

WEEKLY OREGON STATESMAN.

FRIDAY, : : : MARCH 9, 1877

(From Saturday Morning's Daily.)

(Synopsis of Lectures at the First Presbyterian Church.)

ASTRONOMICAL FAITH.

A statement of the Nebular Hypothesis, and some of its fallacies: Is the Universe infinite; nature of heat; conflicting views respecting the origin and nature of light; the question of atmosphere; of sun and moon; comets. The purpose of these lectures is to show the agreement of true science with Bible truth. The foregoing is an outline of a lecture in the regular course, third of a series for next Sabbath evening, at the First Presbyterian Church, in this city, by the Rev. H. P. Peck. It is scarcely necessary to add that the gentleman takes high rank as a lecturer, in this State, one whose talents, social qualities, and moral worth, at once recommend him, and the church, of which he is pastor, may well feel proud, not only of a high order of talent, but the man. Mr. Peck will continue his lectures from time to time into notice of which will be given.

Died.

In Toledo, Benton county, Oregon, Feb. 29th, of consumption, Maggie, wife of George Rosebrook, aged 27 years. Deceased, daughter of Mr. John Graham, of Toledo, was born in Ohio, and with her parents moved to Oregon when she was quite a child, and resided in Corvallis for a number of years. It was here that Maggie, bled into lovely womanhood. Her kind heart and noble acts won the love and respect of all who knew her. She was a true wife, a fond mother, and kind friend. In 1857 she united with the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which she remained a devout and consistent member until called to exchange the Church militant for the Church triumphant. With full assurance of blessed immortality, and in the triumph of living faith, she bade farewell to her husband, babe, and sorrowing relatives and friends, and peacefully fell asleep in Jesus.—Corvallis Gazette.

FROM ABROAD.

CANYON CITY, Or., Feb. 23, 1877.

EDITOR STATESMAN: Merchants here have well selected stocks of goods, and business of all kinds is about as good as could be expected at this season of the year, anywhere in Eastern Oregon.

Oliver S. Hatch, for a long time an Indian Department clerk in this State, is helping William Gray run the Sheriff's office in this county. I am under obligations to friend Hatch for a copy of the STATESMAN, from which I learned much Salem news, besides Charley Moore's opinion of "babies," and the chapter on Salm's "over left beauties" of the sterner sex. The boys have my sympathies if they need them. What a blessing it would be to some good women we know of if Frank Hodgkins and one or two other proud masculine patriots had been passed over also with those who are awaiting developments in the "sweet by and by." Col. Curry is here again, and is engaged in the practice of law. He likes this place much better than he did that of lower California, to which place he went to make a home some sixteen months ago. He and family are well and the people of Canyon City are glad they are back again. Overholt & Muldrick run the postoffice store and give general satisfaction in both office and store. Neil Turk is the popular proprietor of the Variety Store, and Neil is sure to entertain you if you go to see him. He is a brother-in-law of Hon. C. B. Bellinger. C. B. Parrish has returned from his mountain trip and is in his office again.

Orve Macdonald, so well and favorably known about Sublimity and Jefferson, lives in John Day town near here and is doing well. It brought me back to days of long ago to meet with Orve. By the way, John Day town is making rapid improvement and being of easier access to the valley along the river than this place it may eventually become something of a rival.

Lodge of I. O. G. T. here is one of the best in the State and W. S. McMeen, M. V. Thompson, Frank McCallum and others are making its meetings very interesting. Sisters Thompson, Mackey, Metcalfe and other sisters, on last night after lodge closed, brought forth baskets full of cakes, pies, peaches, etc., and invited us to "pitch in," and we all did I assure you.

In haste, W. R. DENBAR.

The Blind School. It seems that Gov. Chadwick has commenced to remodel all our State Institutions. For once, at least, we can commend in highest terms, his course. Mr. Dr. Dawne has been placed over the educational interests of the Blind School. No better, or more competent person could have been selected. Mrs. Dawne has few equals, and no superiors, in the highest order of education. She is an honor to the school, and Gov. Chadwick and the Board of Education will be commended by all for their wise selection.

Special for one Day Only. Any person having bears for sale will please call at the printing office over the $ store; would also buy a few Maltese cats; would also purchase 20 small sized poodle dogs; woolly ones preferred so that they can be tied to a pole to wash windows with. The highest price will be paid, in cash, if the animals suit. Remember the place, printing office over the $ store. Come early, if you desire to sell; $21 is the average price for good bears.

Circuit Court. THURSDAY, March 1, 1877. Grand Jury reported, and was discharged. Thomas Farley vs. P. C. Parker. Continued, on defendant's motion. A. McNeill vs. H. McNeill et al. Jury trial. Verdict for the plaintiff for $203.35. R. A. Riggs, administrator of the estate of Sarah Nicklin, deceased, vs. A. I. Nicklin. Judgement for plaintiff for $1,339.61. State of Oregon vs. Geo. Wab. Arraigned and plead not guilty.

Friday, March 2, 1877. P. L. Willis, respondent, vs. J. C. Hawthorne, appellant. Continued until next term of Court. J. M. Wolfard & Co. vs. J. A. Baker. Jury empanelled and cause on trial.

County Activities. The number of deeds recorded in the County Clerk's office during the month of February was 41; number of mortgages, 42; and number of marriage licenses issued, 3.

COMMUNICATED.

Scio, Or., March 5, 1877.

EDITOR STATESMAN: Everything is beginning to wear the appearance of spring.

Our agricultural prospects are excellent, both for a larger acreage and a good yield, and our farmers are strong in the hope of a good price for their grain.

A wind storm here recently demolished one side of the roof of Mr. A. Gaines' residence, about the time the family were ready to take dinner—fortunately injuring no one; but spoiling the appetites of several for dinner that day. It also blew down a "roof" barn for Mr. P. Brainer, damaging wagons, etc., which were under it for shelter. Considerable fencing was wrecked. This much wind is very unusual for us here.

We are, about all, gratified over the peaceful solution of the Presidential difficulty; what differences there are, are now postponed till 1880.

We saw Dr. Davis operate surgically on a very large inguinal abscess on the person of Mr. J. Ray. The doctor's coolness and judgment under such dangerous and trying circumstances was admirable, and successful. J. P. T.

Condensed Fruit.

We yesterday visited Mr. J. Henry Brown's residence and witnessed the new process of preserving fruit, invented by Mr. Kelly, of East Portland. The machine is simply a tin cylinder, 80 inches long and 30 inches in diameter, heated by steam through a ten inch gas pipe, perforated for that purpose, supplied from a common 15 gallon soup kettle in a brick furnace. The fruit is first ground up to a pulp and then run through a cuttender, by which means the seeds and skin are separated, leaving the pulp in looks and consistency of apple sauce; this is then spread upon the cylinder and the juice dried from it by the heat of the steam, while it is being revolved by hand. When the fruit is dried it is stripped off of the cylinder and resembles leather, by which name it was designated. The fruit is very palatable, in fact superior to that dried by many other processes, for the purpose of shipment.

Exhibition on the Abiqua.

The settlers on the Abiqua had a big time at Dannigan's Opera House on the occasion of the first exhibition given by Abiqua Lodge of Good Templars. The house was crowded, and the declamations, recitations, etc., were all well rendered. The principal performers were Miss Addie Jack, Lizzie Hall, Sarah Wainseest, Geo. Hall, Talbert Hook, Tom Drake, Wm. Wainseest, Ethel Jack, D. D. Jack, and others. The bride's name table and others were very rich and tasty.

The Fire Works.

From a Democratic standpoint—the Court House, for instance—were "way up," and our Democratic friends took a hand and helped to "satisfy," and why not? they helped to elect "our President"—and the Republicans of Oregon appreciate(?) the efforts—so how much, and wherefore?

"Thinking."

Rev. P. S. Knight, at the Congregational Church, Sabbath evening, gave his hearers a practical lecture on the subject indicated. "Thinking" was the order, and the lecture was full of interest, as Mr. Knight has the reputation of "thinking" for himself.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Geo. W. Vaughn, an old and respected citizen of Portland, died on Sunday. Deceased was one of our Pioneers, and made for himself a name and fortune. Portland will miss his enterprise.

Conting.

The "Elder," Oregon's favorite steamer, is bringing an unusually large list of passengers, and may be looked for this evening in Portland. We notice many prominent citizens of Oregon on board.

Enterprise.

The Independent, of Roseburg, gave its numerous readers a very neatly printed "extra" containing the "very latest, which "same" only shows: "We mean to be 'fully up.'"

To Eph Hoyt.

Who has been at the point of death for some days, we are pleased to learn is very much improved, and his friends have strong hopes of his recovery.

PARAGRAPHIC.

Sunshine. Let us have peace. Republicans happy. Farmers are smiling. Spring is Marching on. "Flagstaff"—by Patrick. Cipher dispatches, do. The long suspense is over. Saturday was grangers' day. Mumps troublesome at Corvallis. Tennessee Jubilee Singers coming. Kentuckians prefer blue grass to blue glass. Born—In this city, March 2d, to the wife of J. B. McClane, Esq., an 11 pound boy. If Grover fails to get his seat, Col. Griffy's chances for appointment will be slender. The Clerk of Clackamas county issued five marriage licenses during February. The month of March comes in like a lamb—it may go out like a lion. The remaining children of Lieut. Sam Adolph have wholly recovered from diphtheria. Collect your bets on the election. See how Republicans are dressing up. A wicked fellow says we ought not to blame the devil, because if it were not for him he would need no God. The Corvallis Gazette says the Agricultural College of that place ranks high among the educational institutions of Oregon. The East Oregonian reports a movement on foot to build a telegraph line from Pendleton to Umatilla Landing. The Ashland Tidings reports the mines on Applegate creek rejoicing in a copious supply of water. Report of State Superintendent Prof. Dean, Democratic school teacher, just received. Will appear soon. The Democrats no longer believe that there's inch in odd numbers. Seven is an odd number for instance; but even eight is better. An old bachelor having been laughed at by a party of pretty girls, told them, "You are small potatoes." "We may be small potatoes," said one of them, "but we are sweet ones." S. W. Church, of this city, has been sworn in by Mr. Thatcher, Postmaster, as one of his assistants in the Salem postoffice. Mr. Church will undoubtedly make himself popular with the patrons of the office. A. H. Wilson, son of R. W. Wilson, received a letter last evening from his brother Frank, saying their father was lying dangerously ill, and started at once for Tillamook.

A FOUL DEED.

A Man Murdered in His Bed. Tragic Details—No Clue to the Perpetrators. [From the Portland Bee, of March 3d.] Last night a foul and cowardly murder was committed at the Rohr place, about four miles south of this city. For several weeks past two laborers—T. D. Davis and D. Thomas—have been engaged in chopping cord wood for Mr. Rohr, a butcher of this city, at the place above mentioned. They temporarily in a little log hut, yesterday they finished their contract, but, as it was late, concluded to remain at the cabin until this morning, instead of coming to their homes in the city. They retired as usual, and slept for several hours, probably until about midnight, when a knock was heard at the door. Davis asked what was wanted, when a man on the outside replied: "LET ME IN. I'm hungry and cold." Thomas got up, pulled on his socks, and without dressing, opened the door. Two men, closely masked, pushed their way in, and one of them raised a pistol to the head of Thomas, and told him if he valued his life to remain quiet. He had no means of defense, and was compelled to submit. THE MURDER. The other approached the bed on which Davis was lying, and asked, "Is your name T. D. Davis?" Davis answered, "You've got the drop on me." The man stooped, picked up a hatchet lying upon the floor, and struck Davis with it on the head three times. Although he had apparently completed his purpose, he took from his belt a long bowie knife and

STABBED HIS VICTIM.

Twice. He then dragged the body from the bed to the floor and deliberately cut the throat from ear to ear. The man who had Thomas in charge told him to go before, and with the pistol still at his ear took him into the timber, a few rods distant, and stood guard while his companion

FINDS THE BUI.

When he was almost consumed his captor said he might go home; but on his starting direct for the road, made him return and take a circuitous route, so that he would reach the county road about half a mile below where the cabin stood. Thomas had nothing on but his under clothing and a pair of stockings. In this scanty garb he WALKED TO THIS CITY.

SCENE OF CRIME.

The cabin was reduced to a heap of smouldering ashes, in the midst of which the blackened and charred body of the unfortunate man lay. Such parts of the body as were left and all the bones that could be found were gathered together and taken to a little cabin near at hand. Early this morning a special reporter of the Bee visited the place and interviewed the people living near the scene of the tragedy. With one accord they speak of the deceased as a QUIET, PLEASANT MAN. And unless the crime is, but the consummation of an old grudge, as Davis' last words—"you've got the drop on me"—would indicate, can give no explanation as to the cause of the murder. He had no money and the motive of the murderers could not have been mercenary. Davis was an old Pacific coast man and had lived in Oregon, California and Idaho for almost twenty years—the last three of which have been spent in Portland in the employ of Smith Bros., of the City Lumbering Mills. He had no family and as far as we are able to learn no relatives. This Mr. Corner Delin, with a party of gentlemen, went to the cabin and brought the remains to this city where they were PUBLICLY EXHIBITED. At the Coroner's office. During the afternoon several hundred persons viewed the mangled body. A jury was summoned this morning by the coroner and are at present hearing testimony in regard to the case. There is no clue whatever as to who the murderers are. Mr. Thomas says that they were completely disguised and that he would not be able to even identify their voices.

THE SUSPECTED MURDERER.

The following are the names of the Coroner's jury empanelled to enquire into the murder of the late T. D. Davis: George C. Sears, E. Mendenhall, E. Shaker, H. Cooke, J. Padelford and M. B. Wood. Several witnesses were examined including Mr. Thomas, Chief Lappens, Dr. Strong, C. M. Rohr and Mr. Cowen. They have been in session all day and the testimony elicited fully exonerates Mr. Thomas and throws suspicion upon one J. Doe. The latter is a married man whose wife recently brought suit for a divorce. Doe is said to have a mean, jealous disposition and to have borne no great affection for Davis on account of the latter's friendship for Doe's wife, although he was apparently content that no criminal intimacy had existed between them. In various ways of late Doe has shown his hatred and his conduct leads to the conclusion that he is guilty. On Friday he left home stating that he was going to the mines. The same day he was seen travelling, carpet bag in hand, along the road, near the scene of the tragedy. Several parties remarked that it was strange and unaccountable, his leaving in that manner. Since the night of the murder nothing has been ascertained of his whereabouts, and steps have been taken to secure his arrest before he can have an opportunity to leave the country. The excitement caused by this horrible crime is intense, and many rumors are current, but the foregoing is the gist of the whole thing. Doe has not been apprehended as we go to press.—Standard.

SILVERTON ITEMS.

Mr. F. H. Schlatter, recently from Texas, is now proprietor of the Silverton hotel, and is an accommodating landlord. Mr. Wm. Leissner, formerly of Salem, runs a general merchandise store, and is doing a good business. Mart Kelley, of Salem, is clerking for him. A traveling minstrel show held forth last Friday evening to a small house. A brass band has been organized and the headquarters seem to be all over town. Mr. F. B. Blackerby runs a first-class hardware and tin store, and is now turning out an excellent article of zinc washboards, which find a ready market, as the people believe in patronizing home manufactures. Mr. T. B. Hibbard engineers the Post Office to the satisfaction of all.

PERSONAL.

We received a pleasant call on yesterday, from Sol. Abrams, Esq., who is in the city for a few days, visiting with a daughter who is attending school. Mr. Abrams is largely interested in the Lucky Queen Mining Company in Southern Oregon, and is thoroughly posted, and he reports that the mine is looking well and the mill is now running day and night; and since last Monday has been at work on good ore; but up to that time there had been some trouble in regulating the mill, and in consequence had only run through some inferior ore. There seems to be no question now of success. Mr. Abrams has full faith in the already assured successful working of the mill, and that the mine is a good one, and cannot be worked out for years.
