A Miracle of Science.
Aeroplaning is another miracle of practical science—another impossibility shown to be possible—another dream of centuries realized, but realized in a manner which none but this generation could have understood. Will the history of the steam locomotive repeat itself? The actual maximum speed on railways is no higher today than it was sixty years ago, though, of course, the train loads are very different. Will it be so with the aeroplane?

A Peep Ahead.
They were about to open the Panama canal in due form.
"What are we waiting for?" asked the man who was to deliver the oration.
"We are waiting," answered the master of ceremonies in a husky whisper, "to see if we can't scare up a few American built ships to go through first!"—Chicago Tribune.

Old Favorites

The Volunteer Organist.
A preacher in a village church one Sunday morning said:
"Our organist is ill to-day; will some one play instead?"
An anxious look crept o'er the face of every person there.
As eagerly they watched to see who'd fill that vacant chair.
A man then staggered down the aisle whose clothes were old and worn;
How strange a drunkard seemed to me in church on Sunday morn!
But as he touched the organ keys, without a single word,
The melody that followed was the sweetest ever heard.

Refrain:
The scene was one I'll ne'er forget as long as I may live.
And just to see it o'er again all earthly wealth I'd give.
The congregation all amazed, the preacher, old and gray,
The organ and the organist who volunteered to play.

Each eye shed tears within that church, the strongest men grew pale;
The organist in melody had told his own life's tale.
The sermon of the preacher was no lesson to compare
With that of life's example who sat in the organ chair.
And when the service ended not a soul had left a seat
Except the poor old organist, who started toward the street.
Along the aisle and out the door he slowly passed away;
The preacher rose and softly said:
"Good brethren, let us pray."

The Sinner and the Song.
A sinner was wandering at eventide; His tempter was watching close by at his side;
In his heart raged a battle for right against wrong;
But hark! from the church he hears the sweet song,
"Jesus, lover of my soul,
Let me to Thy bosom fly!"
He lingered and listened to every sweet chord;
He remembered the time he once loved, the Lord.
Come on, says the tempter, come on with the throng;
But hark! from the church again swells the song:
"While the billows near me roll,
While the tempest still is high!"
O, tempter, depart, I have served thee too long,
I fly to the Saviour, He dwells in the song.
O Lord, can it be that a sinner like me,
May find a sweet refuge by coming to Thee?
"Other refuge have I none,
Hangs my helpless soul on thee."
I come, Lord, I come, Thou'll forgive the dark past,
And O, receive my soul at last.
—Will L. Thompson.

SOME ROMAN EXAMPLES.
Highway Advertising in Pompeian Days More Offensive Than Now.
When Professor Abbott travels from New York to Princeton he passes through long lines of cows, tobacco pouches, whisky bottles, suspenders and golden promises of health, happiness and wealth through the eating of various breakfast foods. Most travelers find in these the evidences of a brutal commercialism; the man who knows his Romans knows that they are a classical survival.
In a way the highway advertising in Pompeii was more offensive than the contemporary outbreak of bad taste in public appeals; in Pompeii the advertisements were put on the walls of private houses, and even on the tombs! We have not yet put our cemeteries to this use. Professor Abbott reprints some of these announcements, largely of a political character, indicating, as one would expect, that Pompeii, being in a city in which vice was reduced to a science, had a Tammany Hall of its own, and there were people in the town in revolt against the desecration. On one wall an indignant citizen put his disgust in words which still survive: "I wonder, O wall, that you have not fallen in ruins from supporting the tiresome productions of so many writers." On a monument not far from Rome this prayer of a righteous man found: "Bill poster, I beg you to pass this monument by. If any candidate's name shall have been painted upon it, may he suffer defeat and may he never win any office!" It is amusing to read the poster announcing that "the farmers nominate M. Cassellius Marcellus as adile." Evidently there were grangers before Kansas! It is encouraging to be assured in large letters of Q. Brutus Balbus that "he will guard the treasury," and of a certain Julius Polybius that "he supplied good bread." We are reminded that there is nothing new under the sun by the declaration concerning a candidate that "ball players support him."—Outlook.

The Hot Air Furnace.
There was a young publisher who made a sudden fortune by appealing to that largely neglected class which we call Society. Gaining riches, the young publisher retired and was seen less and less in his old haunts.
"Where's Lawrence?" some one asked of "Mr. Dooley."
Dooley answered: "Oh, he's up town just now, warming his hands at the Social Register."—Success Magazine.

One Successful Case.
"Doctor, you're not so foolish as to think you can make people good by performing operations on them, are you?"
"That depends upon what you call making people good. You can check their disposition to commit crime."
"As, for example?"
"Well, I once knew a man who was cured, by a simple operation, of a tendency to rob banks and hold up railway trains."
"Did you perform it, doctor?"
"No; I was merely called on to verify the result after the operation was over."
"Well, who did perform it?"
"A frontier sheriff."—Chicago Tribune.

Died at Eighty-eight as Predicted.
Prophecy early in life that she would live to see her eighty-eighth birthday, Miss Julia H. Hancock, of Brockton, Mass., died a few days ago on the day she had previously set for her death. Infirmities of age are given as the cause. She gave no particular reason for her prediction, although she seemed imbued with the belief that her prophecy would come true.

Save This Recipe for Colds.
"Mix half pint of good whiskey with two ounces of glycerine and add one-half ounce Concentrated pine compound. The bottle is to be well shaken each time and used in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours." Any druggist has these ingredients or he will get them from his wholesale house. This is wonderfully effective.
The Concentrated pine is a special pine product and comes only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in an airtight case, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated."

What's in a Name?
An amusing story has been told concerning Mr. Phillips' classic drama, "Ulysses." When it was being played in America, two young girls were sitting together in the stalls at a matinee performance, and before the curtain rose the following conversation was heard: "Say, Maude, I know this play is going to be funny." "What makes you think so?" asked Maude. "Why, anybody could tell that from the name!" was the reply.—M. A. P.

En Famille.
Willie, a little country boy, 5 years of age, was taken one Sunday night to a large city church, where he saw for the first time a vested choir. To his mother's surprise and gratification, he not only kept wide awake, but seemed greatly interested in every part of the service. At its close he turned to her and said, "I like this church, it is so nice to watch the preacher when he comes out with all his wives in their nightgowns."—Harper's Magazine.

Point of Difference.
"Yes," said the bride of three short months, "I had made up my mind to remain in the spinster class, then John appeared upon the scene and I accepted him because he was so unlike other men."
"Oh, of course he's different," rejoined the envious lady friend. "He proposed."—Yonkers Statesman.

Your Hair Contrary?

Is it inclined to run away? Don't punish it with a cruel brush and comb! Feed it, nourish it, save it with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Then your hair will remain at home, on your head, where it belongs. An elegant dressing. Keeps the scalp healthy. Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's

We certainly believe this, or we would not say so. Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, is a great preparation for the hair and scalp. Stops falling hair. Cures dandruff. Promotes the growth of hair. —Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.—

HABITS OF THE HEDGEHOG.

Destroyer of Cockroaches—How He Gets the Better of Adders.
The hedgehog, that butt of juvenile rustic horseplay, is the possessor of tastes which, like Sam Weller's knowledge of London, are "extensive and peculiar." Scorning fastidiousness it can make a hearty meal of nearly any insect and is one of the few vertebrates which can tackle the repulsive cockroach. For effectual extermination of beetles and crickets it is as useful as a mongoose among the rats, but it is not generally known that it has a partiality toward snakes and adders. The methods it employs for the attack are interesting.

Having come upon the adder it goes that reptile to the offensive and at the first dart immediately rolls into a ball, the Edinburgh Scotchman says. The adder is then left to attack the spine, in which encounter it naturally comes off second best. After a little, when the hedgehog feels that his antagonist has exhausted his power, it once more opens out and makes a bite at the adder's back, thereby breaking its spine. It then proceeds to crunch the whole of the reptile's body by means of its powerful jaws, and after that it is said to start at the tail and devour its prey. Of eggs the hedgehog is also very fond, thereby giving just cause to keepers and farmers to destroy it on sight.

Cases have been known where hedgehogs actually forced the hen pheasant off her nest and then proceeded to demolish the contents. There is a tradition among country people to the effect that the hedgehog will suck the milk from cows, who certainly show strong aversion to the hedgehog, but eminent naturalists scout the idea, their explanation being that it is the heat of the cow which attracts the hedgehog, the cow's dislike being no doubt caused by unpleasant contact with the prickly spines. Hedgehogs are invulnerable to most of their enemies except man, although the wily fox has been known to get the better of them occasionally.

Legal Information

When it is a general rule that a discharge of the principal releases the surety, it is held, in Gates vs. Tebbetts (Neb.) 119 N. W. 1120, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1,090, that an exception to the rule exists when one becomes surety for a married woman, minor or other person incapable of contracting.
That a public official who has collected fees under statutory authority in violation of the constitution cannot be compelled to turn them over to the state, where the legislature has made no provision therefor, is declared in state ex rel. McNary vs. Dunbar (Ore.) 98 Pac. 878, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1,015.

The plaintiff in a suit for malpractice who fully describes his injury and the operation to which he was compelled to submit because of the defendant's alleged failure properly to care for it, is held, in Capron vs. Douglas, 193 N. Y. 11, 85 N. E. 827, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1,093, to waive the statutory privilege of excluding from evidence the testimony of the surgeon performing the operation.

If any officer whose duty it shall be to summon a jury or to select and summon talesmen when the regular panel of jurors has been exhausted, shall be guilty of unlawful, partial or improper conduct in selecting or summoning such jurors or talesmen, he is held, in United States vs. Hargo (Okla.) 98 Pac. 1,021, 20 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1,013, to commit an act of gross contempt of court and to be punishable for such conduct.

Not Aptly Worded.
An absurdly worded statement of a fact which was not in itself remarkable recently tried the gravity of the listeners. It was on the occasion of the funeral of an elderly woman in a New England town. She had left an old mother, nearly ninety years of age, and an only son who was well on toward fifty.

The services were conducted by a timid young clergyman recently settled over the parish. After praying for many and various things he said: "And two we especially pray that the Lord will comfort and sustain in their loss and sorrow. One is the orphan, who, although no longer young, is an orphan still and must so continue. The other is the mother, far advanced in years, who has survived her daughter, although considerably her senior."—Youth's Companion.

A Remarkable Discovery.
The efficacy of the old-fashioned household duties as means of physical development is again hinted at by this bit from Success:
"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely!" exclaimed an enthusiastic young miss just home from college. "Look! To develop the arms I grasp the rod by one end and move it slowly from right to left."
"Well, well!" exclaimed her father. "What won't science discover next! If that rod had straw at the other end, you'd be sweeping."

It is every woman's opinion that the way to make wives more saving is to turn over all the money into their keeping.

No one can lay claim to being genuinely old fashioned who doesn't use hair oil.

Trees Brought Rain.
In lower Egypt rain fell very seldom. During the French occupation, about 1789, it did not rain for sixteen months, but since Mahomet Ali and Ibrahim Pasha completed their vast plantations—the former alone planted more than 20,000,000 olive, fir, cotton, acacia, plane trees, etc.—there now falls a good deal of rain.

To-Day and To-Morrow.
Happy men are full of the present, for its bounty suffices them; and wise men also, for its duties engage them. Our grand business undoubtedly is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand.—Edward FitzGerald, "Polonius."

Injury Done by Mosquitoes.
Before the draining and diking of England and Holland, mosquitoes, malaria, chills and fever were as bad as in our Southern States to-day. Undiked and undrained, neither of these countries had risen to its place in history, but had been balked by malarial degeneration.
