FROM PRINEVILLE JOURNAL

Thomas Alderdyce of Culver was in town last week. He expects that section to make great strides in progress and in the increase in the market value of real estate during the coming year.

G. Springer of Culver came over Tuesday to get the silver cup and ribbons won by Crook county at the Billings dry farming congress last fall. The trophies will be placed on exhibit at Madras for a time so that people in search of homes can see what this country can do when thrown into competition against all comers.

R. V. Jenkins from the Opal Prairie country was in town Monday. He started from home with a load of wheat but the roads were so muddy he had to leave his load on the way and proceed with a light rig. Ranch property is changing ownership very fast in his part of the country.

Price Bros., who last fall conducted the sale of a bankrupt stock in Prineville, have returned and will open a permanent store in the same quarters occupied by them at that time. The store will be opened March 15. This building is now undergoing preparations for the new stock.
