Raymond de Moro was in town with his Cadillac car which he had on Trail Crossing grade, on home. He carried out new wheels for the car, and got it back as far as Madras, and had the repairs completed.

Mrs. C. F. Smith and their family were in town last week from their way home from the Agency at Seattle. While in the city Mr. Smith bought a new Cadillac car, which he drove out from the city, making the trip to Madras in the car.

Mr. J. H. Jones, who has been a clerk in the War Springs agency, received notice last week from the War Springs agency, having been appointed agent of an Indian Reservation in Nebraska. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were in town last Thursday on the new post.

Larsen, who has a government job at the War Springs agency was in town Thursday. Mr. Larsen, who has been pitching for the War Springs agency this season, says that arrangements between the Madras and the War Springs teams will probably be arranged early date.

Mill owned by Wilton Brothers burned last Saturday with a loss of $7000. It is reported that the fire originated in the engine room, and all machinery was destroyed in addition about 450,000 worth of lumber was burned in the yard. The property was insured and the property was a complete loss to the owners.

Clerk Warren Brown, Assessor of the county, Editor Grey of the Crook County Journal, F. S. Cooper of the Creamery and Postmaster Guy were in town from Prineville last week. They were in town on Friday afternoon and spent some time in Madras. They were "seeing the country." Messrs. Gray and Cooper were the first time. All of the men were enthusiastic over the conditions which they found in this country.

Williams had the misfortune of losing a horse while handling a horse at a ranch on Agency Plains last week. While trying to hold the horse, the horse was pulled against the wagon, the thumb being between the rope and the iron tire, and the horse was thrown over the side of the wagon, the thumb being injured member dressed and attended to.

Mrs. I. D. Brown received word last Saturday of the death of her step father, John P. Wilson, who died in Portland July 14. Mr. Wilson was one of the pioneer settlers of the state, having come to Oregon in 1857, since which time he has been a resident of the state. He was about 93 years of age.

Paul C. Bates and Robert Rea of Portland arrived in Madras last Thursday evening. Mr. Bates has recently bought quite a large acreage of wheat lands in this vicinity for himself and his associates, his principal purchases being in the Opal Prairie district. He is here looking after these interests and has also made some other purchases since arriving. Mr. Rea has been interested in several sales of real estate in this locality. He will remain in Madras for some time looking after townsite matters.

Last Sunday's Oregonian contained reproductions of a number of views along the line of the Deschutes Railroad, including a view of Madras and one of Redmond. The views of the line along the Deschutes canyon and of the crossings over Willow Creek and Crooked River give an excellent idea of the character of the work to be encountered in the construction of the Central Oregon road, and of the physical obstacles to be overcome. The construction of the Deschutes road, it is said, will be as difficult as that of the North Bank, but when completed the Deschutes line will be one of the greatest scenic roads in the United States.

Daye Lindsay was in town Tuesday from his home near Haystack.

John Eisenreich made final proof upon his homestead East of this place Tuesday before Commissioner Turner.
