

A Hair Dressing

Nearly every one likes a fine hair dressing. Something to make the hair more manageable; to keep it from being too rough, or from splitting at the ends. Something, too, that will feed the hair at the same time, a regular hair-food. Well-fed hair will be strong, and will remain where it belongs—on the head, not on the comb!

article of china.

"What's peculiar about it?" asked the customer.

"The fact that we have forty other sets just like it, together with any number of other pieces, and expect to keep the pattern always in stock. Any piece that's accidentally broken can be replaced at half price rest of the family about it."

"I'll take it," said the customer.—

Peerless
Dried Beef

Unlike the ordinary dried beef—that sold in bulk—Libby's Peerless Dried Beef comes in a sealed glass jar in which it is packed the moment it is sliced into those delicious thin wafers.

None of the rich natural flavor or goodness escapes or dries out. It reaches you fresh and with all the nutriment retained.

Libby's Peerless Dried Beef is only one of a Great number of high-grade, ready

BISHOP WHOSE DEATH IS MOURNED BY THOUSANDS.

Bishop Henry C. Potter

Henry Codman Potter, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New York, whose death is mourned by thousands, was born in Schenectady, N. Y. In 1836, and came from a family of famous churchmen. His father and an uncle were bishops before him, and it was natural for him to follow in their footsteps. It was not the original intention of his father to have him enter the ministry. The elder Potter selected the life of a groceryman for his son, and this was the first business in which he engaged after leaving school.
It was not to his liking, and he entered the Episcopal Seminary of Virginia at Alexandria, from which he graduated in 1857 at the age of 22, when he was ordained a deacon. Bishop Potter was well known as an educator. His influence in secular affairs extended far beyond the pale of the church.

As bishop his influence in broadening the human sympathies of church work throughout the diocese and in bringing it into touch with the social movements of a complex civilization was incalculable, and he always accomplished his ends without weakening the church's tenets or compromising its historic and liturgical integrity, of which he was a staunch upholder. Cultured, suave, a prince at dinner, he was yet, whenever occasion required, a rugged defender of his faith, and his unwavering faith was that of his church.
The bishop was married twice. His second wife and several children by his first marriage survive him.

messages that the inhabitants of the United States far surpassed those of the Old World. While each 1,000 of population in the old country sent 7,364 six times as many.

LOSES PRESENCE OF MIND.

Guest, Though Forewarned, Fats Hostess in a Predicament.

An amusing anecdote was told by a young matron the other day apropos of absent-minded persons. She had been married only a short time and was giving a luncheon to some of her mother's friends. She was particularly anxious to have everything go off well, that her reputation as a housekeeper might be established. The little menu was made out after much consultation with the new French cook. She had trimmed the table with her own hands and all was in charming readiness, when at the eleventh hour an old school friend arrived from out of town and asked if she could stay for luncheon. It was most inconvenient, but the warm-hearted bride welcomed her.

"Stay, by all means, dear Amy," she said. "But there is one condition.
Please do not take any chandfroils.
There was not enough chicken and the cook has only just told me. These French people are so economical. But, after all, if you and I both say 'No' to them, they are sure to go around Don't forget, dear."

Any promised faithfully and went upstairs to prepare for the party. The guests arrived promptly and the luncheon began with an excellent melon for each. The hostess, having been warned against too much food, especially as there was to be bridge afterwards, had cut out all the extras and limited her dishes to the melons, a cheese souffle and the chandfroils. The last she refused when they came her way and trembled at the small amount on the dish. There was not even any extra aspic jelly, but she reflected with relief that there would be just enough when Amy refused. Then, to her horror, she saw her absent-minded friend not only take one, but two, upon her plate. The waitress had not sufficient presence of mind to leave the remainder, so two women went without any.
"And I am sure," added the narrator, in conclusion, "that they all went home hungry. Why, I blush even now when I think of that luncheon."—New York Tribune.

Out of the Frying Pan.

"Do you love me well enough to give up cigars?"

"Certainly. Besides, after we are married I won't be able to afford anything but a pipe."—Illinois State Journal.

An ounce of action is better than a

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

There is scarcely any one, no matter how vigorous and healthy, who does not need a tonic sometimes. Little physical irregularities upset the system, the appetite fails, digestion is poor, the body feels tired and worn out, and other unpleasant symptoms give warning that the system is disordered and needs assistance to ward off, perhaps, some serious sickness or ailment. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the best of all tonics, nature's medicine, made entirely of healing, cleansing, invigorating roots and herbs, a systemic remedy without an equal. S. S. S. has the additional value of being the greatest of all blood purifiers. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling, improves the appetite and digestion, and brings about a return of health to those whose systems have been weakened or depleted. S. S. S. acts more promptly and pleasantly than any other medicine, and those who are run down in health should commence its use at once. It will thoroughly purify the blood and tone up the system. S. S. S. is admirably suited for a systemic remedy because it is free from minerals; it may be used without harmful results by persons of any age, and no unpleasant effects ever follow.
