and Sun, but to which they did not respond, to appear and substantiate the charges published, O'Connor presented a letter from Mrs. Sinclair last evening, in which she states that she now, as well as always, bore the same feeling of gratitude to Mr. O'Connor, and reiterated her assertion that the article published in the Times was published without her consent, against her wish, and after a solemn promise had been given that it should not be. Mrs. Sinclair also says that she never made any charges against Mr. O'Connor, and had no intention of doing so; therefore, she did not intend to avail herself of the right to appear before the tribunal, as she did not regard herself as in any sense a party to the unpleasant controversy intruded upon the public.

Henry Sedley, the brother-in-law of Mrs. Sinclair, read a protest against the composition of the committee, in whose organization he claimed only one of the parties to the controversy has had a voice, and whose decision, whatever it may be, must consequently lack the moral authority which can satisfactorily dispose of the disputed points, and says that before a tribunal so constituted that it shall represent both sides and shall furnish guarantees that it cannot be suspected of affiliation with either. I shall be ready at any time to appear and contribute what I rightly can to the evidence on which an impartial judgment must necessarily be founded.

O'Connor replied that he did not intend to notice Sedley's protest; but came prepared to verify each and every statement contained in his memorial, and that probably he and Mrs. Sinclair knew most about the litigation. He also stated that the whole matter should be sifted to the bottom. He stated that the whole amount obtained from Mrs. Sinclair for 19 years professional services was $14,000.

Chief Justice Daly testified that at the conclusion of the Forrest case he was waited upon by a number of ladies, who requested him to present a silver vase to O'Connor, thanking and complimenting him on the able manner in which he had conducted the case.

O'Connor here stated that the silver vase was near at hand, and if the court decided he would produce it, chop it up and give it to the poor, if he had done a dishonorable action in receiving it. O'Connor then gave a general and explicit denial of the charges against him, enumerating all the letters received by him from various parties concerned in the case, and also all bills for money received by him for his services during the 20 years he was connected in the case with Mrs. Forrest, and handed to the chair all the papers connected with the case, or greater part thereof, and left the matter in their hands to abide by their decision.

Two Men Killed.

CAMBRIDGE, O., April 29.—Two men, named respectively Long and Turner, were killed, and a boy fatally injured, by the fall of a building upon which they were working.

Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—The body of a young man, named Bernard Bailey, was found in his room with a pistol shot wound in his side. He was very respectably connected, and had been clerk of a large business house in this city. He leaves a rather remarkable letter, for the benefit of physicians, which describes the mental and moral feelings of a suicide. He also intimates that unrequited love caused the deed.

Tilden's Prospects for the Presidency.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Tilden's prospects for the Democratic Presidential nomination are considerably improved by the action of the New York State convention. The ripple of factious opposition amounts to nothing as affecting the decision at St. Louis. Tilden is clearly the choice of his party here, and it is nominated at the national convention will get the entire party vote of the State. In this respect his case is the reverse of Conkling's, whose nomination would divide and not unite the Republicans. Bayard says he cannot expect much from New York, when it has Tilden to offer, whom he regards as a man of unquestionable ability and believes him to be so regarded by the country. Various journals in the South heretofore hostile, now admit that though Tilden is not their first choice, he is most available candidate. The ringing declarations of the Utica convention and these Syracuse platitudes of 1875 and 1876 are understood to be the work of Manton Marble, editor of the World.

Blaine's campaign continues to progress favorably; as Carl Schurz says of Bristow, he emerged from his mud bath of scandal stronger than before. Even the editors who originally were sure that the bottom facts in the Little Rock bond case were discreditable to Blaine, now recant, including Medill, of Chicago; Richard Smith, of Cincinnati, and Sam Bowles.

Conkling develops little added strength; by C. C. Cady, Paillard & Co., succeed in their pending efforts to secure him the Louisiana delegation, his reactionary effect

Vanderbilt Dying.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Commodore Vanderbilt is dying fast. His physical constitution is rapidly going to pieces. He has suffered from hemorrhoids, but the real cause is more deeply seated.

Democratic Discussion in New York.

An Albany special says Senators Bixby and Morrissey, who have returned from the Utica convention, say that the anti-Tammany organization will not go to any more conventions, but will defeat the State ticket.

Bogus Bond Swindle.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Some four years ago a number of bankers and brokers in this city were swindled out of sums aggregating about $97,000 by means of counterfeit 7 3/8 United States bonds. These brokers sent to the treasury department for redemption and received the proceeds. After the bogus character of the bonds was discovered the government instituted suit to recover the amount. The case was tried in the U. S. District court and resulted in a verdict for the government apportioning the amount as follows: Jay Cooke and others, $19,005; Central National Bank, $3,528; D. B. Hatch, $5,440 40; Peter M. Meyers, $4,255 60; N. P. Vernilye, $39,233 20; Wm. M. Bull, $11,022 20; J. Brewster, $5,525 20, and H. A. Caesar, Jr., $8,723.

First Attempt to Assassinate President Lincoln.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says: An interesting incident which has never been printed has just transpired: On the day when Lincoln was inaugurated the second time in 1865, and just at the east portico, a man, recognized by several persons to be John Wilkes Booth, pushed hurriedly on through the passage leading from the Senate chamber to the rotunda, and in an excited and determined manner broke through the line of policemen, which kept the crowd back from the procession and made a desperate attempt to reach the eastern door of the capitol. He was discovered by a member of the capitol police who seized the excited stranger, and after a severe struggle succeeded in forcing him back into the crowd.

FROM DALLAS.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—As you seem to have no regular correspondent at this lively burg I will take the liberty of sending you a few items which may be acceptable to your Polk county readers.

Our Saturday Morning Appetizer, (it gives us an appetite to vomit), is pegging away with all the vim that spider legs can throw into it, for the Independent "movement." His remarks are very pointed, somewhat like his lower extremities, and various parties feel deeply cut (?) by the terrible slashes of his mighty pen. It is reported that the "movement" (they don't like to be called party) has hired the whole force of his gigantic talent, but this is doubtless untrue, as the proverbial stinginess of the Court House Clique, or the "Nichols movement" is too well known to admit of the possibility of such a thing. The fact is, the "Nichols move" does not come out and say "here spider, we will give you a few dollars," but they say, "we will insure you to have a circulation of two hundred in the county." They know that spider will spin out for that, in a minute.

Jeems Polk is making it rather warm for W. C. Brown. He is not the smartest man in the county, and consequently not the man for a legislator, but aside from that Brown is a jolly good fellow privately, and I think is an honest man, but I would hesitate a little before I said the same of his Democratic opponents. Our friend, Stone, is very anxious to handle some of the railway company's coin which is to be spent freely on our next Legislature, and Stephen says he wants to handle it.

Your correspondent who sent the Hayden biography, has offended Bill Clinean. He don't want folks to think that he and Dirty Ben ever reposed in the same couch. Bill says you must retract or he will take all your Polk county subscribers away from you. I think you had better retract. It is softly whispered that Dirty Ben D. Brutus, Esq., and Judge Myers had a splendid time recently out at Holme's Gap, and they had a nice time when they got the woman all scared to death, but Ben took too much concentrated Democracy, and they had to put him in his little bed.

One word in regard to our Dallas candidate for the legislature, Mr. E. S. Bolter, we have heard no less than a dozen good Democrats say they would vote for him in preference to the best man on their ticket. I will doubtless give you a brief sketch of our ticket soon, and I tell you now we will elect it. You Bet.

WOMAN'S DRESS AND EDUCATION.

ED. STATESMAN:—I have ascertained by close investigation that over two-thirds of the females, whether married or single, acknowledge to be very much out of health, and by the same means have I found that not one-fourth of them know the original causes of their ailments and not one-third of these suffering, delicate, clinging creatures are anxious to peruse the pages of a journal of health, as they are those of a fashion magazine. Oh, the weary hours that the mothers of our nation are spending over ruffles, laces, tucks and other useful and innumerable articles of dress, very few of them with all the assistance which the useful inventions of these modern times renders them, appear to have time for out-door enjoyment and mental improvement, they seem to have forgotten that they have anything to look after but the external appearance of their short lived mortal torus.

Mothers send their daughters to school and properly tell them to improve the golden hours of youth, and imprudently they set the example by tucking and ruffling—the latest modes of folly; there is now opening a broader field of more useful and nobler work for woman to enter upon, and it is time that they were preparing themselves and their off-springs mentally and physically for a more active and useful life, by spending their time and means more sensibly and beneficially, they should stop all frivolous and useless expenditures of their time and means, which retards their progress here and hereafter, they should make plain, comfortable and durable apparel, spending their surplus time in regular active exercise in the open air, and in feeding their starving minds upon mental food, thus expanding and developing them until they can fully realize the purpose for which they were made.

It is time that wealthy and influential ladies were despoiling these time-wasting fashions and customs which hold the females of the world in bondage, there is a mighty work for women to do, which womanhood can do and each thinking and wide awake mother and daughter should call upon her own soul; awake to your noble work and lend a helping hand by setting an example for prudence and good sense, which would very rapidly become popular if each would listen and heed the dictates of their own conscience.