than Straus, an eastern philanthropist has established in New York City a series of milk booths where pure sterilized milk is sold to the poor for one cent a quart. Absolute antiseptic cleanliness is required by him in all branches of his enterprise. In cleansing the milk he uses two things—hot water and BORAX. # Popular Science

The earliest authoritative instance of a windmill in England was one which existed at Bury St. Edmunds in 1191.

Low-grade iron ores and impure graphite, says the Engineering and Mining Journal, have been smelted by electricity with success in Norway, the resulting pig iron being of very good quality.

One authority recommends the use of a teaspoonful of saltpeter to a pot of glue as a deodorizer, says Wood Craft. It is further claimed that it helps the glue to dry faster and become harder, nor is the strength and tenacity impaired in any way.

The amount of money spent on the harbor of Manila and the Pasig River during the past year totaled at nearly $4,500,000. It is now the best and safest harbor in the Orient. Breakwaters and large covered docks have been constructed and channels cleared. The improvements are not yet completed.

The Swiss Telegraph Department has adopted a contrivance for making a telephone largely automatic and for greatly diminishing the work of the employees. For the future, by a system of central batteries, the telephone will register its own conversations, and all the attendants will have to do will be to press a button as conversation ceases.

The French Navy Department is entering upon a general overhaul of the boilers on all warships fitted with vertical tubes. Several accidents to boilers of this type have rendered the step necessary. The joining of the tubes is the source of weakness, danger beginning as soon as the temperature exceeds 600 or 650 degrees. Hereafter the tube will have to project for 5 millimeters into the collector.

A new system of wireless telephony, invented by Professor Majorama of Rome, was tried early in April between the central telegraphic institute in Rome and the radiotelegraphic station of Monte Mario, a distance of about two and a half miles. The peculiarity of the apparatus consists in the employment of Majorama's hydraulic microphone in the circuit. It was found that even the timber of the voice was perfectly reproduced, and when two persons spoke alternately before the microphone, their voices were clearly distinguishable at the receiver. Experiments with the same apparatus over longer distances are to be made.

A new form of thermometer, which may prove useful in laboratories and factories, has been invented by Monsieur Fourrier of the Sorbonne, Paris. It makes use of the principle that the tension of a saturated vapor depends solely on the temperature, and is independent of the volume, as long as the liquid from which it is produced has not been wholly vaporized. The apparatus consists simply of a reservoir to contain the vapor, connected with a copper tube of any required length. A manometer at the end of the tube registers the tension, which varies with and so reveals the temperature. By means of this instrument an engineer in his office may watch the changes of temperature taking place at a distant point.

The Marvel of Distance.
The distance to the nearest fixed star is so tremendous that, like many of the facts of astronomy, it is beyond the grasp of the human imagination, though not beyond the reach of mathematical demonstration. Light, which travels at a speed of 186,000 miles in a single second of time, takes over four years to reach us from the nearest star. The thread spun by a spider is so excessively fine that a pound of it would be long enough to reach around the earth. It would take ten pounds of it to reach to the moon and over 3,000 pounds to stretch to the sun. But to get a thread long enough to reach the nearest star would require half a million tons. If a railroad could be built to this star and the fare fixed at a cent a mile the total cost of the journey would be $250,000,000,000, or more than sixty times the whole amount of coined gold in the world.

For the Children

To succeed these days you must have plenty of grit, courage, strength. How is it with the children? Are they thin, pale, delicate? Do not forget Ayer's Sarsaparilla. You know it makes the blood pure and rich, and builds up the general health in every way.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small, laxative doses of Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar coated.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The caddy took no notice, and the golfer began again.

UNCLE SAM AND FISH.

A Novel Proposed Extension of Federal Authority.
With the stock of food fish in the United States growing less each year the proposal of the American Fisheries Society, made at its meeting at Erie, that control over the rivers and lakes be given to the Federal government, is a matter of timely interest, says the Philadelphia Record.

"Shad in the Delaware are less plentiful than ever, and the record of other rivers where they once abounded is the same," said an old fisherman the other day. "Complaint is rife from the Potomac to the Connecticut. The depletion of the great lakes is deplorable. They are growing less and less capable of furnishing their former supply of fish.

"Of course the extension of Federal control is not popular, but there seems to be no other way of meeting the situation. Where a river, as the Delaware, flows between two States neither has absolute jurisdiction, and laws rarely dovetail so as to effect a supervision worth the name. Moreover, artificial propagation must be carried on on a great scale and under the direction of some authority adequate to securing its full results.

"The bill now being drafted by Congressman Shiras of Pittsburg to be introduced at the next session of Congress will doubtlessly be opposed by strict constructionists of State rights. But its provisions will be for the general good, and there appears to be no other way of securing the supply for future generations."

A joint commission of the States of New York and New Jersey is now working on laws to be passed by those commonwealths. Pennsylvania has a commission which is authorized to cooperate with it.

A writer in Macmillan's Magazine declares that in Dublin are a people who refuse to be dictated to. No white posts, registered stopping places, are considered. Occasionally, of course, conductors, being, after all, only mortal, deem it necessary to hurry the leisurely pedestrian, who clambers slowly and majestically into the car, but his urging is always resented.

One evening an old dame's feelings proved too much for her. She halted the car too late; we had passed, and by the time we pulled up she was several yards down the road.

She was becomingly arrayed, I remember, in a spotlessly white mob cap and a blue check apron, that covered her ample petticoat to the very hem. She had a big basket on her arm, and came trundling after the car in a very aggrieved fashion.

Perhaps the conductor was in a hurry; perhaps he thought her pace unnecessarily slow; at any rate, he clanged the bell vigorously.

Jerking her basket on to the foot-board and catching the brass rail in one hand, she stood on the road and treated him to a flood of eloquence, while he tried vainly to make her either enter the car or release her hold. The driver was growing impatient, and the other occupants were so openly amused that the conductor lost his temper.

"Will ye get on or will ye not?" he thundered.
"Get on? What else would I be doin', if ye'd only give me time."
Then she did condescend to get on, and finally seated herself with a genial smile that embraced the entire company.

"My," she remarked, "what a hurry we're in! Sure, we have the day before us—it was 6 in the evening—"and that young man rampagin' and clatterin' as though Ould Nick was after him."

RHEUMATISM

CAN NOT BE RUBBED AWAY
It is perfectly natural to rub the spot that hurts, and when the muscles, nerves, joints and bones are throbbing and twitching with the pains of Rheumatism the sufferer is apt to turn to the liniment bottle, or some other external application, in an effort to get relief from the disease, by producing counter-irritation on the flesh. Such treatment will quiet the pain temporarily, but can have no direct curative effect on the real disease because it does not reach the blood, where the cause is located. Rheumatism is more than skin deep—it is rooted and grounded in the blood and can only be reached by constitutional treatment—IT CANNOT BE RUBBED AWAY.

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by the accumulation in the system of refuse matter which the natural avenues of bodily waste, the Bowels and Kidneys, have failed to carry off. This refuse matter, coming in contact with the different acids of the body, forms uric acid which is absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the body, and Rheumatism gets possession of the system. The aches and pains are only symptoms, and though they may be scattered or relieved for a time by surface treatment, they will reappear at the first exposure to cold or dampness, or after an attack of indigestion or other irregularity. Rheumatism can never be permanently cured while the circulation remains saturated with irritating, pain-producing uric acid poison. The disease will shift from muscle to muscle or joint to joint, settling on the nerves, causing inflammation and swelling and such terrible pains that the nervous system is often shattered, the health undermined, and perhaps the patient becomes deformed and crippled for life. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses the blood and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and expelling all foreign matter from the system. It warms and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, constantly depositing acid and corrosive matter in the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, the body is fed and nourished by rich, health-sustaining blood which completely and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. is composed of both purifying and tonic properties—just what is needed in every case of Rheumatism. It contains no potash, alkali or other mineral ingredient, but is made entirely of purifying, healing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks. If you are suffering from Rheumatism do not waste valuable time trying to rub a blood disease away, but begin the use of S. S. S. and write us about your case and our physicians will give you any information or advice desired free of charge and will send our special treatise on Rheumatism.
