ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP LOST IN STORM

Disabled Motor Makes Craft Helpless Against Gale.

Ship Lands on Tree Tops and is Badly Damaged-Passengers Reach Ground on Rope Ladder.

Dusseldorf, Germany-Count Zeppelin's passenger airship Deutschland, the greatest of all the famous aeronaut's models, lies in the Teutoburgian forest pierced by pine trees, a mass of deflated silk and twisted aluminum. The 33 passengers and crew aboard the airship when it struck the pines after a wild contest with a storm, escaped uninjured, climbing down from the wreck on a rope ladder

Herr Colesmann, general manager of the new airship company; Chief Engineer Duers, of the Zeppelin ship, and Charles Wannenberg, who had charge of the crew of 10, and 20 newspaper men sailed from Dusseldorf for a three hours' excursion.

In the high wind one of the motors refused to work and the other two did not give sufficient power to make any headway in the gale. The airship drifted, swaying in the violent gusts and sometimes leaning at an angle of 40 degrees. All the while the enginemen were at work repairing the disabled motor. When this was done all four screws were driven at their full power. Under normal conditions the engines were capable of driving the airship at a speed of 46 miles an hour, but the helmsman was unable to keep his course and the great craft was swung about at the mercy of the winds.

Colesmann did not dare to come about, for fear of overturning, and decided to drift with the gale toward Osnabruck, also a garrision. He then decided to continue on to Senne.

Suddenly he perceived a whirlwind coming, and ascended to a height of nearly 4,000 feet to avoid the center of it. With the whirlwind came a heavy downpour of rain. After half an hour the Deutschland came down to permit observations and it was seen that the Teutoburgian forest lay below. The forward motor stopped again and Colesmann sent five of the correspondents to the aft gondola to ballast the vessel.

The Deutschland sank rapidly, having lost much gas in the high altitude, and dragged along the top of the dense forest. A heavy branch of a tree broke through the bottom of the cabin amidships, throwing two of the guests to the floor. Other branches ripped through the gas compartments and the whole great structure settled down 30 or 40 feet from the ground.
