W. C. Terrell returned last Saturday from a six weeks visit with his at Beardstown, Illinois. On her back she was delayed two days at Cheyenne, Wyoming, by the heavy snow which practically tied up all rail traffic in Wyoming and Colorado.
B. Brown was in town on Monday from Haystack, after a load of Madras. He says that the people of his neighborhood who are using Madras express themselves as very much pleased with the flour our mill is turning out, and which reason he concluded to give himself.
Koush, proprietor of the Madras Market, has made arrangements with mail carriers and stage drivers from Madras to take orders for meats to patrons along the route. Send in orders by mail and receive meats by return stage at same price as at the shop.
Fushee from the United States Marshall's office was in town the first of the week, after James Palmer, the Indian agent arrested on a felony charge at the Agency Plains. He left on Friday stage with his prisoner, who remained in the jail at Portland until his trial in the federal court.
Pinkerton had the misfortune to lose a four-year old mare, which he brought from Umatilla county with him, Friday evening. This colt was one of Pinkerton's span of Del Norte and was one of the best bred animals in the county. The colt displayed symptoms of any disease, and Mr Pinkerton is at a loss to know the cause of his death.
Phillips, George Kidder and W.
Taggart have returned from Prineville where they spent a strenuous two days as jurors in the circuit court. Each of them was accepted as a juror in one or more of the criminal cases tried during the present session, and in addition many tedious hours in the trial of numerous civil cases which crowded the court at this session of the court.
Sheriff Cramer accompanied prisoners convicted at the recent term of court, to Salem last Saturday.
The prisoners sent to the peniten-entiary were John Dell, sentenced to one year for manslaughter, Hogg and Adams, sentenced to seven years each for horse-stealing, and Fred Shepherd, who is sentenced to hang on November 30, and who remained in the penitentiary until the day of his execution.
There was no mail from the railroad on Friday morning, the Shaniko stage being unable to connect with the Madras stage. It is reported that the stage broke down in Cow canyon and definite information concerning the same is unobtainable. The Madras stage waited at Hessler until 6:30 Friday morning, and the stage having not yet in an appearance at that time, the mail was left without the railway mail, as it is not to leave on schedule time.

A V. Buffington, of Antelope, was in town last Saturday.

W. E. Guerin, Sr., of New York and C. H. Haswell, of Seattle, were in town last Thursday evening, on their way out from Bend, where they have extensive interests.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Bass, the protracted meeting at Madras to be conducted by B. W. Bass, announced to begin Monday, October 29, is postponed until November 26.

Dwight Roberts, of Culver, has received the appointment as mail carrier on the Culver Rural Free Delivery route, having scored the best grades at the recent competitive examination held at this place.

George Stevens and family returned last Monday evening from Prineville.
Since their return Mrs. Stevens has been quite ill, and it is feared that she has typhoid. Her mother has been summoned from Sisters, and will arrive this afternoon.

W. D. McGee was in town from The Dalles several days during the week.
Mr. McGee is becoming interested in dry land farming, which he believes will be the salvation of this country. He expects to "Campbell" all of the ground which he seeds on his ranch near this place, during the coming year.

Perry Read, of Culver, was in town yesterday. He has just concluded a six weeks' ride after his cattle, and out of 175 head turned out, he only succeeded in gathering up about 135 head. Mr.
Read says that the ride just concluded was about the most tiresome he ever undertook, and that if he can succeed in gathering up those he has out, he will not soon have any more on the range in this locality.

W. O. Baagasen, manager of the Great Western Lumber Co., of Ashwood, was in town several days during the week, in the interests of his sawmill. He says that he thinks he is entitled to a fair share of the lumber business in this locality, as his mill company has on hand large quantities of fine dry and seasoned lumber, and the distance to the mill from Madras is only about 21 miles. His ad appears in this issue.

The condition of Leslie Ramsey, who has been critically ill at his father's home on Agency Plains, is reported to be very much improved, and strong hopes of his recovery are now entertained. The last days of the week his condition was so serious that his life was despaired of, and while his condition is still critical, reports from his bedside during the past two days indicate a decided improvement, and have been quite cheering to his friends.

W. F. Hammer will offer for sale at public auction, on Saturday, Nov. 3, at Haystack, his entire farming outfit, consisting of 12 head of broke horses, four wagons, one hack, four sets double work
