J. C. Sothman Struck Bonanza in a Dry Gulch Near Round Butte

The report came in from Round Butte yesterday that J. C. Sothman has struck water in the gulch just below his house at a depth of eight feet, and that the supply appears to be sufficient for all ranch purposes. The story is brought in by James Kaas, who helped sink the well.

Mr. Sothman began sinking the well the first of the week in a dry gulch on the side of Round Butte, leading down to Willow Creek. After working only two days they struck a stream of water which appears to be strong enough to supply plenty of water. Over two hundred gallons were pumped out in the afternoon after striking the stream, and the same amount was pumped out next morning, in addition to the water pumped for the stock, without emptying the well. If the flow of water is permanent, which it has every indication of being, Mr. Sothman has struck a bonanza.

Mr. Sothman has a fine quarter section on the north slope of Round Butte. His brother has recently come from Minnesota and settled upon an adjoining quarter within an unsurveyed tract. The finding of water will greatly increase the value of the ranches in that immediate section.

Ross Baker was thrown from a horse which he was riding near the Eagles ranch, last Tuesday, and sustained quite painful injuries. Two ribs were broken, and he was otherwise hurt. The fractures were reduced Tuesday evening, and he is resting easy today.

Information was received here this week of the death of Mrs. Frank Lucas at Martinez, Arizona, on April 20. Mrs. Lucas was well known to the earliest settlers on Agency Plains, where her husband was one of the first to enter a homestead. For several years past they have resided in Arizona on account of the illness of Mrs. Lucas, who suffered from tuberculosis. The Lucas homestead, which adjoins the Martin Pratt homestead on the south, is in contest now.
