What might have proved to be a serious runaway, occurred here Wednesday afternoon of last week, when a large gray team belonging to Campbell, Stroud & Co. had been left standing in front of their market, and becoming frightened, ran away, and on their course down the street ran into a horse and buggy which contained Mrs. Fanny Barton and her youngest son, Clarence. Both were thrown out upon the frozen ground, but escaped with only a severe shaking up and a few scratches. The buggy was entirely demolished, but the wagon was only slightly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Kelley of Madras have been guests at the Poindexter Hotel the past week.—Tom Stroud was up the first of the week from Madras. Tom has bought a half interest in a butcher shop at Madras and is enjoying a first-class trade.—G. M. Cornett, who with W. A. Booth and W. H. Cadle recently completed a tour of northern Mexico, returned to Prineville the first of the week, having decided that Oregon is good enough for him. The other two gentlemen accompanied him back as far as California, where they are now with their wives.—Prineville Review.
