Past, Present and Future

Atropos of the new year. The Pioneer has secured accurate statistics of the improvements made in Madras since its inception in 1902.

In the fall of 1902 John Palmehn and A. E. Hammond laid out the present Madras townsite. Less than two years ago the town of Palmehn, as it was then known, consisted of two humble dwelling houses, the property of John Palmehn.

In May, 1903, T. J. Malloy & Co. opened the first business establishment, beginning with a small stock of groceries, which has been duplicated several times since.

In July L. M. Hahn, who had a general store at Culver, moved that stock into the present building at Madras.

This was the beginning. Since then numerous business enterprises have been undertaken and the promoters have met with success. Yet Madras was scarcely known to the outside world until the establishment, in August, 1904, of the Madras Pioneer. Through The Pioneer our town and surrounding country have been advertised all over the State, and far-sighted business men have cast eagle eyes on this new town with a view to locating.

The future destiny of Madras is already apparent, for no other town in Central Oregon is surrounded by such a large area of rich agricultural land.

Madras is on the railroad survey and the automobile road already traverses it. We are but a short distance from Des Chutes river, whose water power is not surpassed anywhere in Oregon. Electric power from this monster stream is inevitable.

The flouring mill which is to be built by the Madras Milling and Mercantile Company will in due time be increased from a capacity of fifty to one hundred barrels per day, as the building will be constructed to permit this increase in capacity when needed.

The improvements made during the eighteen months preceding January 1, 1905, amounted to $30,000.

These, however, are insignificant as compared with the total amount of the improvements that are to be made during the present year. We give below a list of the buildings that are already in view:

McNagart & Hye, addition	$1,500
Mrs. Ed. Bradford, brick building	2,000
Jerry Creamer, brick building	2,500
H. Parrish, residence	1,500
Mrs. Lena Lamb, store	5,000
T. J. Malloy & Co., new store and warehouse	3,000
A. Mason, hotel and residence	5,000
N. P. Poulson, tin shop	1,000
Madras Milling and Mercantile Company, roller mill	50,000
Total	$71,500

ABRAHAM LINCOLN THE MAN.

"That reminds me of a story" is a maxim that has become familiar to every school child in our country, and it is the sequel to Lincoln's successful career as a lawyer.

As we are soon to celebrate the birthday of America's greatest son, it is fitting that we should ponder for a moment and ask: What element more than any other was it that made this farmer's son so great a factor among his fellow men that a whole nation celebrates the day of his birth?

Born on a farm and reared in poverty, with but a meagre chance to acquire even a rudimentary education in his youth, Lincoln's environments were not such as would tend to produce men above the ordinary sphere in life. He did not inherit wealth with which he might acquire an education, yet he became so fluent in the English language that eminent scholars have declared his speech at Gettysburg to be one of the greatest productions in American literature.

As a debator he had no peer in the country, and as a lawyer no one was his equal. It is doubtful whether any other man could have executed such great projects in matters of State.

Lincoln was a giant both physically and mentally. And during the great slavery agitation he possessed the proper mettle to strike the final blow that should once for all eliminate the country's greatest moral evil—slavery. Had he accomplished nothing else, this act alone would have ranked him among the world's greatest heroes and benefactors. The avowed enemy of slavery, he had a heart which was so warm toward the oppressed, regardless of race or color, that eighty million people today hold him in the highest reverence. He was perhaps sympathetic to a fault, for he could not refuse a request for leniency toward negligent soldiers. Once, when informed that twenty soldiers were to be shot for desertion, he pleaded with his general in behalf of the men, saying that there were already too many widows and orphans in the country.

Illuminated by a warm heart, his homely face is to us the most beautiful in American history. We love him for his warm heart, we adore him for his honesty, and we hail him for his bravery. Our highest admiration does not culminate in Lincoln the President, but in Lincoln the MAN. Herein lies the secret of his useful career.

Character not money makes men useful and great. When men possess great fortune we suspect them, but when they possess great character we admire them. May the day never dawn when she shall esteem money more than character. And may we never lose sight of Abraham Lincoln the man. The lesson of this character sketch may be summed up in the following words of Longfellow:

"Lives of great men all remind us. We can make our lives sublime; And, departing, leave behind us Footprints on the sands of Time."

WILLOW CREEK ITEMS.

L. H. Hamilton, having rented the Wills property to Sam Sprinkler, has moved his family into the house formerly occupied by John F. Auer. It is reported that Mr. Hamilton has purchased a half interest in the store with his brother-in-law, W. E. Wills.

Eastwood & Dee have moved their saw mill to their timber claims on Coon Creek. It is not known just how soon they will be ready to commence sawing.

School is progressing nicely with Warren Brown as teacher.

W. E. Houck, of Lamonta, was seen on our streets one day last week.

Dave Page, who is working for Morrow & Keenan, has gone to Juniper Springs to do some plowing for the above named firm.

Timothy Brownhill and Frank J. Brooks, both of Madras, passed through here one day last week on their way home from Prineville.

H. L. Montgomery and Porter Quinn spent one day last week in Prineville. Also Mrs. Pitzer and son, Harry.

Morrow & Keenan finished killing hogs last week. Anyone who is fond of spare ribs should take dinner with Mrs. Keenan at an early date.

P. Chitwood, who has been confined to his bed with a severe case of fever for the past six weeks, is now able to be about the house.

William Joslin has moved his family to Grizzly to receive the benefit of the school.

Joe Montgomery has returned from Culver, Madras and other points, where he has been riding for cattle.

Miss Janie Hamilton was quite sick for two or three days last week, but is now feeling quite well again.

Ira Allen, who has been confined to his room with pneumonia, is now able to attend school again.

We understand the new saw mill on the north side of Grizzly Butte will soon be ready for work. This mill will be a great convenience to the Haystack and Lamonta settlements.

Wm. Stonehocker, ex-stage driver from this place to Haystack, was here on business a couple of days last week.

Miss Hazel Wheeler, who has been in Prineville for the past month, returned home one day last week. We don't blame Hazel for returning, for there is nothing more enticing about a home than a new piano.

Mrs. C. Montgomery, Mrs. H. L. Montgomery and Mrs. William Joslin visited with Miss Hattie Quinn one day last week.

Charles Dart, who has been plowing for Walter Newbill while he is away, has discontinued his work on account of the freezing weather.

Fay Chitwood is now the owner of a new coat. Fay thinks when he receives his new shoes, which have already been ordered, that his wearing apparel will be complete.

Mr. and Mrs. N. F. McCain and Mr. and Mrs. James Keenan attended the dance last Friday night. Mr. Keenan is a lover of good music and always dances to his heart's content. Andy.

Now is the time to plant fruit and shade trees. The Dalles Nurseries (see ad in another column) handle nothing but home grown trees, which are fully guaranteed to be as represented. Get their prices before buying elsewhere. By leaving your orders at The Pioneer office they will receive prompt attention. Call and get a price list.

Among the first bills to be introduced in the State Legislature was the bill for the creation of Jefferson county out of portions of Crook and Wasco.
