Are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood. It may then produce dyspepsia, emaciation, and marked tendency to constipation, before causing eruptions, swellings, or abscesses. To get entirely rid of it take the great blood-purifier,

Omissions of History.

The American colonists had just enumerated the doctrine that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. "How perfectly absurd," exclaimed George III. "Why, a man can't govern his family in that principle."

Glory of the Nickname.

The public man in America who has never been tagged with a nickname may be just as efficient and worthy of praise as his brethren who are known as "Bill" and "Joe," but he has not achieved an equal measure of popularity. Nicknames are often inspired by affection than by aversion. "The men of the people," so-called, are invariably nicknamed. Venerable citizens still refer to "Abe" Lincoln, dwelling with reminiscent affection upon the abbreviation. Nicknames both good and bad are as old as history. In the country the people have a way of abbreviating the names of the men they really like and assigning their full titles to the men who prefer dignity to popularity.—Pittsburg Gazette.

His Discharge.

A touching instance of the humor which never deserts a true Irishman even in his worst troubles is recorded. A soldier was seen in the trenches holding his hands above the earthworks. His captain asked: "What are you doing that for, Pat?" He replied, with a grin, as he worked his fingers: "I'm feeling for a furlough, sir." Just then a rifle ball struck his arm just below the wrist. Then a queer expression of pain and humor passed over his face as he exclaimed: "And faith it's a discharge."—London Answers.

Mother's Will.

Mother's will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

In Justification.

Police Justice—This man charges you with stealing his watch, and the charge seems to be sustained. You were found with the watch in your possession. Prisoner—Y'r honor, it ain't so; I didn't steal it. I met him on the street and asked him what time it was. He said it was 4 o'clock. I says, 'I don't believe that watch is right,' and he says, 'You bet it's right! It's just 4 o'clock; you can take it from me.' Well, y'r honor, the first chance I got I took it from him, and now he's kickin' about it!

Airy Perilage.

Mrs. Cuppotee—How could a woman ever bring herself to marry an aeronaut? He's so flighty. Mrs. Waypher—Yes, and too often he lacks ballast. Mrs. Marmalade—Then, too, he looks down on ordinary people. Mrs. Chillico-Kearney—And again he moves in the higher circles, and you don't.—Chicago Tribune.

Every Day is Celebrated as Sunday.

Few people know that other days of the week than the first are being observed as Sunday by some nation or other. The Greeks observe Monday; the Persians, Tuesday; the Assyrians, Wednesday; the Egyptians, Thursday; the Turks, Friday; the Jews, Saturday; and the Christians, Sunday. Thus a perpetual Sabbath is being celebrated on earth.—Success Magazine.

Another Lesson from Nature.

"Young gentlemen," lectured the eminent instructor, "you are old enough now to put away the childish and trivial amusements that sufficed for you when you were younger. Learn a lesson from the dumb brutes, and arrive at maturity they comport themselves with a certain dignity." "It isn't so with the rattlesnake, professor," objected the young man with the bad eye. "The older he grows, the more rattles he plays with."

The Inevitable Joke.

"Say, old man," remarked one of his neighbors, "why have you given your home a new name? What was the matter with 'The Nutshell'?" "Why?" responded the man, with some warmth. "Because I was tired of being joked. There isn't a boy for a mile around who hasn't stopped and rung the door bell every time he passed to ask if the colonel was in!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Demanding Fuller Information.

Nan—Yes, Tom calls occasionally. Queer fellow, isn't he? Doesn't seem to know what to do with his hands. Sits with them clasped the whole evening. Fan (raising her eyebrows)—Sits with his hands clasped, eh? Together?—Chicago Tribune.

Too Much Opposition.

"Pimmie, does your mother still object to my coming to see you?" "Yes, dear; she does." "Good! So does mine. She says that, if I marry you she'll cut me off with a shilling." "O, but that's altogether different! Perhaps, Jack—in view of everything—and because—and we're both so young—well, don't you see?"—Chicago Tribune.

FRISO'S

Throat and Lungs. 25 CENTS. CURE

A Lifting Jack.

When one is alone on a farm with perhaps no help around it is almost impossible to lift hay racks or grain tanks off the wagons. With a device like the cut, one man can take off any kind of a hay rack with ease. This lifting jack is seven feet high. The two uprights are 2x4 at the base and 2x2 at the upper end. They can be ripped out of 2x6. Have the wooden block out of an old hay fork pulley, bolted to the upper end of the uprights with a half inch bolt for the rope to work on. Thirty inches from the base is an offset to which is attached a spindle for the rope to wind on. The need of the offset will easily be seen in operation; the crank will always be in the clear. The crank is 14 inches long. The spindle is one inch in diameter. A piece of good one inch gas pipe makes a good one. The uprights are spread 20 or 22 inches at the base. It also needs a few light wooden braces to strengthen and stiffen it. It should be made quite strong and light, so that one man can carry it handily. On the end of the three-quarter inch rope is a five-eighths inch iron hook.

AMERICAN REAPERS IN ASIA.

American farm machinery is rapidly finding its way into foreign countries, but our American farmers would not know how to use the machines that are sent over there. They are built to meet the demands of Asiatic farmers, who are slow to grasp up-to-date methods.

shaped so as to draw itself into the wood and not slip off. This hook needs one or two links. A hardwood peg is placed in the upright back of the crank, thus holding the load at any height. To take the hay rack off the wagon place the lifting jack in an upright position at one end as near the center as possible. Place the hook beneath some part of the rack, turn the crank, and it will surprise you how light the rack seems. When high enough so as to clear the wheels, have a 4x4 or other fairly strong timber to put under the rack, the ends resting on two well secured posts. Raise the other end in the same manner and you will have your hay rack or grain tank where the wheels will not grow over them and without any lifting to speak of.—Montreal Star.

Farmer's Poultry House.

The accompanying illustration of a poultry house is largely self-explanatory. Both a window and curtain front is provided. The window slides back and in place of it a cotton screen can be let down to fill the opening. The pens are built 12 ft. x 13 ft. and the coop is placed beneath the dropping board. Rough boards are used for sheeting together with tar paper and cheap shingles. The inside may be plastered.

Homemade Barometer.

Those who love experimentation may try the following method of making a cheap barometer, as practiced in France: Take 8 grams of pulverized camphor, 4 grams of pulverized nitrate of potassium, 2 grams of pulverized nitrate of ammonia and dissolve in 60 grams of alcohol. Put the whole in a long, slender bottle, closed at the top with a piece of bladder containing a phloble to admit the air. When rain is coming the solid particles will tend gradually to mount, little star crystals forming in the liquid, which otherwise remains clear; if high winds are approaching, the liquid will become thick as if fermenting, while a film of solid particles forms on the surface; during fair weather the liquid will remain clear and the solid particles will rest at the bottom.

Individuality of Cows.

While there are slight individual differences in digestive efficiency among cows, extensive experiments have shown that these are insufficient to account for the widely variable returns made by similar cows from like quantities of the same kind of food. The results obtained in tests of this kind are emphatic. It has been shown that, of two cows of apparently the same merit, from superficial examination one may return three times as much as the other from a given amount of similar foods. They digested their food equally well. It is a well known fact that there are individual likes and dislikes among cows, which necessitates an intimate knowledge of each cow if best results are to follow. Occasionally a cow will make her best performance upon a ration not suited to the other members of the herd. These matters are of continual interest to the dairymen, who should safeguard himself at all times by keeping at least approximate records of food consumed and product yielded by each individual.—Kansas Farmer.

Profit From Dairy Products.

The Maryland Experiment Station has been making tests as to profits in selling dairy products, as milk, cream and butter. This test shows that cream is one of the most profitable forms of sale, when 20 per cent cream can be sold at 50 cents a gallon, and even at this low price returns 23 1/2 cents per pound for the butter in the milk, besides leaving the skim milk for use on the farm. Of course, cream can be usually sold for more than 50 cents per gallon. It appears that milk shipping is ordinarily more profitable than butter. Thus 12 cents per gallon for 3 1/2 per cent milk is equal to 23 1/2 cents per

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

No old sore can heal until the cause which produces it has been removed. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may reduce the inflammation and assist in keeping the place clean, but cannot cure the trouble because they do not reach its source. Old sores exist because the blood is infected with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the place. The nerves, tissues and fibres of the flesh are kept in a state of irritation and disease by being daily fed with the germ-laden matter through the circulation, making it impossible for the sore to heal. S. S. S. cures chronic sores by its purifying action on the blood. It goes down into the circulation, and removes the poison-producing germs, impurities and morbid matters which are responsible for the failure of the place to heal. S. S. S. makes the blood pure, fresh and healthy; then as new, rich blood is carried to the spot the healing process begins, all discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, new tissue begins to form, the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh, and soon the sore is permanently cured. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, the safest and best blood purifier for young or old. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

Seeing Oxford.

An Oxford student was showing two fair cousins through the Christchurch College. "That," he explained, "is the picture gallery; that, the library; and that tower contains the famous bell, 'Great Tom of Oxford.'" Stopping quickly, he picked up a stone and sent it crashing through a second-story, ivy-framed window, where there immediately appeared a face, purple with rage. "And that," added the young man, helpfully, "is the Dean."

Hampered by Monopoly.

Archimedes had just proclaimed that if he had a lever long enough and a fulcrum on which to rest it he could move the world. "But what's the use of thinking about it," he said, "so long as the Big Stick is in the keeping of T. Roosevelt?" Hereupon he spoke a short and ugly word.—Chicago Tribune.

Experienced the Sensations.

"Have you been away on any vacation this summer?" "No; I expected to go, and sent my suitcases on ahead, but something turned up at the last moment that prevented the trip. I got all the effect of a vacation, though. The suitcases came back last week with $7.75 storage and express charges on them."

A Wide Range.

When the surgeon who happened to be spending a night at Bushby Inn had set the broken leg of the weather-beaten stranger who was the chief victim of an automobile accident, the patient looked up at him anxiously. "See here, doc," he said, in a husky voice, "I haven't got much of any money; would you take out your fee in trade?" "Yes, I guess so," said the surgeon, cheerfully. "What is your trade?" "Well, I've got a number of things I can do soon as I'm on my feet again," said the patient. "I can hang window-blinds, or I can put on lightning-rods, or I can play the cornet; and I do 'em all first-rate, if I'm the one to say it, doc."

A Chance to Work It Off.

Political Spellbinder—You know I put in two or three days preparing a speech I was expected to deliver at the convention. Well, there were so many fellows ahead of me that they didn't get around to me at all. I've still got that speech in my system, Alvirra. His Wife—You have? Then I wish you would go out to the kitchen and thunder it at the cook. I've tried to discharge her and she won't go.—Chicago Tribune.

The Professor.

"Uncertainty," moralized the doctor, "is the poison that lurks in everything in this life." "Certainly," said the professor; "life itself is one-half 'it.'"
