WOOL SALES AT SHANIKO

Shaniko, Or., June 7.—Nineteen lots of wool were sold today, aggregating 470,000 pounds ranging in price from 14 1/2 to 16 3/4 cents.

The high price was paid by T. W. Brigham to R. R. Hinton for 77,000 pounds. The heaviest growers did not offer their clips, preferring to hold for a better market.

The next sale in this city will occur on June 21, at which time more than 2,000,000 pounds will be in the warehouses.

The general impression is gaining ground among the growers that the price will be higher at the succeeding sales than today. Ten buyers were here from Boston and other Eastern markets, while only about 25 growers of the Wool Growers' Association appeared at the opening of the bids.

GAS AUTO EXPLODES

Explosion of the gas tank of a big touring car belonging to Fred Young, an Eastern Oregon retired rancher, caused a panic in the ranks of the sightseers who were watching the parade for a few minutes last night.

The last of the parade had just passed Sixth and Yamhill and thousands of people were flocking into the center of the street when the gongs of the fire apparatus rang out their warning. The fire engines dashed up the street through the crowds, but not a person was struck down. The fire in the automobile was soon extinguished, and the damage will amount to not more than $300.—Oregonian.

D. I. & P. CASE IN COURT ON NEW ISSUE

Attorney Jesse Stearns of the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Company, cast a good-sized bomb into the camp of the Ohio bondholders when he announced to Federal Judge R. S. Bean that his company would attract the whole proceedings in the Federal Court in respect to the receivership and the foreclosure of first mortgage bonds held by Ohio men, says the Telegram. Mr. Stearns declared that his attract would be based upon citizenship questions. He said he had authorities which would prove that the Federal Court has now jurisdiction of this case, and that it should be sent to the state courts.

A receiver has already been appointed by the Federal tribunal, and this official has taken charge of the property, and has been making orders of disbursement, pursuant to directions of the federal judge. Transferring the case to the state courts would mean that the entire hearing would have to be taken up again, and the issue as to whether a receiver should be named would be up to the state judge. If he decided to appoint a receiver, he would have the power to name another than the one chosen by the Federal Court, and determine upon policies and all matters relating to the litigation instituted by the Ohio bondholders. Briefly, a decision now that the Federal Court has no jurisdiction would completely upset proceedings that have been many months under way, and carry a measure of consternation to the complaining interests.

Attorney Stearns raised the citizenship issue in his answer to the first bill of complaint filed. But all other issues were put aside by the arguments for and against a receiver. As a condition preliminary to proceedings, the Ohio bondholders demanded that a receiver be named by the court to take charge of the property in litigation. Months were spent in this bitter struggle, the first request being denied, and a later petition being favorably acted upon by Judge Bean. Engineer Redfield was named by consent of both parties, and has since been in charge of the property, administering it under the Federal Court orders. Now the case is coming on to be heard on its main issues, and one of the first points has been made on jurisdiction.

If the trustees' citizenship is to govern, rather than the citizenship of the bondholders for whom it acts, the state courts get the case. But if the bondholders' citizenship governs, the present Federal Court jurisdiction is absolute.
