WHY MAN CAN'T FLY.

Bat Is Aided by Air in Bones and Web Frame.

"Flight as a personal matter can never be attempted by man, for the plain reason that he is not provided with a flying body," writes Dr. Andrew Wilson, "A near neighbor quadruped of his, the bat, has evolved flying powers, but it has developed a frame which, like that of the bird, is made for flight as its true means of locomo-

"Its bones are filled with air and otherwise it has points which render its aerial trips, not so extensive as those of the bird, easily performed. In the bird, it is simply the whole arm forelimb which is modified in the wing, and it is the actual movement of this feathered arm which propels its possession through the air.

"But the bat's flight is of a different kind. It calls to its aid a skinfold which stretches between the four enormously elongated fingers, runs between forelimbs and hindlimbs and between hindlimbs and tall. In the bat, therefore, we have something of the boat's sail order of things added to the wing, as opposed to the movements of tue wing, pure and simple, in the bird,

"A flying fish does not fly. It leaps from the sea, spreading its big breast fins wide, and is carried so far by the initial velocity it acquired in its preliminary rush through the water. Nor do flying squirrels or flying lizards fly. They possess folds of skin fringing their bodies, which merely act as parachutes, sustaining them in their aerial leaps from bough to bough.

"Engineers have calculated that a relatively enormous amount of energy would be required to be exerted by a man to raise him from the ground into the air under the existing circumstances of his life. This energy it is Impossible to generate within the frame, and so the personal flight problem must be put out of court altogether,

"It may be a different matter when motor power, light and energy of sufficient extent can be provided to assist man in his aerial excursions. The idea that some personal apparatus, so to speak, might enable man to convert himself into a flier, has its own attraction, and possibly the idea may take practical shape. But the more hopeful solution of human flight is the dirigible flying machine, man being merely the passenger in it, and not its propelling gentus,"-Chicago News,

TINY FLOWERS IN PORCELAIN.

From France Comes a Quaintly Decorative Effect for Dinner Table.

The heart of a china collector would be made glad by a visit such as I enjoyed recently in the shop of a ceramiste d'art, says a Paris correspondent of Vogue. I was shown real Sevres pate tendre, made by his own chemical process. Broken dinner services of anclent design may be matched here and completed. I saw beautiful plates and dishes of transparent enamel, most difficult, it appears, to do, for it is put into the oven many times and often broken in the process. Small wonder, then, it is dear, for one cup and saucer is $100. A plate of "modern enamel" is $35. The Sevres pate tendre is in lovely shades of pink, pale green and blue. The plates are $30. The design is in delicate set flowers and graceful garlands. Very lovely were plates of pate tendre with circles of tovely pink or delicious yellow, twined about with tiny flowers. These are $22 each.

More modest in price are little boxes for the dressing table, candlesticks and little dishes, all copied from veritable ancients, for $2.40, $2.80 and $8.20. Who would not value a little gift of that sort? There are vases of grace-"No, indeed. Why, all you young | ful form of $3.60 and umbrella handles for $3.20. A copy of an old design is carried out in a chocolate pot for $8. Cups to match are $2.80 each.

Such a quaintly decorative effect for the dinner table may be obtained by tiny individual pots of flowers, not real, as we have had them, nor even artificial, but in porcelains in imitation of old porcelains de Saxe, pot and mossy earth and demure little old-fashioned flowers, all in the faded but strong old colorings that harmonize so well with are several larger sizes for grouping about a center decoration of porcelain

Sun, Moon and Tides.

The sun and moon conjointly affect the oceans in obedience to the fact in nature known as the law of the attraction of gravity. It is the nature of things that the sun and moon shall pull at the earth's waters, and no further explanation can be given. When the sun and moon are pulling in line the tides are highest and when pulling against each other the lowest. The moon is so much nearer the earth than the sun that it does most of the pulldo nothing more than temporarily relieve ing, notwithstanding its greatly infothe discomfort of the trouble. Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers,"

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."
