Merely an Accident

Hearing a noise in his henhouse at 3 t. m., Mr. Kajones hastily dressed himself and went out to investigate. He found a visitor there. "What are you doing here?" he de-nmuded. "Wakin' de chickens, to give 'em breakfus'," answered an apologetic voice. "I allus do it 'bout dis time, suh. But, golly. I done made a mistake an' got in somebody else's benhouse !"

Then the owner of the voice made a hasty exit through the hole in the roof, and all was still.-Chicago Tribune.

He Preferred One Girl.

When J. M. Barrie, the author of "Peter Pan," addressed an audience of a thousand girls at Smith College during his first American visit of last year, a friend asked him how he had found the experience.

"Well," replied Mr. Barrie, "to tell you the truth, I'd much rather talk a thousand times to one gir! than to talk one time to a thousand girls,"

THE PERUNA ALMANAC.

The druggists have already been supplied with the Peruna almanac for 1909. In addition to the regular astronomical matter usually furnished in almanacs, the articles on astrology are very attractive to most people. The mental characteristics of each sign are given with faithful accuracy. A list a large mouthful. Thus better masti-of lucky and unlucky days will be furnished to those who have our almanacs, free of charge. Address The Peruna Co., Columbus, O.

Care of the Flock. Sheep need little shelter except to keep off rain and snow. I have always allowed them to stay out in the coldest wenther, if it was not stormy. However, I never, under any circumstances, allow them to take rains and snews in winter, writes a correspondent of Farm and Home.

At this senson I give good clover hay, and in addition a little sliage or corn fodder about three times a week. I feed twice a day in the yard on the ground if it is frozen, but when the ground is not frozen I feed in racks in the sheep barn. I feed a little entire grain, mostly oats to the breeding CWND.

My troughs are made of three boards, 8 feet long, the bottom one 10 inches wide and the sides 6 inches, as shown to sketch. I scatter the oats thin in these troughs and the sheep cannot get narrow troughs. I have fed threshed oats to my sheep for a good many years and have not as yet experienced any bad results from their use. I feed cats until after lambing time, then I add about one ear of shelled corn to one plut of oats per day.

I know from my own experience that It pays to keep sheep, provided they are kept well, and those who do not do this are very likely to condemn the breed of sheep which they may happen to have or the breeding stock which they have purchased for the improvement of their flock when the fault is really their own.

Quick Poultry Fattening.

The theory on which crate fattening is encouraged is that a ben will digest more food than she will eat. Shredded wheat will put the fat on at as low a cost as 41/2 cents per pound. The sections of our crates are two feet wide, two feet high, twenty-seven inches long, three sections to a crate; five birds to a section, says a bulletin of The Connecticut Experiment Station. These have to be very carefully fed so that the appetite will not be hurt.

Careful attention has to be given not only to what they are fed, but when and how often the feed is offered to them. Equal quantities of cornmeal, ground oats and shredded wheat mixed wth skim milk consistency of good porridge in front of them for a few minutes, every tweive hours for two days. Next evening let them eat their fill. Next day feed in the morning not enough to satisfy them. At night, all they will eat. At the end of the second week give a noon feed of just a little. The third week give all they want at noon. Next week add a little tallow, perhaps half a pint of tallow to fifteen birds. Give a little grit from time to time.

If growing brollers give them a large percentage of bran six weeks, then make the bulk of the feed cornmeal for four weeks. Milk and buckwheat, or milk and oats tend to whiten skin. If anything is not contented, it won't out on flesh.

clean, either grain or hay. Without flow, a doubt oats is the best general food for a horse, and goes well with timothy hay. A good change is to once or twice a week give a feed of corn and clover with bran mash. When a horse does not clean up his feed it is best to try a change. Feeding and watering should be done at regular intervals, the watering always before the eating. Above all things, do not give a horse water immediately after eating. It should never be given before at least an hour after he has finished his meal.

It might be said that it is always seasonable to fertilize the orchard or garden. Manure placed on this soil this winter will partially decay, and its richness soak into the soil for the use of the plants next year. It not only serves as a fertilizer in the orchard, but in winter it acts as a soil protection and regulates sudden freezing and thawing. On hilly land it checks soll erosion.

Grass In Orchard. Sod culture is recommended by some successful peach growers. The soil is worked during the time the trees are growing, and a clover crop is sowed for fall and winter which is plowed under early in the spring. Clover crops should not be left until they suck up too must moisture from the soil at a time when it is needed by

When there is plenty of moisture in spring, followed by dry and not gan. weather during June and July, the condition is just right for spoiling the soil, especially if untimely plowing has left the fields in a budly baken condi-tion. If the result of such conditions grup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething pariod. lasted but one season the matter would not be so serious, but it has frequently been observed that land badly puddled and subsequently hard baked can not be retrieved in many years. It is harder to reduce such soil than the toughest hard-pan. In fact, it will require several seasons of careful work to bring these solls into good condition again. It is a bad practice to stir ground when it is wet, yet it is done every year, and it is a wonder that we get any crops at all from these fields. Such fields are the first to dry up when summer droughts strike us, for capillarity has been so completely destroyed that the crops can not draw upon the water reserves, and the elements needed for growth of the crops are so securely locked up in the clods that they are not available. It is the natural tendency of all soil to become firmer. It is tamped down by even the gentlest rains, and beating rains will render it almost impervious pazo ointment is guaranteed to cure any to water. Good farming must undo case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. Soc. this work by breaking up these crusts and keeping the soll in good condition. All practical farmers know that soils are best by being plowed and cultivated at just the right time, but not many have the patience to stand by, when the season is getting late, or put off cultivation and allow weeds to get the upper hand. Brown says there is more to be gained by properly working our soils than in fertilizing them.

Wind Colle in Horses,

The treatment for wind colic differs very materially from that of cramp colic. Absorbents are of some service. and, charcoal may be given in any quantity. Relaxants are also beneficial in this form of colic. Chloral hydrate not only possesses this quality, but it also is a pain reliever. It is particularly well adapted to the treatment of wind colle, and should be given in 1ounce doses in a pint of water. Diluted alcohol or whisky may be given. or aromatic spirits of ammonia in 1ounce doses at short intervals. A physic should always be given in flatulent colic as early as possible, the best being 1-ounce doses of Barados aloes Injections, per rectum, of turpentine, 1 to 2 ounces; linseed oll, 8 ounces, may be given frequently to stimulate the peristaltic motion of the bowels and favor the escape of wind. Blankets rung out of hot water do much to arford relief; they should be renewed every five or ten minutes and covered with a dry, woolen blanket. This form of colle is much more fatal than cramp colic, and requires prompt and persistent treatment. It is entirely unsafe to predict the result, some apparently mild attacks going on to speedy death, while others that appear at the onset to be very severe yielding rapidly to treatment Do not cease your efforts until you know the animal is past help.

Sait for Sheep.

Experiments recently made for the purpose of ascertaining the nutritive value of salt for sheep show that those which have been fed salt gained in weight four and one-half pounds more than those which received no salt. Moreover, the sheep which received sait produced one and one-third pounds more wool and of a better quality than those which received no sait.

Harvesting Beets with Steam Plow. To plow out a crop of sugar beets by running a heavy traction engine over the field would be destructive, so the method described in Popular Mechanics has proved very satisfactory. The powerful traction engines are placed at each side of a field, and the plow, which is of a special design, is dragged back and forth by cables.
