A STRANGE ANOMALY

In fact Dr. Withycombe insists that under proper management the pig can be brought to the desired maturity for 314 cents per pound. With such a pig 450 pounds of wheat fed to him, as has been repeatedly demonstrated at the Oregon experiment station will produce 100 pounds of weight. By the application of a little mathematics any farmer or anybody else can see that at present prices for pork, a price more than double the market figures can be secured for wheat fed to hogs.

The farmer who is cropping his farm to wheat and selling it instead of feeding it, is missing a golden opportunity. He is deliberately hauling away in his wagon the fertility of his soil. He is deliberately selling his wheat for less than half what he could get for it by application of good business methods. He is wasting his time and substance on an errand that is keeping him out of his own. Unless he hitch his wagon to the car of progress and get out of the old wheat growing rut, he will see himself distanced in the struggle for material things and life comforts by his more progressive neighbor.
