John Lovell went to Grizzly Lake Tuesday after a load of lumber.

Charles W. Parrish was in town Tuesday from his home near Haycreek.

Edward Sweeting, who has been working on a new building for Thomas Brogan at Antelope, returned to Madras last Tuesday.

Charles M. Dinby, who has been working in a warehouse at Helix during the Summer, returned to Madras Monday morning.

J. H. Jackson, W. H. Stonehocker and J. C. Paxton went to Prineville the first of the week to perform jury service in the Circuit Court.

George Hurt drove over to Prineville yesterday after his family, who have been spending the past month there. Mr. Hurt and his family expect to leave in the next few weeks for Medford to spend the Winter.

Tillman Reuter has returned from Prineville, where he attended the county fair last week. Mr. Reuter had a very attractive exhibit of farm products grown in this immediate section, at the fair.

Will Barber of Culver has purchased the Fred Killingbeck homestead in the Opal Prairie district. Mr. Barber is one of the younger farmers of this end of the county who are making a success of it and gradually increasing their holdings.

The roads are drying out and some grain is beginning to move from this section to the market at Shaniko. A majority of the farmers are busy with Fall seeding and plowing, however, and not a great deal of grain will be moved until this Fall work is completed.

Howard W. Turner, who has been quite ill at Prineville with typhoid fever, is reported to be convalescing. He has been ill for nearly a month and his condition was quite serious at one time. His friends in Madras will be glad to know that he is on the road to recovery.

Henry M. Davis and his family arrived here the first of the week and are residing at their homestead Southwest of this city. Mr. Davis has been conducting a stopping place at Fish Lake, which has become quite a favorite Summer resort in recent years. He says he had a successful Summer at the lake.

T. T. Jolseth of Rollette county, North Dakota, arrived in Madras last week and expects to locate in this locality. Mr. Jolseth was joined by his family yesterday and together they will look over the country. The family have been residing near LaGrande for some time, having come out to Oregon during the Spring.

The rainy weather marred the pleasure and reduced the attendance at the county fair at Prineville last week, according to reports received from people from this section who were in attendance. The weather was a dismal failure from the standpoint of the fair management, as it rained the first three days and kept many away who otherwise would have gone to Prineville. The last two days of the fair the weather was all that could be asked, clear and warm. There were only a few people from this section who attended the fair.

Walter Wing of Silver Lake passed through Madras Sunday on his return home from a trip to Portland.

Grizzly mountain hung out a signal of the approach of Winter, last Friday morning, that butle and the neighboring hills being covered with snow for the first time this season. The Cascade range to the West has also donned its Winter raiment, much new snow having fallen in the past week. Mount Jefferson, which was beginning to look quite bare, has already been covered by heavy snows. The recent snows have stopped travel across the mountains, and a number of people who had started across last week had to turn back.
